HONOLULU JURY BEGINS DEBATE OF MASSIE CASE

Judge Orders Separate Verdict for Each of 4 Defendants.

GOLDEN RULE CITED IN PLEA OF DARROW

Kelley Demands Conviction After Giving Verbal Lashing to Officer.

Honolulu, April 27 (A.P.).—Twelve men of varied racial origin tonight began deliberating the fate of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and three other persons charged with second degree murder in the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai.

Freshly impressed on their minds were the pleadings of Clarence Darrow, who asked for vindication of the quartet accused of killing the young native for vengeance, and the fiery words of Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley, who demanded conviction after giving Massie a verbal lashing and asserting all Hawaii was on trial in the case.

Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis instructed that it was necessary for the prosecution to have proved the defendants, Massie, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two Navy enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, killed Kahahawai and also that they had intended to kill him in order to justify a second degree murder verdict.

Would Be Held Guilty.

Judge Davis ruled, however, that it would be unnecessary for the prosecution to have shown the defendants intended to kill the native if it had shown the defendants entered into an agreement to commit a criminal act, of which the slaying was a reasonable consequence.

The court ruled that if the defendants conspired, on January 7 last, the day before the slaying, to kill the native suspected of having attacked Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the naval officer, or had conspired to threaten him with a pistol or kidnap him, and as a result of such conspiracy Kahahawai was slain, all were guilty of murder or manslaughter, even though one of the defendants was insane when he shot him.

This ruling referred to the defense contention that Massie, who admitted firing the shot, had a sudden attack of insanity the moment he stood before the native with a pistol and heard Kahahawai supposedly admit the attack on his wife.

Separate Verdicts Ordered.

The jurors were instructed that if they found Massie killed Kahahawai and was insane at that time, and if they believed Massie had not planned the killing, then they could not find any of the defendants guilty unless the prosecution had proved the defendants had conspired to do things in which a reasonable consequence would be Kahahawai's weath.

Judge Davis told the jury that if

Democrats Also Favor McFadden

Nomination by Two Parties Appears Assured by Vote Returns.

Towanda, Pa., April 27 (A.P.).—Representative L. T. McFadden, who won the Republican nomination to succeed himself in Tuesday's primary, also has won the Democratic nomination.

On the basis of incomplete returns tonight it appeared that his majority over C. K. MacDonald, of Bloomsburg, will be about 2,000. McFadden's majority over Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot for the Republican nomination will be about 4,000 in the district. In commenting on his victory, McFadden said:

"It is a victory for American principles and clean government, and for the control of American resources by the American people."

$5,000,000 Is Voted For New York Relief

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Father Knickerbocker dug down in his pockets once more today to help his unemployed. Mayor James J. Walker announced $5,000,000 in serial bonds had been voted to carry on relief work until August 1.

The mayor said this would make a total of $81,000,000 spent by the city for relief since September, 1930.

Smith Demonstrates Unexpected Strength

Former Governor Claims 76 Convention Votes in His Column.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith, estimating he had gathered in a total of about 76 Democratic national convention votes in the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries yesterday, puffed on a cigar today and said:

"Well, I guess that will put a chock under the bandwagon."

He smiled as he fingered a sheaf of congratulatory telegrams and added:

"This is going to make a difference to a lot of fellows who otherwise might have climbed right aboard the bandwagon thinking there was nothing else to do."

"Just what further effect will these results have in stopping Gov. Roosevelt's nomination?" he was asked.

"It is a little too early to say definitely exactly what has been ac-

Tuesday Primaries Show 'Stop Roosevelt' Fight Will Increase.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The battle to "stop" Franklin D. Roosevelt will go on, and with even greater zest. Whatever chance the New York Governor had to foreclose the presidential nomination in advance is gone, swept away in Tuesday's Democratic primaries.

Regardless of how the returns from Massachusetts and Pennsylvania are interpreted, two facts stand out:

First, Alfred E. Smith is far stronger than he was believed to be.

Second, Roosevelt is, as charged, weak in the East.

On the Republican side the nomination of Herbert Hoover for a second term was definitely written down in advance.

The President needed 578 delegate votes to clinch the nomination yesterday. He had 575 when Kentucky

BILLION-DOLLAR STEEL COMBINE PLAN REVEALED

Five of Nation's Largest Independent Firms in Proposal.

EARLY NEGOTIATIONS BEING LED BY EATON

Republic and Youngstown in Project, but Bethlehem Is Excluded.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Negotiations looking to a $1,000,000,000 merger of five of the largest independent steel corporations in the United States were disclosed yesterday when Department of Justice officials acknowledged that the project already has been brought to the attention of Federal authorities.

As tentatively outlined by representatives of Cyrus S. Eaton, of Cleveland, the new project contemplates the fiscal consolidation of the Republic Steel Corporation, Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, Inland Steel Corporation, and the American Rolling Mills Co. of Middletown, Ohio.

The plan also contemplates the retirement of the existing Bethlehem interest in the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

$1,000,000,000 Corporation.

If the five-company plan is approved, the gigantic new corporation would operate properties whose combined assets are slightly more than $1,000,000,000, with a combined ingot capacity of 16,000,000 tons a year, or about two-thirds of the present capacity of the United States Steel Corporation.

The official interest of the Department of Justice appears to center at the moment, not in the financial details of the projected combination, but rather in the fact that should the deal be consummated the new unit plus the United States Steel Corporation would command approximately 45,000,000 tons in annual ingot capacity, out of a total of 66,000,000 tons in the entire United States.

If to the 45,000,000 tons is added the present capacity of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, the "big three" in the industry would command, under the proposed new lineup, 54,000,000 tons of annual ingot capacity leaving only about 12,000,000 tons a year for all the remaining independents, which number some 200 companies.

Although the present negotiations are a development of the dramatic

HOOVER URGES TAX REDIVISION AS BUDGET AID

BALANCING IS VITAL, PRESIDENT DECLARES

Again Pleads for Economy and Consolidation, and Attacks Waste.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover returned to the White House at 5:45 p. m. yesterday after addressing the governors' conference at Richmond, Va.

He left the train at Alexandria, Va., and motored into the Capital.

Richmond, Va., April 27 (A.P.).—President Hoover today urged before the conference of governors a redistribution of taxation, the necessity for reduction in Federal, State and local expenditures and balanced budgets in all units of government.

"That is the sure highway toward national recovery," the President said. "But to accomplish these things we must have the intelligent support of the people themselves, that selfish vested interests and vested habit do not, by their organized sectional and group oppositions or individual action, defeat these high purposes."

The President spoke to a huge throng, which packed the auditorium of the John Marshall Hotel, and before departing he greeted a dozen or more of the governors who heard his address.

"Very good speech, Mr. President," said Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, leading candidate for the Democratic nomination as he shook hands with Mr. Hoover off the platform. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, also came forward to greet the President.

Excepts Maryland.

A few minutes later, however, in an address before the conference, Gov. Ritchie said President Hoover spoke as if States could be classified together, and that he desired to except Maryland from such classification.

"I can't speak for others, but I want to read Maryland out of any such classification," Gov. Ritchie said. "We have a budget system which puts the responsibility on the governor to submit a budget and a budget which balances. We have a balanced budget and we do not need to establish our financial integrity."

President Hoover said there was "absolute necessity" for reduction in governmental expenditures, and that

Senate Unit Broadens Base of Income Taxes

Finance Committee Approves Highest Levies Since World War; 3 Per Cent Sought Upon First $4,000; House Rates Exceeded.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

The Senate finance committee yesterday "broadened the base" of the income tax and approved the highest income taxes since the World War on persons of comfortable incomes.

The committee voted to increase the levies on large incomes, too, approving an increase in the surtax maximum from 40 to 45 per cent, but rejected a proposal by Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, to tax incomes of $1,000,000 and over 65 per cent.

There was more than solicitude for the rich, however, in the committee's rejection of the Couzens' proposal, because that would have slapped wartime taxes on the small as well as the large incomes.

The rates approved by the committee were proposed by Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi. They were: 3 per cent on the first $4,000; 6 per cent on the next $4,000; 9 per cent on all above $8,000. The present rates are 1½ per cent, 3 per cent, and 5 per cent, respectively. The "soak the rich" House approved rates of 2, 4 and 7 per cent, respectively.

The committee approved the exemptions carried in the House bill. These were $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons. The present law exemptions are $1,500 and $3,500.

The action, if approved by the Senate and accepted by the House, will mean not only that persons of moderate incomes will have to pay much larger sums in income taxes next year but that there will be not less

'GAG' DEFEATED, VOTE IS 185-97 ON AMENDMENT

70 Per Cent of Workers Would Escape Slash Under Plan.

FURLOUGH IDEA SEEN AS LIKELY TO LOSE

Saturday Half-Holiday Will Come Up for Action Soon After Noon Today.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The House salary-slash handicap got off to a surprise start last night when members decisively voted to cut no Federal salaries under $2,500.

The vote came on a substitute amendment offered by Representative Fred A. Britten (Republican), Illinois, following eight hours of acrimonious debate on the economy committee's $200,000,000 retrenchment program.

If the amendment stays in the bill, Government workers' pay will be cut 11 per cent, with $2,500 exemption, displacing $1,000 exemption proposed by the economy committee.

This will reduce savings under the bill from $200,000,000 to $145,000,000, Appropriations Chairman Joseph W. Byrns said. Approximately 70 per cent of all Federal workers are removed from the sweep of the economy ax by the action.

Sudden Adjournment.

Sudden decision to adjourn was reached when members, unsympathetic toward the retrenchment program, prepared to vote on another amendment to save Saturday half holidays for Government workers. The adjournment saved $9,000,000 more in economies from being stricken from the bill.

This vote will be the first order of business when the House convenes at noon today. Only one cloud loomed ahead for Government workers cheered by last night's unexpected turn. The enforced Federal furlough plan remains to be offered as a substitute for the program approved.

Although pay cut opponents considered it unlikely in view of last night's action that a furlough plan exacting $82,000,000 from Federal workers would be substituted in its stead, the threat still remains.

Representative Britten's $2,500 exemption proposal superseded an amendment offered by Representative John J. O'Connor (Democrat), New York, boosting the economy committee's $1,000 exemption to $2,000.

"Gag" Is Defeated.

Earlier yesterday the House had shaken off "gag" rule shackles, throwing the omnibus savings bill wide open to amendments. The "gag" was eliminated by a viva voce vote that was so emphatic no division was called.

Galleries were packed with Federal workers at last night's special session, and hundreds stood in the halls. Once they burst into applause during Representative Connor's pay cut

WIMBLEY CONVICTED IN SECOND DEGREE

Verdict Carries Sentence of 20 Years to Life; Same for Crowder.

A District Supreme Court jury yesterday convicted Harry C. Wimbley and John M. Crowder of murder in the second degree for the planned drowning of Wimbley's wife in the C. & O. Canal on September 17, 1931.

The verdict was a compromise, arrived at after several of the jurors held out for first degree murder for Wimbley, and was delivered to Justice James M. Proctor after the jury had deliberated 22½ hours. The verdict carries with it a sentence of from twenty years to life.

Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins has not decided whether he shall prosecute the charge of murder against the men for the alleged killing of Mrs. Wimbley's daughter, Wilma Traylor, who was drowned at the same time.

In the cell under the jury room where his fate was decided, Wimbley said: "It's the damnedest verdict I ever heard in my life. It should have been first degree or acquittal. The jury shouldn't have been instructed on the second degree at all."

Crowder, who stood next to him behind the barred doors, said: "If we were dirty enough to commit a murder like that we deserve to die, and it ain't over yet. Any one who would commit a crime like that should be electrocuted or turned loose. If nothing happens, I am going to appeal."

Wimbley had no objection to the

King Suffers Relapse; Cancels New York Talk

He has been ill for some time with grippe.

ARMS PARLEY FAILS AS BIG FIVE DISBAND

Meeting Scheduled for Tomorrow Canceled When Tardieu Reports Illness.

Geneva, April 27 (A.P.).—Another hope for early conciliation of the differences between France and Germany, which would pave the way for the success of the World Disarmament Conference, collapsed today with the cancellation of the "big five" parley scheduled for Friday.

Premier Andre Tardieu of France telegraphed that an attack of laryngitis made it impossible for him to attend. As soon as his message arrived, arrangements to go home were made by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening.

The Secretary of State expects to quit the city Friday. Wednesday he will sail for the United States on the liner Vulcania.

Col. Stimson is known to be greatly disappointed at the outcome of his European trip. He had hoped to be able to assist in a Franco-German agreement that would remove the most stubborn obstacle in the path of real progress in disarmament.

But, although disappointed, he felt that his Geneva visit was not wasted, as it gave him first-hand knowledge

Mourners at Funeral Surprised by "Corpse"

Scranton, Pa., April 27 (A.P.).—Everything was arranged today for the funeral of Ivan Tiffany, 25, a farmer of Elk Lake, when the "corpse" walked in on the mourners. Tiffany supposedly had died in a farm fire last Sunday. Bones found in the ruins were placed in a casket.

Tiffany explained to his startled wife, three children and the neighbors today that he ran away when the fire started and had been wandering about since in the woods. The bones found were those of a sheep.

Kentucky's G. O. P. To Support Hoover

Administration Is Lauded by Morrow and Lucas at State Session.

Louisville, Ky., April 27 (A.P.).—Kentucky's 25 votes in the Republican national convention were formally pledged late today to President Hoover and Vice President Curtis.

Praise of the Hoover administration, defense of its acts and prediction of victory marked the address of former Gov. Edwin P. Morrow, temporary and permanent chairman of the State convention. Laudation of the Hoover administration by Robert H. Lucas, of Louisville, executive director of the Republican national committee, was coupled with an attack on Franklin D. Roosevelt, leading Democratic candidate for the Presidency, whom Lucas referred to as a "demagogue."

Boy, 12, Saves Life Of Gassed Father

Finds Parent Overcome in Garage; Prompt Action Effective.

The 12-year-old son of Frank E. Dudley, 36 years old, of 4430 New Hampshire avenue northwest, returned home from school late yesterday afternoon and heard the motor of his father's automobile running in the garage under the house. The boy, Joseph, decided his father was working on the car and ran down to help him.

His spirit of helpfulness saved Mr. Dudley's life. Joseph found his father unconscious under the car. He had been overcome by carbon monoxide gas. Joseph threw the garage doors open and called the fire rescue squad. Mr. Dudley was soon revived and remained at home.

JAPAN OPENS MAJOR DRIVE UPON REBELS

10,000 in Manchurian Push; Tokyo Agrees to Truce at Shanghai.

Harbin, Manchuria, April 27 (A.P.).—The Japanese army, whose conquest of Manchuria made possible the establishment of the new Manchoukuo government on March 9, opened a major offensive today in an effort to save that government from being consumed by the revolt flaming through the northern and eastern districts.

Three Japanese brigades, numbering perhaps 10,000 men, are participating in the movement. Their objective is to disperse rebel forces estimated at 20,000, concentrated east of Harbin along the Chinese Eastern Railway and the lower Sungari Valley.

The plan of the Japanese commander, Lieut. Gen. Hirose, is to pinch the rebels between two columns.

Maj. Gen. Murai's brigade already is in the region of Imienpo and Hengtaohotze, on the eastern section of the railway, and he is ready to push to the north toward Fangcheng and Sanshin on the Sungari.

Maj. Gen. Yoda's brigade, recently in the Chinchow district, is moving eastward along the Chinese Eastern Railway, with orders to join Gen. Murai.

While these two press upward from

Former Informer Shot 100 Times and Lives

Canton, Ohio, April 27 (A.P.).—Harry Bouklias, former underworld "informer" and reporter for the Ohio Examiner, a weekly newspaper fighting crime conditions, was shot from ambush early today.

More than 100 shotgun slugs were pumped into his body as he crouched behind a chair on the front porch of his home. He was just entering the house when two men opened fire, but he seized the chair in time to save his life. Physicians said he was in a "fair" condition tonight.

MART UNIT PROBING SHORT SALES SCOPE

Brokers Will Give Data on Practice; Secret Senate Program Mapped.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—The business conduct committe of the New York Stock Exchange today took action to determine if short selling is confined to a small group of speculators, or is now indulged in by the general public.

There are some brokerage authorities who contend that for the first time in history, the general public now understands the intricacies of selling stocks short and has participated freely in this form of speculation during the past year or more.

An order of the busines conduct committee directed that all stock exchange firms supply it with information, as of April 30, disclosing "the total number of accounts in which there is a short interest" and also "the number of such accounts in each State of the United States and in each foreign country."

While officials of the stock exchange declined to comment on the latest order, which must be complied with "as soon as possible but in any event not later than May 7, 1932," several brokers interpreted the instructions as an effort to determine whether short selling has been confined to a small clique.

So much has been said and written about short selling, some said, that the general public does not feel today that the intricacies of short selling offer any great mystery. Consequently, the rank and file of stock

30-Day Stay Is Granted Fleet, Due to Die Today

Richmond, Va., April 27 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard today granted a 30-day stay of execution to Lawrence Fleet, Baltimore youth sentenced to die in the electric chair at the State penitentiary here tomorrow for the murder of W. F. Keller, Winchester merchant, on the night of January 16.

Prince Georges Indicts 4 Officers and Deputy's Son

Two Constables Charged With Malfeasance and Two Other Officials and Young Garrison Are Linked to Hijackings; McBride Warrants Ignored.

The name of another Prince Georges County constable, H. E. Hodges, of Laurel, was added last night to the list of three county officers indicted by the grand jury just before its closing session.

Others who were indicted included two constables from the lower end of the county, also charged with malfeasance, and a deputy sheriff and the son of the chief deputy, charged with hijacking.

It is understood that the charge against Hodges connects him with a recent hijacking near Laurel, and that Federal dry agents collected the testimony on which he was indicted. The other hijacking charge is against Deputy Newton James and Thomas V. Garrison, who are said to have asked a Washington bootlegger for $250 for the release of a load of liquor they had captured.

The malfeasance charges against Harry Sweeney, of Piscataway, and William Hendley, of Oxon Hill, are based on accusations that they accepted pay from the operator of a dance hall at Sunnybrook for police protection. Constables, under the Maryland law, are not allowed to take money from private persons for their law-enforcement activities. Sweeney and Hendley say that they did not know of the law, and that they did not ask for the money which was given them.

The grand jury ignored warrants charging H. G. Jackson with the murder of Barney McBride, and charging Temple Bigga with being an accessory. The two men were released from jail yesterday morning, where they had been held without bond. Bigga, however, still faces trial of a liquor charge against him. He was convicted of possession in police court several months ago, but appealed the verdict.

The body of McBride, Oklahoma oil man, was found in a culvert near Meadows, Md., nearly ten years ago.

$225,000,000 U. S. Issue Is Oversubscribed Tenfold

(Associated Press.)

Efforts of financial interests to obtain a share of the $225,000,000 3 per cent loans to be sold next week by the Treasury brought an oversubscription of ten times the total sought.

Secretary Mills announced last night that total subscription of the 3 per cent two-year notes, which will be dated May 1, was $2,496,428,700, and that the subscription for the $225,000,000 of 2 per cent one-year Treasury certificates was $1,699,868,000.

The total subscription of the two issues to be sold May 2 as the part of the Treasury's $1,500,000,000 borrowing program for the current fiscal year was $4,196,296,700.

The huge oversubscription was not regarded as unusually significant by officials, because it was known that many financial interests seeking to obtain a part of the unexpectedly small total of the two issues had padded their subscriptions several times to get the amount they wished.

The condition which made notes and certificates popular were first, their comparatively short term, and second, the fact that Federal Reserve banks now are buying securities, releasing cash for which investment was sought.

The issue of securities is part of the Treasury borrowing program which is expected to total $1,500,000,000 between January 1 and June 30.

Path Cleared of Obstacles, Norfolk Mediators Assert

Admiral Burrage Gives Most Definite Indication of Progress in Weeks as Curtis Returns From Contact With Lindbergh Kidnaping Band.

Norfolk, Va., April 27 (A.P.).—A path freed of a "number of obstacles" stretched tonight before a trio of Norfolk men toward their objective of recovering the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Cheering news that progress had been made was brought back today by John Hughes Curtis, contact man for the negotiators, from a secret mission to make contact with kidnapers of the baby or their representatives.

"At this time," it was announced through the spokesman, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, "we can state we have overcome a number of obstacles that have stood between us and our objective."

The statement was the most definite indication in several weeks that the intermediaries were progressing with their negotiations. Recent announcement concerning their trips were limited to information that contact had been renewed or that conferences were held with Col. Lindbergh.

Mr. Curtis, who conferred with Admiral Burrage and the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock shortly after his return to the city today, would give no information concerning the details of his trip. He appeared haggard and it was evident that he was suffering from fatigue and loss of sleep.

The Norfolk boatbuilder, who left on his trip Sunday night, refused to say how he returned to the city. He is presumed to have traveled at least part of the time aboard the yacht Marcon, which left its dock in Little Creek Sunday afternoon. A previous trip, believed to have been interrupted by rough weather, was made by Mr. Curtis aboard the Marcon to some point out to sea.

During the absence of Mr. Curtis several mysterious plane flights were made from the Naval Air Station dur-

GOV. CROSS URGES DRY LAW REMOVAL

Says Tariff Revision Would Help Return Prosperity; Discussions End.

Richmond, Va., April 27 (A.P.).—Adjustment of the high tariff schedules and removal of national prohibition as important steps toward the return of prosperity were urged today by Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, of Connecticut, before the conference of governors.

"Prohibition," he said, "is an obstacle that must be removed because of its devastating effect, both economic and psychological.

"The tariff of 1929 was regarded by the Nation as a declaration of economic need and war is upon us High protective tariffs have been set up by these nations, and in some instances embargoes. France, Germany, Spain, Italy and Canada on one side and the United States on the other."

The vigorous arraignment of the tariff and prohibition came in extemporaneous remarks which Gov. Cross made at the conclusion of a prepared address, in which he asserted the doctrine of lavish governmental expenditure as a promoter of economic prosperity has proven unsound in theory and a fallacy by experience of recent years.

His remarks were commended by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland in the open forum discussion.

"Lavish public spending as a new theory appeared on the horizon several years prior to "the crisis of 1929," Gov. Cross asserted.

The formal program of discussions of State problems came to an end at an executive session late today at which Gov. Norman Case, of Rhode Island, was reelected chairman of the executive committee, and California selected as the State for the 1933 conference. Gov. Harry Woodring, of Kansas, was chosen a member of the executive board to succeed Gov. Caulfield, of Missouri, whose term expired. Former Gov. Cary Hardee, of Florida, was named secretary and Gov. Wilson, of Vermont, secretary-treasurer.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, tonight delivered the Bicentennial address in honor of the two-hundredth anniversary of George Washington. Tomorrow the governors will visit the tomb of Washington's mother at Fredericksburg and the tomb of the first President at Mount Vernon before going to Washington for a dinner at the White House.

Mooney Sympathizers Lose Plea at Richmond

Richmond, Va., April 27 (A.P.).—A group seeking to make a protest against the Tom Mooney decision in California and the Scottsboro, Ala., criminal attack case was denied privileges of the floor today at the annual conference of governors here.

Gov. Norman Case of Rhode Island presiding at the conference, pointed out that privileges of the floor are extended only by invitation, and that the conference is not a legislative body to receive petitions. He said no rights of the group were denied and that its members had the same rights as other citizens to listen to the discussions, but not to take the floor.

Frederick R. Greller, of Philadelphia, representing the international labor defense and spokesman for the delegation, was authority for the statement that they desired to protest aganst the Tom Mooney and Scottsboro cases.

Gov. Rolph and Hoover In Conference on Train

Richmond, Va., April 27 (A.P.).—James Rolph, jr., Republican Governor of California, President Hoover's home State, held a ten-minute conference with the Chief Executive aboard his special car here today just before the President returned to Washington.

Rolph, chairman of California's delegation to the Republican national convention, met the President upon his arrival to address the governors' conference here and returned to the train with him.

Adams Would Shut Gulf Navy Stations

Secretary Urges Group in House to Give Hoover Disposal Power.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Adams told the House naval affairs committee yesterday that only naval shore establishments on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts can be closed without "detriment to the needs of the fleet."

The Secretary of the Navy was appearing on a resolution of Chairman Vinson, of the naval affairs committee, to authorize the President to close, sell or lease any shore stations held unessential by the Navy head. Mr. Adams said:

"It is believed that the facilities at New York, Philadelphia, and in the Hampton Roads area for the maintenance and the supply of the fleet are in general all that are at present required for this purpose and for a limited amount of new construction, and that without undue reduction in naval efficiency the remaining fleet facilities on the East Coast can be closed."

Tariff Bill Granted HouseRight-of-Way

Would Take From President Right of Changing Duty Rates.

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic tariff bill to transfer from the President to Congress the power to raise or lower duties, yesterday was given legislative right of way by the House rules committee. It will be considered by the House probably this week.

The rules committee approved the Crisp resolution to have the House accept the Senate amendments to the measure, which was passed by the House in January.

The bill provides that the tariff commission report to the President for transmission to Congress any needed changes in the tariff. Only Congress would have the power to change the rates.

Text of President Hoover's Address To Governors at Richmond Conference

Richmond, Va., April 27 (A.P.).—The full text of the President's address at the governors' conference here follows:

I am glad to accept your invitation to meet with the chief executives of the States. We are alike facing great emergency problems of government. We are confronted with maintaining the financial integrity of the Government, State, Federal, county and municipal.

We, all of us, are struggling to reduce the cost of government. We are struggling to avoid national, State and municipal borrowings. Our tax revenues have all greatly diminished.

We must find new tax revenues to supplant those sources which have been dried up by the depression, so far as our deficits can not be made up by drastic reductions in expenditures. We must resolutely balance our budgets.

Economic Safety.

The economic safety of the republic depends upon the joint financial stability of all our governments. That stability of the Nation is to be attained not alone by the financial stability of the Federal Government. It lies equally in the financial integrity of every State, county and municipal government. As executives we are charged under our constitutions with the duty to recommend methods and measures to our Legislatures to these ends. I know of no more difficult task. Yet the foundations of recovery of business, of employment and of agriculture depend upon the success of our efforts and the efforts of our legislators.

You are meeting here to consider many phases of these questions. It is to urge the national aspect of our continued State and local financial problems as well as our Federal issues and to discuss some measures of cooperation that I have accepted your invitation to address you today.

A few figures will assist us in considering the cost of government and the extent to which it has increased in the last 20 years, although all such figures are but approximations and have many different bases of calculation. For purposes of illustration I have taken the year 1913 as the last year to reflect prewar conditions, the year 1924 as far enough removed from the actual war years to fairly indicate the trend, and 1930 as the last year for which figures are available.

Table of Expenditures.

Expenditures, including debt retirement from surplus were approximately as follows:

Federal—1913, $70,000,000; 1924, $4,100,000,000; 1930, $4,200,000,000.

State—1913, $400,000,000; 1924, 1,400,000,000; 1930, $2,300,000,000.

Local—1913, $1,850,000,000; 1924, $5,400,000,000; 1930, $7,500,000,000.

Total—1913, $2,000,000,000; 1924, $10,900,000,000; 1930, $12,200,000,000.

Our outstanding debt was approximately:

Federal—1913, $1,000,000,000; 1924, $21,300,000,000; 1930, $16,200,000,000.

State—1913, $300,000,000; 1924, $1,100,000,000; 1930, $1,800,000,000.

Local—1913, $3,500,000,000; 1924, $8,000,000,000; 1930, $12,600,000,000.

Total—1913, $4,803,000,000; 1924, $30,400,000,000; 1930, $30,600,000,000.

The causes which have led to this extraordinary increase in expenditures and debts are familiar. They include the burden on the Federal Government imposed by the war. This accounts for nearly $2,000,000,000 of annual expenditures and for most of the increase in the debt. You will observe that outside of the war influence our greatest increase in costs of government lie in local and municipal agencies.

Increase in Population.

In all our governments, however, Federal, State and local, enlargement of expenditure and of debts has been caused in part by the increase in population, the rise in commodity prices and wages; by the improvement and new building of roads, streets, waterways and airways, imposed on us through the development of the internal combustion engine, and by the growing sense of social obligation to improve education and to enlarge activities in behalf of welfare and relief.

In addition, I regret to say, increase of Government expenditure and of debt has been caused by sectional and group demands and by a large expansion of national, State and local ventures into business—most of which we perform in a most costly manner. Just as the methods and practices in private business and living have had to be overhauled in this emergency, so also must we overhaul the methods and practices of government.

Today we are clearly absorbing too great a portion of the national income for the conduct of our various branches of government. Using the most reliable figures available, it appears that before the war the total cost of our national, State and local governments represented only about 8 per cent of our national income. In boom times, when we might hope that the national income would increase more rapidly than the cost of government, nevertheless the cost of government actually increased to such an extent that it represented approximately 15 per cent of the national income, of which less than 3 per cent was directly due to the war.

Today, with the falling off of business, the aggregate expenditures of national, State and local governments probably represent more than 20 per cent of the national income.

Before the war theoretically every man worked 25 days a year for the national, State and local governments combined. In 1924 he worked 46 days a year. Today he works for the support of all forms of government 61 days out of a year. Continued progress on this road is the way to national impoverishment.

Some of the expenditures in government can be reduced by postponement of less urgent matters, some by permanent elimination or curtailment of functions and activities which have been created over the last 50 years in response to the desire for expanded service by the community. These expanded services are some obsolete but many of them meritorious. But every executive is confronted by the fact that they are established by law and can only be reduced by authority of new legislation.

There has been also the growth of useless duplication and waste. Many of you have already pointed out and are today struggling to reduce the multiplicity of local governments. Many of these administrative units have been rendered obsolete by improved communications and transportation. In the Federal Government we have likewise a large number of functions which should be grouped and consolidated.

In an emergency these weaknesses become more apparent and public attention to government and taxes offers opportunity for their revision. We can not restore economic stability in the Nation by continuing to siphon so large a part of private effort into the coffers of the Government. Its abstraction from the people stifles the productivity, the consumption and the recovery of employment.

Nor can we hide our heads in the sand by borrowing to cover current Government expenses, for thus we drain the capital of the country into public securities and draft it away from industry and commerce. Thus a dominant national necessity is to reduce the expenditures of all our governments.

Consolidation in Activities.

This is not only the need, it is the universal demand.

I know that every dollar of decrease in expense, every plan of consolidation in governmental activities, touches some sensitive spot where it causes pain and resentment. While the people as a whole demand and applaud these endeavors toward economy, in the large the complaints and threats of sections and groups greatly impede the concrete efforts of all executives and legislators.

As a result one of the difficulties that all executives face is the tendency to secure reduction of expenditures at the cost of those services necessary to protection of life, property, defense, and other vital functions rather than to reduce those items which excite the political interest of special groups.

Another of our difficulties is to arrange our reductions of expenditure so as not to work undue hardship upon a vast group of public employes and to be careful that, while we strive on one hand to assist the unemployed by public works, we do not add to the pool of unemployed through dismissal of large numbers of equally deserving public servants.

I am in hopes that in the Federal Government we can compass the need of reduced expenditure and at the same time, by introduction of shorter working time for each employe, can give all of them a living, can maintain to them the assurance of recovery of the standards of American life and can avoid the inhumanity of thrusting them upon the local communities for support against destitution.

The other side of our problem is taxation. It confronts all of us in four phases.

First, the need for ultimate reduction in the tax burden.

Second, the need, in the existing emergency, for new forms of taxation to replace those sources of revenue which have failed us under present conditions insofar as we can not possibly offset the whole loss of public income by reduced expenditures.

Third, the great problem of duplication in the tax field between Federal, State, and local governments.

Fourth, reorganization of the tax basis so as to secure a more just distribution of the tax burden as between the various groups of taxpayers.

Decline in Tax Receipts.

Our problem in tax reduction would be a simple equivalent of our savings in expenditures if it were not for the drastic decline in tax receipts—Federal, State and municipal. This decrease has been of serious dimentions because tax sources, particularly for the Federal Government, and to a lesser extent State and municipal governments, are dependent upon business activity, upon profits and income.

The revenues of the Federal Government have diminished over 50 per cent, and this mainly in one group—the income taxes. And in result the contract obligations alone of the Federal Government exceed our tax income.

As a result of the decreased income all of our governments, national State and municipal, are frantically searching for new sources of taxation in this process we are too often duplicating taxes upon the same sources.

No matter how we disguise it with names such as "excise," "luxury," or "sales," the result is the same, the national, State and municipal governments are competing with each other for revenue from business activities. We are all seeking further revenue from business activities.

While the National Government imposes no direct taxes on real property, the State and local governments are all pressing upon each other in taxing it. This same real estate indirectly bears in part the taxation which the Federal Government lays on profit and income. It all reflects in the rent.

All these cross purposes contribute to economic duress. The many provisions of multiple taxation may vary so much that a taxpayer coming under several jurisdictions may find himself paying an wholly unreasonable amount for the support of government. The tax levies of the various taxing authorities all constitute a burden on the national income, and in times of depression, when the relative weight of that burden is increased, lack of coordination in the system becomes a matter of prime importance.

Disproportionate Part.

One of the taxes which is responsible for a disproportionate part of the hardship of our present tax system is the general property tax. While the National Government imposes no such tax, the State and local governments rely heavily on it for revenue. The taxes upon real property are the easiest to enforce, and are the least flexible of all taxes.

The tendency under pressure of need to continue these taxes unchanged in times of depression, despite the decrease in the owner's income, places undue drag upon that segment of the community in which real estate is the chief property item. Decreasing prices and decreasing income result in an increasing burden upon property owners both in rural and urban communities, which is now becoming almost unbearable.

"The tax burden upon real estate is wholly out of proportion to that upon other forms of property and income. There is no farm relief more needed today than tax relief for I believe it can be demonstrated that the tax burden upon the farmer today exceeds the burden upon other groups.

Renewed Examination.

"With view to making a suggestion that may be timely to this subject—that is, the conflict between methods of taxation in different segments of government and consideration of the whole question of distribution of the burden of taxation, it seems to me urgent that we should, all of us, through our financial officers give renewed examination to this subject in the light of conditions today and by exchanges between them reconsider the possibilities of the whole problem of better coordination, greater simplicity, and, above all, better adjustment of the burdens among our people.

Gentlemen, the purpose of my address is to express a desire for greater cooperation and coordination of our mutual problems. Just as you are meeting here today to develop helpful action out of common experience, I take the liberty of suggesting to you that similar conferences and examination of problems by the executives of your local governments in each State would be productive of useful results.

It would help toward a realization that local expenditures and taxes are a part of a great national problem in stability as well as one of local concern. It would contribute to their resolution to bring about constructive economy and cooperation.

We, as executives, all agree upon the absolute necessity in the interest of the Nation as a whole of reduced expenditures, of better distributed taxation, of balanced budgets. Our town councils, our county commissions, our State legislatures, and the Congress agree upon these fundamentals. That is the sure highway toward national recovery.

But to accomplish these things we must have the intelligent support of the people themselves, that selfish vested interest and vested habit do not, by their organized sectional and group oppositions or individual action defeat these high purposes.

Especially do I take this occasion to pay tribute to the courage shown by our public officials, both executive and legislative, in these problems. Their task is no light responsibility. This duty offers no rosy path to popularity. Rather, it is one to invite the anger of established interests. With the utmost care that can be exercised by the executive officers and the legislators throughout the Nation, and with the utmost good will, it is bound to cause individual hardship and to grieve the friends of many worthy causes.

Nevertheless, the duty inexorable and its discharge rests inescapably upon all public officers. The final results will redound to the general public benefit.

Therefore, I say to the public:

Be patient, be helpful, recognize the complexity and the difficulty of the problem before these servants of your combined public interest.

Support them in their task, for upon its successful conclusion depends a most momentous contribution to our united security, our hope of an early return to stability and the common welfare of every man, woman and child in our Nation.

TAX REDISTRIBUTION URGED BY PRESIDENT

"the economic safety of the republic depends upon the joint financial stability of all of our governments."

"Today we are clearly absorbing too great a portion of the national income for the conduct of the various branches of government," the President said. "Today, with the falling off of business, the aggregate expenditures of national, State and local governments probably represent more than 20 per cent of the national income."

Land Tax Reduction.

Theoretically, the President said, a man works 61 days in the year for the support of government.

Turning to tax revision, the Chief Executive urged governors to give thought for reduction in taxes on land which he asserted was bearing more than its just proportion of the cost of government.

"The tax burden upon real estate is wholly out of proportion to that upon other forms of property and income," he declared. "There is no farm relief more needed today than tax relief, for I believe it can be demonstrated that the tax burden upon the farmer today exceeds the burden upon other groups."

He asked for greater cooperation and coordination in solving mutual problems. To this end he suggested that governors might call conferences of local officials to consider local difficulties. Lack of coordination among all governments, he said, was resulting in often duplicating taxes upon the same sources.

Contribute to Duress.

"All these cross purposes contribute to economic duress," President Hoover asserted. "The many provisions of multiple taxation may vary so much that a taxpayer coming under several jurisdictions may find himself paying a wholly unreasonable amount for the support of government."

In conclusion, the President praised the courage shown by public officials during the last three years, and he asked the public to support them in their task, for upon its successful conclusion "depends a most momentous contribution to our united security, our hope of an early return to stability, and the common welfare of every man, woman and child in our Nation."

The President left the hall within a few minutes after his address and entered a waiting automobile to go immediately to his train. He was cheered as he arrived and as he left, but missed a part of the city's reception on his arrival by taking a route other than the prescribed line of march. Gov. William G. Conley of West Virginia introduced the President to his audience as a man, who, "during his public career has been equal to every occasion and has shown himself great in every emergency."

W. & L. Ballot Favors Roosevelt

Baker Is Second at Mock Democratic Session of Virginia School.

Lexington, Va., April 27 (U.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be the Democratic candidate for President in 1932, if the usual prophecy of Washington and Lee University students is correct.

Roosevelt was nominated on the ninth ballot at a mock Democratic convention today after Newton D. Baker, on the eighth ballot, had shown amazing strength, when California, Louisiana and Texas swung their votes to the New Yorker's side.

In four out of five mock conventions, the Washington and Lee "conventions" have foretold the actual course of history, and unofficial observers from both parties were present today to watch the balloting.

Waterway Congress Sets Meeting for June 13-14

(Associated Press.)

Representative Reid, of Illinois, president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, yesterday announced a special session of the organization would be held at Chicago on June 13 and 14.

He said in a statement the purpose of the meeting "is to formulate plans to resist organized efforts which threaten seriously to impair or perhaps cause the abandonment of the entire national system of waterways." Mr. Reid added that resolutions would be drawn for presentation to the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

ROOSEVELT LEADING PENNSLYVANIA VOTE

Is 20,000 Ballots Ahead of Smith; Davis Is Victor Over Butler.

Philadelphia, April 27 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt amassed a 20,000 lead over Alfred E. Smith tonight in the Pennsylvania presidential preference, as returns from two-thirds of the 8,181 districts were chalked up.

The vote from 5,917 districts gave: Roosevelt, 93,128.
Smith, 73,012.

Hours after the polls closed last night, as Philadelphia returns gave Smith a 9,000 advantage, the two New York Democrats stood almost even.

Today, however, the tallies from rural districts sent the Roosevelt vote soaring.

The outcome of the battle for the State's 76 votes in the Democratic national convention still was undetermined. Late tonight returns on only 37 of the 68 district delegates were available.

Roosevelt managers claimed 25 of the 37 and conceded Smith the other 12.

Claim 20 of 37.

Smith backers claimed 20 of the 37, leaving Roosevelt the other 17.

The uncertainty arises over the many categories into which the candidates for the convention positions were put.

Some ran definitely committed to vote for Roosevelt or Smith at Chicago.

Others agreed to abide by the outcome of the preferential in their individual districts.

Others stated they would not abide by the preferential and became virtually uninstructed delegates. In this class, however, were some who had leanings toward one candidate or the other.

Then the situation was further complicated by the fact that virtually all of the Roosevelt-pledged candidates were so confident they agreed to abide by the preferential in their districts. In the event the preferential went for Smith in their bailiwicks, they would be pledged to vote for Roosevelt, but committed, at the same time, to vote for Smith.

Not Legally Binding.

Any agreement to abide by the preferential, however, is not legally binding.

In addition to the 68 District delegates, Pennsylvania will have delegates-at-large with a strength of eight votes.

Four candidates assured of such berths comprised a "harmony slate" indorsed by both the Smith and Roosevelt factions, but pledged to abide by the preferential.

In the fight for the remaining places, four Roosevelt-pledged candidates were all ahead of the four who favored Smith. The average for the Roosevelt men, with 3,566 districts heard from, was 46,000, while their opponents trailed with an average of 31,000.

Senator James J. Davis was running nearly two-to-one in his race with Smedley D. Butler for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Davis, who came out recently for prohibition modification, campaigned with the aid of the Vare-Martin organization. Butler, a dry and a retired Marine officer, attacked the organization and was supported by Gov. Pinchot.

Pinchot Slate Losing.

In this contest, 7,312 districts reported: Davis, 817,919; Butler, 468,178.

With Davis, the organization established its entire State ticket well in the front of the Pinchot candidates. State Senator Frank E. Baldwin practically doubled his vote over that for Ralph E. Flinn, the Pinchot entry for auditor genefal. Judges William N. Parker and Robert S. Gawthrop, together with former Lieut. Gov. Arthur H. James, led the six-candidate race for the party's nomination for three judges of the superior court. Judge Albert Stadfield, incumbent Pinchot appointee, ran fourth.

Gov. Pinchot, conceding the defeat of his candidates, attributed the reverse to "one of the unexplainable eddies in the current of popular opinion, which upset all calculations." The "dry stay-at-homes," who failed to turn out to support the bone-dry Butler candidacy, represented another vital factor, he said.

Mrs. Pinchot Defeated.

Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the governor, shared the family political setback. Defeated by Representative T. McFadden for the Republican nomination from the rural Fifteenth District, she joined her husband in acknowledging the triumph of her opponent.

"People did not seem as anxious to send me to Congress as I was to go," she remarked. Incomplete returns showed her trailing the congressional critic of President Hoover's international finance policies by about 4,000 votes, twice the margin by which she lost to McFadden four years ago.

Senator Davis, who abandoned his previous dry stand to advocate a prohibition referendum, said his victory over Butler showed "that it pays to play fair in public as well as in private life. I refrained from dealing in personalities. To resort to such methods * * * is a sign of weakness."

Curran Hails Victory Of Davis Over Butler

(Associated Press.)

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said yesterday, "The decisive defeat of Butler in Pennsylvania breaks the back of prohibition in the strongest Republican State in the Union."

"Butler is a bone-dry Pinchot product," Curran said in a formal statement, "and the campaign was fought on this issue. Dry leaders said that the Pennsylvania contest would be the crucial fight for prohibition. I thought so, too.

"Now what are the Republicans going to do about it? It is time for some people to watch their step. Two years ago Hemphill, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, lost that Republican State by less than 1 per cent of the total vote."

Canadian Budget Approved.

Ottawa, Ont., April 27 (A.P.).—The annual budget was approved by the Canadian House of Commons today with a majority of 36 after a liberal amendment had been defeated by 46 votes.

Flier in Montreal for Havana Hop.

Montreal, Quebec, April 27 (A.P.).—Lou Reichers of Arlington, N. J., flew here from Newark, N. J., today to get set for a 1,768-mile flight to Havana tomorrow.

JAHNCKE, IN ALBANY, ASSAILS ROOSEVELT

Attacks His Tariff Stand in Appeal for Reelection of Hoover.

Albany, N. Y., April 27 (A.P.).—A severe attack on Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's St. Paul speech was loosed here tonight by Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, during a fervid plea for the reelection of President Hoover.

Mentioning Roosevelt by name in the governor's own bailiwick, the Cabinet member referred to Roosevelt's assault on the Republican tariff as a familiar "song and dance" by the Democrats and added:

"Any one who tells you that he or his party will make drastic changes in our tariff law is either an Utopian free trader or an utter demagogue."

In his St. Paul address April 18, Gov. Roosevelt said, "To my mind a proper tariff policy must be a complete reversal of the methods of the present administration."

Addressing the Unconditional Republican Club of Albany, Jahncke also assailed an earlier statement by the leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination that the Reconstruction Corporation had aided only large banks and ignored the small ones.

"Such a seasoned campaigner as Gov. Roosevelt," he said, "should know the futility of false accusation and fraudulent indictment when the truth is at all times available to the public."

Records of the corporation, the speaker added, show that it had given assistance to 91 banks in Iowa, 21 in Alabama, 20 in Arkansas, 26 in Georgia, 18 in Louisiana, 14 in Kentucky, 39 in Missouri, 14 in Montana, 27 in Nebraska, 10 in North Dakota, 28 in Oklahoma, 15 in South Dakota, 46 in Washington, 30 in Virginia and "so on to a total of 582."

"Obviously," he said, "these banks are not the intrenched coffers of special privilege which your governor attacks, nor are their depositors the possessors of fabulous fortunes."

Roosevelt Lauds First President

Urges Nation to Follow in His Path in Address to Governors.

Richmond, Va., April 27 (A.P.).—Paying high tribute to "the Father of His Country," Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a Washington Bicentennial oration here tonight, said America now might well view again his honor, purity and unselfish devotion.

"At this hour, when the purposes of civilization are challenged, when unrest is apparent, when new problems and new valuations call for new leadership, it is well for America to view again the honor, the purity and the unselfish devotion of him who became the keystone in the making of the Nation, and who rightly won the imperishable title of 'Father of His Country,'" he asserted.

The New York Governor delivered the oration at tonight's session of the national governor's conference, dedicated to the memory of Washington.

UNEXPECTED STRENGTH SHOWN BY SMITH IN PRIMARY TESTS

came through with 25 additional, sending his total over the 600 mark.

It is conceivable that had Gov. Roosevelt picked up four or five delegates in Massachusetts and had he smothered Smith in Pennsylvania, the leaders in the Democratic party would have talked it over and decided to let him have the nomination without a struggle.

But no such capitulation seems likely now. Certainly none on the part of Al Smith, the pivot of the "stop Roosevelt movement."

"I guess that puts a chock under the bandwagon," said Al in New York.

Smith was expected to win in Massachusetts. Everything there favored him. The State has a tremendous Catholic population. Regular Democratic leaders like Senators Walsh and Coolidge were for him, and an intensive campaign was carried on in his behalf.

Even the Roosevelt people expected Smith to win, but certainly they did not expect him to win in such a smashing fashion. They thought that they at least might pick up five or six delegates. As it was, Smith beat Roosevelt by a 3-to-1 vote and made a clean sweep of the 36 delegates.

In Pennsylvania Roosevelt was far and away the favorite. There were some places in the State, so it is reported, where the Smith people did not even put up a fight. The Roosevelt managers predicted that Smith would be "slaughtered."

Exact Totals in Doubt.

Roosevelt won all right, but not according to predictions. It was far from being a slaughter. In the popular preference vote, Smith showed surprising strength.

Just how the 76 delegates were apportioned was a moot quested last night, clouded by the conflicting claims of politicians. In the end it might not make much difference any way, for Pennsylvania delegates, not being instructed, are notoriously slippery at a convention.

Not counting those he gained in Pennsylvania, Al Smith now has 36 delegates—37 if you count the "Independent Democrat" in the Wisconsin delegation who is for him.

To this nucleus he expects to add 16 in Connecticut, 32 in New Jersey and 10 in Rhode Island. And then he is going after the greatest prize of all—the 94 of New York.

Smith Task Difficult.

There is no chance of Smith himself winning the nomination—at least, there seems none right now—so that whatever delegates he lines up will be useful only as a bar to Roosevelt. To block Roosevelt he must pool his own delegates with those of favorite son candidates and with those that will be uninstructed. He must line up a third of the convention, or 383.

Admittedly the task is going to be a difficult one. Roosevelt now has more than 300 delegates in his bag, and there are plenty more in sight.

On paper, as a matter of fact, there has not been much of a change in the situation. Roosevelt still is out in front; he still is the favorite.

Reports of 'Slush Fund.'

The only thing of significance that has occurred is this: Roosevelt, by failing to run as well as was expected, has lost his chance to make the opposition surrender, and his foes, encouraged by Smith's showing, are determined to oppose him now with even greater vigor.

Senator Clarence C. Dill, of Washington, who, along with Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, is a pioneer Roosevelt-for-President man at the Capitol, was obviously disappointed yesterday. He said he was "surprised" at the showing made by Smith.

At the same time, Dill said he had received reports that a slush fund was being gathered in New York to defeat Roosevelt. He said he understood quite a bit of money was spent in Philadelphia, and that it was planned to spend more at the convention in Chicago.

Wants Campaign Inquiry.

Dill said he would attempt to have the Senate adopt the Dickinson resolution calling for an investigation of expenditures in the presidential campaign. This resolution yesterday was approved by the audit committee, which authorized an expense fund of $25,000 for the proposed investigating committee.

Dill's charges—or rather, his echoing of charges—follows a statement attributed to "Alfalfa Bill" Murray to the effect that the Roosevelt people spent $50,000 in Nebraska. Later Murray denied he made such a statement.

The smashing victory of Senator James J. Davis over Gen. Smedley Butler in Pennsylvania was hailed by the wets here, while friends of President Hoover were obviously pleased by the all-round beating administered to Gov. Pinchot's candidates and policies.

Wets Discern Warning.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, had this to say:

"The decisive defeat of Butler in Pennsylvania breaks the back of prohibition in the strongest Republican State in the Union. Butler is a bone-dry Pinchot product and the campaign was fought on that issue.

"Dry leaders said that the Pennsylvania contest would be the crucial fight for prohibition. I thought so, too.

"Now what are the Republicans going to do about it? It is time for some people to watch their step. Two years ago, Hemphill, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, lost that Republican State by less than 1 per cent of the total vote."

Just how the administration felt about the result in the Fifteenth Congressional District of Pennsylvania is conjectural. The candidates were Representative Louis T. McFadden, who last winter accused President Hoover of "selling out" the country, and Mrs. Cornelia Pinchot, whose husband, the governor, is a bitter foe of the President. McFadden won.

AL SMITH, ELATED, CLAIMS 76 VOTES IN CONVENTION

complished," said the governor's former political ally. "It will take several days for the effect to sink in and then we can begin to hear from the people and know more about it."

Although the former governor had spent most of the night in his skyscraper office getting election returns, he was in a jovial mood.

Commenting on the slowness of returns from the Pennsylvania presidential preferential he said:

"I guess they're so interested in tabulating local Republican fights they haven't paid much attention to this friendly disagreement between a couple of humble Democrats."

Roosevelt Backers Claim 57.

His estimate of 76 votes, which would leave Gov. Roosevelt only 36 new votes as a result of yesterday's balloting, was made up of the 36 he won in Massachusetts and 40 in Pennsylvania.

He said his information from the latter State was that he had 32 for sure and was likely to get eight more, not including delegates-at-large, who have eight votes.

The former governor explained he was counting on a number of Pennsylvania delegates who were unopposed and who are claimed by Roosevelt, but who, Smith said, are not actually lined up with the governor.

Meantime, at the Roosevelt headquarters the following claim was made regarding Pennsylvania's 76 convention votes:

Certain for Roosevelt, 57.
Doubtful, 11.
Definitely lost, 8.

These figures give Smith two of the delegates-at-large.

200 Smith Votes Claimed.

While Smith said the presidential preference vote did not seem to be decisive enough to mean anything, Roosevelt's campaign managers predicted the governor would have a lead of 20,000 to 30,000 when the tally had been completed.

Smith's associates were convinced, on the basis of yesterday's showing, that the "Happy Warrior" will have 200 votes on his side when the convention opens.

They were claiming New Jersey, Connecticut and Rhode Island, and were optimistic about Vermont and California.

Late in the day Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, who took issue months ago with Roosevelt on the matter of uninstructed delegates to the convention, conferred with Smith. He said the visit was a routine weekly one in the interests of the victory fund campaign. John J. Raskob, chairman of the national committee, also conferred with Smith during the day.

James A. Farley, who has been helping to direct the Roosevelt campaign, characterized the Smith victory in Massachusetts as fulfillment by the Massachusetts Democratic organization of an obligation to Smith "for the very splendid and effective work he did in the gubernatorial election two years ago." He said he still was convinced it would be "Roosevelt on the first ballot."

Smith Gets All in Bay State.

Boston, April 27 (A.P.).—The banner of Alfred E. Smith, implanted so firmly in Massachusetts in 1928, still waved over the Bay State's Democracy today as complete presidential primary returns showed a 3-to-1 victory for Smith over Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The entire Smith slate, including twelve delegates at large and two delegates from each of the fifteen districts, was victorious. As a result, Masssachusetts will send 36 Smith votes to the Chicago meeting.

All except one of the State's 34 votes in the Republican convention were pledged to President Hoover. The lone dissenter is William F. Whiting, of Holyoke, successor to Hoover as Secretary of Commerce in the Coolidge Cabinet and a close friend of the former President. Whiting ran unpledged in a three-cornered fight against two Hoover-pledged men and led both of them.

The only other bit of color in the Republican voting was a contest involving prohibition in the Ninth Congressional District. There two antiprohibitionists were elected. They were Mayor Sinclair Weeks, of Newton, son of the late John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, and State Representative Albert F. Bigelow. Each was Hoover-pledged.

Roosevelt Delegates Are Leading in Alaska

Juneau, Alaska, April 27 (A.P.).—With returns in yesterday's primary election from 17 of 54 precincts in the first division, the election to the Democratic national convention of the six delegates pledged to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the Territorial convention, seemed assured.

J. J. Connors, Democratic candidate for national committeeman, pledged to Roosevelt, headed the ticket with 540 votes. George Grigsby, former delegate to Congress, headed the delegate race, closely followed by A. K. Ziegler and A. J. Dimond. No returns had been received from other divisions.

Philadelphians Claim Smith Bought Votes

Philadelphia, April 27 (A.P.).—The charge that supporters of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith spent "a bag of boodle" to win delegates for him in this city was made today by County Commissioner John O'Donnell and Registration Commissioner Thomas E. McDermott.

The two officials, who are supporting the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Rosevelt, announced they will contest the election of Smith delegates in several of the seven congressional districts.

Senate Audit Committee Approves Proposal for Inquiry.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate audit committee yesterday reported favorably the Dickinson resolution ordering a Senate investigation of presidential and senatorial campaign funds and leaders prepared to seek its early adoption.

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, told newspapermen of reports of "excessive expenditures in yesterday's Pennsylvania primary," and urged the Senate inquiry.

The audit committee cut down from $50,000 to $25,000 the amount to be expended by the committee. Senator Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, the author of the resolution, said he would ask early Senate action on it.

FANTASTIC PENSION PROJECTS REVEALED

Hoover Vetoes Bill Benefiting Men Dishonorably Discharged.

(Associated Press.)

The questioning scrutiny which awaits legislation increasing payments to veterans at the White House was demonstrated yesterday by President Hoover in plainly stated reasons for vetoing a pension bill.

The measure was not important, including 367 items for special pensions and increases in allowances to veterans or their widows. For one reason or another some of the cases did not come within existing laws and the Chief Executive in sending the bill back to the House said some of the items were good but many others were bad.

"Most of these undeserving cases," he said in his veto message, "have been previously rejected by the Pension Bureau as having no sound basis upon which to construe any obligation in equity for the granting of special benefits."

Strange Pension Reasons.

He then enumerated some of them. Included was a proposed pension for a man discharged because of chronic alcoholism; a pension for another dishonorably discharged for drunkenness and "conduct prejudicial to good order;" three proposed pensions for men dishonorably discharged for desertion; two cases where pensions were sought for men whose injuries were the result of attempted suicides; two proposed pensions to widows whose husbands served only eight and nine days, respectively, and with no disability" relating to the service, "and a case where a man was shown to have been guilty of malingering by taking soap pills to aid him in appearing anemic."

Lack of Inquiry Criticized.

Several other cases were in the list cited by the President and he said:

"I could add other instances, but it seems to me that even this number, which appears neither to have law nor equity to justify them, warrants a revision of the bill, and that a larger dependence should be placed upon reports which are easily obtainable from the pension service."

The veto arrived at the House just after members of the ways and means committee had heard Secretary Mills and others express bitter opposition to the proposal for a bonus payment to veterans.

The Chief Executive served notice he will veto that bill also if it should pass the House and Senate.

President Exposes Strange Pensions Congress Granted

The text of the President's message vetoing the pension bill yesterday follows:

To the House of Representatives:

I am returning without approval H. R. 9575 entitled "An act granting pensions and increase of pensions to certain soldiers and sailors of the regular Army and Navy, and so forth, and to certain soldiers and sailors of wars other than the Civil War and to widows of such soldiers and sailors."

The bill contains a total of 367 items establishing special pensions and increased allowances to persons who have not been able to comply with the general laws. The bill contains many meritorious cases and a just recognition of their equities which can not be reached under these laws.

I regret exceedingly, however, that I must withhold approval of the bill because of the number of cases which I do not deem worthy of public bounty. Most of these undeserving cases have been previously rejected by the Pension Bureau as having no sound basis upon which to construe any obligation in equity for the granting of special benefits.

As I do not wish to reflect upon any individual, I cite some instances in the bill without mentioning names, the facts as to which have been furnished to me by the Government agencies. And I may state that these are only examples and do not include the whole of the list which I believe would be excluded if the matter were reconsidered by the Congress. Such instances comprise:

A proposed pension for a man who was courtmartialed for drunkenness and conduct prejudicial to good order, sentenced to six months confinement, and whose conduct during confinement was so bad that he was finally discharged without honor for the good of the service.

A proposed pension to a widow whose claim was filed five years after the death of the veteran, and upon call having been made for evidence of legal widowhood, claimant abandoned her claim for a period of 25 years. A recent investigation indicates claimant was never the legal wife of the soldier.

A proposed pension to a man guilty of desertion and dishonorably discharged.

A proposed pension to a man shown to have been a deserter, to have been punished by confinement and discharged without honor.

A proposed pension to a man for self-inflicted injuries incurred in attempted suicide.

A proposed pension to a man who was tried for desertion, convicted of absence without leave, and honorably discharged, having been found to have been mentally deficient, a condition that antedated his enlistment. There was no disability relating to service on which Federal pension should be granted.

A proposed pension for a widow whose husband gave eight days service, with no disability relating to the service.

A proposed pension to a man who still suffers from a wound in the throat, self-inflicted with a razor, with no disability relating to the service.

A proposed pension for loss of a leg as the result of being struck by the fender of a street car while claimant was lying on the track in a completely intoxicated condition.

A proposed pension to a widow whose husband had only nine days' service in a State militia, for which reimbursement was made by the United States; no disability relating to service being found.

A proposed pension to a man who spent most of his service in the hospital and was discharged without honor because of diseases not contracted in line of duty; was shown to have been guilty of malingering by taking soap pills to aid him in appearing anemic and was recorded to have remarked that he knew "how to play it and proposed doing it as long as he could." His physical condition was not the result of service.

A proposed pension to a man discharged without honor because of diseases not contracted in the service in line of duty, his condition not being one upon which Federal benefits should be based.

I could add other instances, but it seems to me that even this number, which appear neither to have law nor equity to justify them, warrants a revision of the bill and that a larger dependence should be placed upon reports which are easily obtainable from the pension service.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR $1,000,000,000 MERGER OF STEEL FIRMS BARED

effort of Charles M. Schwab to consolidate the Bethlehem and Youngstown interests some two years ago, the new plan is understood not to include Bethlehem.

On the other hand, the arrangement recently presented to the Federal authorities is predicated on the assumption that Bethlehem will continue in approximately its present status, to make the third gigantic integrated unit in the steel industry.

To accomplish this, however, it would be necessary for the independents to obtain control of the present Bethlehem interest in Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

The extent of this interest today is not known, but it is believed to be considerable, since stockholders of the Youngstown corporation voted in 1931 to give Bethlehem a sales option, which only the spectacular fight of Cyrus S. Easton, as leader of the Youngstown minority, prevented.

The drastic decline in steel operations since a permanent injunction of an Ohio court prevailed against the Youngstown-Bethlehem merger last October has served, however, to put an entirely new face on the matter of physical consolidations in the steel industry. All of the units which figure in the new Eaton venture have suffered sharp declines in earnings, and even the strongest of the independents, along with the United States Steel, are off a dividend basis for the common stocks.

Because it is the policy of Attorney General William D. Mitchell not to give blanket approval to contemplated mergers; it is improbable that the new combination will be formally passed on by the Department of Justice.

It is not unlikely, however, that attorneys for the several corporations may secure an informal expression from the department on the legality of their plan, when it is in final form.

Would Watch Workings.

Even in the event of such tacit approval, the department would continue to keep an eye upon the progress of the merger, first to protect the public interest against monopolistic actions and secondly to insure against any joint action in the future between the new "big three" which might constitute restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman law.

The following tabulation indicates the annual rated ingot capacity of the five eorporations which are reported to figure in the new combination:

| | Tons. |
|---|---|
| Republic | 4,968,000 |
| Jones & Laughlin | 3,420,000 |
| Youngstown | 3,120,000 |
| Inland | 2,000,000 |
| American Roll | 1,902,000 |
| Total | 15,410,000 |

The comparable capacity of the United States Steel Corporation is 27,841,000 tons, and that of Bethlehem, 9,540,000 tons. Thus, should the merger be achieved the combined ingot capacity of the new "Big Three" would aggregate 52,791,000 tons a year out of a total capacity of 66,068,570 tons throughout the United States as of January 1, 1932.

Although attaches of the Department of Justice declined last night to reveal the precise form of the merger proposals before them, it was learned in official quarters that the private negotiations already have advanced to the stage of direct exchanges between Eaton and Charles M. Schwab regarding a possible settlement of the Bethlehem interest in Youngstown.

This step was necessarily the first, advocates of the merger assert, because of an informal understanding that no Federal sanction could be given a merger involving Youngstown so long as that unit was heavily involved in Bethlehem finances.

Six Show Returns.

A factor pointing to further integration of the steel industry in the near future was found in official tabulations of the 1931 earnings of the 20 principal independents, only 6 of which showed a positive return on the capital investment for the year. None of those which figure in the reported five-way merger was listed among the six earners for 1931.

As of January 1, 1932, Bethlehem reported a net capitalization of $70.44 per ton of rated ingot capacity. Youngstown's comparable figures was $71.43; Inland's, $52.82; Jones & Laughlin's, $56.60; Republic's, $52.81, and American Rolling Mills, $56.06.

Total assets of the independents which figure in the new consolidation project, as of December 31, 1931, were reported as follows:

|---|---|
| Bethlehem | $706,820,776 |
| Republic | 290,621,255 |
| Jones & Laughlin | 206,296,895 |
| Youngstown | 236,024,088 |
| Inland | 115,586,981 |
| American Rolling | 143,785,233 |

MILLS AND MEYER SCORE BONUS PLAN

Warn of Inflation Dangers in Testimony Before House Committee.

(Associated Press.)

Two administrative financial experts accustomed to counting dollars in millions and billions yesterday heaped invective and ridicule upon plans for cashing the soldiers' bonus.

Secretary Mills stood before the House ways and means committee for 90 minutes uncompromisingly assailing proposals for making the $2,400,000,000 bonus payment in what he called "dishonest dollars—printing-press money."

Milder in manner, but no less earnest, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, testified that "currency tinkering" would rock world confidence in the United States.

Warn on Inflation.

Both men, officers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and spokesmen for the administration, praised Congress for the program approved this session, but warned that currency inflation would be an economic departure courting ruin.

After the hearing Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, leading bonus sponsor, said in a statement that Mills and Meyer "are the gold dust twins," forming with Andrew W. Mellon and J. P. Morgan four M's, representing "mortgages, misery, misfortune, and malfeasance."

Both Mills and Meyer were certain business confidence was returning, but warned Congress' arbitrary tampering with the currency would be a long step backward.

The Treasury Secretary read a prepared statement against the bonus, but spoke so vehemently that his voice grew husky with the force of his delivery.

Cites Treasury Position.

"The financial position of the Government is not such as to permit the Treasury to meet this demand," Mr. Mills said. "The proponents of this measure fully recognize that the cost can not be borne by legitimate means.

"They would discharge what they state to be a solemn obligation of the United States Government, not by raising funds through taxation, not by drawing on the public credit, not by payment of an honest dollar, but by setting the printing presses to work printing dishonest dollars.

"Destroy confidence and you dry up credit and paralyze enterprise. No measure was better calculated to destroy confidence than the one now before you. Enact it into law and you will stifle all hope of an early economic recovery and write the most lamentable chapter in American financial history.

"There is no shortage of currency. Pumping currency into a dead business world would be an absolutely futile thing; it would come right back the next day."

Meyer's Statement.

Meyer, who will take the stand again today, began by indorsing Mills' statement and explaining that the double burden of Reserve Bank and Reconstruction Corporation work had not allowed him time to prepare a statement.

"Prompt action on emergency measures this session has set up Congress as a body able to meet unusual needs," he said. "But this proposal to inject new currency in the guise of a bonus payment is a departure from the previous steps Congress has taken. If it is sound, these other actions are unsound.

"Today, while we have our worries, the people of the world have more confidence in the United States than in their own countries or all the others together.

"One thing sure to endanger that confidence would be tinkering with the currency of the United States. There is nothing so ruinous to the trade of a country, internally and externally, as violent inflation of the currency.

"There is no country that has tried inflation that does not abhor it as the devil does holy water."

Georgian DeniesCharges He Sold Appointments

(Associated Press.)

G. F. Flanders, nominated as marshal for the Southern District of Georgia, yesterday denied before a Senate judiciary subcommittee charges that he was unfit for the office, and that he had been involved in the sale of postmaster appointments.

Senator Stephens (Democrat), Mississippi, chairman of the subcommittee, said he expected the group to report to the full committee within a week or ten days.

Continental Shares Receivership Is Off

Action Delayed by Court; Domination by Eaton Charged in Suit.

Baltimore, April 27 (A.P.).—An order rescinding the day-old receivership for Continental Shares, Inc., Cleveland investment trust, incorporated in Maryland, was signed today by Judge H. Arthur Stump in circuit court. The new order called for appointment of a receiver unless cause to contrary is shown by May 9.

Judge Stump signed the original order yesterday naming George L. Gugle, of Columbus, as receiver for the trust under $10,000 bond. The new order rescinded his appointment.

The order stated that on motion of attorneys for Continental Shares and on stipulation that the concern will not cause other receivership proceedings to be instituted until the present case is disposed of, the receivership was vacated. While the order signed yesterday actually declared the concern in receivership, the new one calls for the naming of a receiver unless contrary cause is shown.

Gugle, who, according to the suit is the holder of 748 shares of Continental Shares, Inc., and is a member of the stockholders protective committee formed sometime ago, attacked operation of the investment trust and claimed it had been dominated by Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier and former chairman of its board, and that he had used it to further his personal financial dealings.

STONE URGES FUNDS FOR SALES ABROAD

Tells Committee in Senate Board Is Not to Blame for Price Decline.

(Associated Press.)

Credit expansion and funds to finance sale of Farm Board wheat and cotton abroad were advocated before the Senate agriculture committee yesterday by Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, as a means of diminishing farm troubles.

With the group sat representatives of the farmers' organizations—the National Grange, Farmers Union and Farm Bureau Federation.

Stone defended the board's actions, long a target of their criticism. To blame it for the decline in agricultural prices, while "all other prices have gone down in proportion," is unfair, he said. He asked that nothing be done to weaken the agricultural marketing act.

As the group prepared to continue its sessions today in search of a farm relief program, Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, in a formal statement, predicted that an agreement soon would be reached on the many proposals before the committee.

He expected approval to be given to the Federal Reserve Board's policy urging member banks to buy Government bonds with reserve notes, and said his opinion was the banks would be urged to increase purchases, now running around $100,000,000 weekly.

Indications were the committee would approve the resolution of Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, chairman, providing $100,000,000 from the Reconstruction Corporation to finance the sale of board wheat and cotton to foreign countries.

In indorsing this measure, Stone told the group inquiries already received indicate export sales of between 15,000,000 and 25,000,000 bushels of wheat, and from 500,000 to 1,000,000 bales of cotton could be arranged before the current crop year ends if the credit fund is provided.

Referring to the Federal Reserve program, Stone said if it is "courageously and steadily followed," it "should tend to check credit contraction, restore business confidence, improve business activity, increase employment and so lend to a gradual increase in commodity prices."

Cook County Pay Cuts Held Invalid by Court

Chicago, April 27 (A.P.).—Payless vacations and 15 per cent salary reductions effected last fall by the Cook County board of commissioners were ruled invalid by Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, jr., today. He ordered the money, about $850,000, refunded to the 3,500 county employes. Officials of the board said they would appeal.

Judge Taylor held the county board was without authority to reduce salaries of elected officials such as judges, or employes in fee offices, such as that of the sheriff, or to regulate pay of employes after appropriations had been set.

BANKHEAD DEFENDS HIS RIGHT TO SEAT

Indignantly Denies Charges of Heflin; Friends Foresee Victory in Vote Today.

(Associated Press.)

Raising his voice in the Senate for the first time, Senator John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, spoke out yesterday in vigorous defense of his right to the seat which he took nearly five months ago.

Indignantly and in angry tones, he told the Senate that his nomination and election in 1930 were legal and untainted by fraud.

He vehemently denied accusations leveled at him and his State's Democratic executive committee Tuesday, by his predecessor and defeated opponent, J. Thomas Heflin.

Five more hours of oratory in which other senators as well as Bankhead joined consumed the day and the Senate recessed without reaching a vote on the question of whether he is entitled to his seat.

Friends of Bankhead last night confidently predicted that his right to his place would be upheld in a roll call vote expected today.

Supporter by George.

In the battle of oratory and argument yesterday, Bankhead was emphatically supported by Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, while Senator Norris, veteran Nebraska Independent Republican, held that the seat should be declared vacant on the ground that the primary was illegal.

The picturesque Heflin, resplendent in black broadcloth and stiff-bosomed shirt, sat with a half smile on his face as Bankhead began his address. Later Heflin left the chamber, returning after his rival had concluded.

Galleries were not so crowded as Tuesday when Heflin, in a dramatic five-hour speech, contended and reiterated that he had been unjustly barred from the Democratic primary because he refused to support Al Smith for President, and then had been "robbed" in the election when he ran as an independent.

Denies Power Connection.

Speaking for an hour and a half, Bankhead took up wrathfully several of the statements made by Heflin in the address which the Senate, by special and unusual dispensation, allowed him to deliver, although not a member.

"I am not going to take the time to go into a discussion of the various facts involved in this case," Bankhead said. "I should be pleased to do so because every line of investigation of the case leads to the conclusion that there has been no fraud in the Alabama election."

His deep voice rose to a shout as he denied any connection with the Alabama Power Co.

"Possibly for prejudicial purposes," he said, "the Alabama Power Co. was brought into the discussion. • • • I've had no connection with the Alabama Power Co. in any way for the last eight or ten years."

(Associated Press.)

A statement by Heflin that he had a "lead" that money was spent against his candidacy for reelection through the office of Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, was described by the latter yesetrday as "wild vaporings of a defeated candidate."

Student Strike Demands Superintendent Resign

Kellogg, Idaho, April 27 (A.P.).—More than 300 Kellogg High School students went on strike today, demanding the resignation of School Superintendent Ira Tweedy. Students said Tweedy had been "unfavorable" toward Albert J. Graf, popular principal of the school. Neither man would comment on the strike.

Student sentiment, simmering several days, boiled over today when someone sounded the fire alarm, and only ten or fifteen students returned to classes. The balance paraded through town carrying signs, "Down with Tweedy!"—"We want Graf!"

Physician Blamed In Death of Coed

Prosecutor Charges Wife, 17, of Athlete Killed by Operation.

Oklahoma City, April 27 (A.P.).—Lewis R. Morris, county attorney, charged tonight an illegal operation performed by an Oklahoma City physician resulted in the death of Mrs. Frank Lee, 17, University of Oklahoma coed and wife of a university athlete.

Morris' statement came after investigation into deaths of Mrs. Lee and Virginia Lee Wyckoff, 21, of Norman, former university student. The two died shortly after they were admimtted to a hospital here.

The physician, Morris said, already is sought on a murder charge in connection with the similar death of another girl. He said little headway had been made in investigation of Miss Wyckoff's death other than that he had received information she died from a criminal operation performed by an Oklahoma City osteopath.

TAX BILL PROTESTED BY LATIN COUNTRIES

Cuba Tells State Department It Would Infringe Upon Reciprocity Treaty.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Protests from four Latin American countries against the provisions of the $1,000,000,000-tax measure now under consideration by the Senate finance committee have been received at the State Department, it became known here yesterday. The most emphatic of these diplomatic notes was contained in a formal protest filed with the State Department by Cuban Ambassador Orestes Ferrara a few days before his departure for Havana. What adds considerable significance to the Cuban protest is the likelihood that the ambassador may shortly become the Cuban Minister of Foreign Affairs. He has been offered the post and will announce his decision to President Gerardo Machado upon his arrival in Havana.

In his note to the Department of State the Cuban Ambassador pointed out that the projected tariff bill infringes on the 30-year-old reciprocity treaty, which has existed between his country and the United States. This commercial treaty is the only one of its kind to which the United States is signatory and gives the United States a preferential tariff of from 20 to 40 per cent in Cuban markets while it allows Cuban products imported into the United States to benefit by a 20 per cent reduction.

Provisions of Treaty.

Such a preferential tariff would be nullified by the terms of the present tariff act, according to the Cuban Ambassador, since the act as it now stands provides:

"Such tax shall be imposed in full notwithstanding any provision of law or treaty granting exemption from or reduction of duties to products of any possession of the United States or of any country."

The special provisions of the article do not specifically attack any Cuban products now being imported into the United States, but in the opinion of the Cuban Ambassador it was deemed unwise to allow the principle of such a measure to remain in the bill, as it subsequently might be invoked against a Cuban product. The chief Cuban products now being imported into this country are sugar, tobacco and hemp. The measure to which such objection has been raised contained specific regulations against copper and oil.

Chile, Peru and Venezuela have filed, through their diplomatic representatives here, briefs reciting the damaging effect upon their trade if the tax bill goes through in its present form.

Reasons for Objections.

The Chilean Ambassador, Don Manuel Cruchaga Tocornal, and the Peruvian Ambassador, Freyre de Santander, have forwarded to the Department of State their objections to the tariff in its present form for the damaging effect upon their export copper trade. The objections from Venezuela came from the projected embargo tariff on petroleum.

The position taken by the latter three countries was not quite as precise as the objection raised by the Cuba note. The State Department, it is known, forwarded the memoranda to the House and Senate committees now considering these measures.

Another phase of anticipated opposition may possibly come from other foreign countries at the proposed measure to permit the President to negotiate with foreign governments for reciprocal trade agreements.

Objection to this measure will come principally from Cuba, which has heretofore been the only country to benefit by a preferential tariff arrangement.

Plans to Tax Bachelors Recall Early Protection

By JOHN J. DALY

BACHELORS, in these days of heavy expenses and high romance, are getting quite a bit of attention from legislatures in various countries. Mussoliniland is preparing a rigid tax on unmarried men.

One of the tribe, complaining, cites the fact that no one, in all the history of the world, has ever had a good word to say on behalf of bachelors.

That is not exactly true. Just about seven years before the American colonies started separation proceedings against Great Britain, one of the statesmen introduced into Parliament a bill aimed at safeguarding these fellows who believe they travel faster who travel alone.

* * * *

HERE is the paragraph dug from the archives by the Beau Brummel of all bachelors, Mr. Lee Miller:

"That all women, of whatever rank, profession, or degree, whether virgins, maids or widows, that shall from and after such act, impose upon, seduce and betray into matrimony, any of his majesty's subjects by scents, paints, cosmetics, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, high-heeled shoes and bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors and that the marriage, upon conviction, shall be null and void."

* * * *

AS they say around the ball parks the law never got to first base.

Otherwise it may have secured a place on our statute books; and women today, instead of being free to paint and powder, would be deprived even of lip-sticks.

Some fast work on the part of a few sensible heads in the House of Commons put an end to this proposal for the protection of bachelors—and ever since then the poor fellows have been forced to do their own side-stepping from the wiles of women.

JURORS BEGIN DELIBERATIONS ON FATE OF MASSIE AND THREE

a plea of insanity had been introduced, the burden of proof was on the prosecution to show the defendant sane. He instructed them to bring in a separate verdict for each defendant.

The court reminded the twelve men that "no man may take the law into his own hands, and the alleged fact that the deceased ravaged the wife of one of the defendants can not be considered."

The judge instructed that evidence regarding the assault on Mrs. Massie could be considered wholly for its bearing on Massie's mental state.

Cites Golden Rule.

Judge Davis said the jury could bring in a verdict of guilty as charged, of second degree murder; guilty of manslaughter; or acquittal as regards all but Massie, but for him, guilty as charged, guilty of manslaughter, or not guilty on account of insanity, or not guilty.

As the jury retired the courtroom was cleared and the defendants went to a hotel to await reports on the deliberations.

The penalty for second degree murder is twenty years to life imprisonment, and that for manslaughter, ten years imprisonment.

In his plea to the jurors Darrow asked them to apply the golden rule, imagining themselves in the positions of the accused. He pleaded that a conviction would "place a blot on these fair islands that not all the waters of the Pacific can wash away."

In a searing denunciation of Massie, Kelley again hinted his belief the officer did not tell the truth on the witness stand when he testified he shot Kahahawai just after the native supposedly had confessed attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, his wife.

Painted as Egoist.

"He couldn't hide behind the skirts of his mother-in-law (Mrs. Fortescue)," said Kelley hotly, "nor behind the two sailors who helped him."

Kelley painted Massie as a "vain egotistical man who has been the cause of trouble." He said Massie was "higa" the night of the party after which Mrs. Massie was attacked.

"The best you can say for him," shouted Kelley as he marched up and down in front of the jury, "is that he lied like a gentleman."

Asserting all Hawaii was on trial in the case, Kelley closed his fiery appeal with these words:

"Without being swayed by mercy or by admirals—for in the language of Smedley Butler I say 'to Hell with the admirals!'—there is no reason why you should not bring in a unanimous verdict of guilty. We do not ask for vengeance—only justice."

For more than three hours Darrow pleaded the insanity and unwritten law features of the defense.

Belying his 75 years by his strong voice and vigorous gestures, the defender asserted Massie and the other defendants had been enmeshed in a web of circumstances not of their own making and that they were not to be blamed for the tragedy.

He asserted that if the four were sent to prison "it won't be the first time a prison has been sanctified by its inmates."

He bitterly attacked Dr. Joseph Catton, prosecution alienist who contradicted the defense testimony that Massie became insane when he fired the fatal shot after hearing Kahahawai confess attacking Mrs. Massie.

Instructions by Judge.

With Darrow's conclusion, Kelly took up the argument. Judge Charles S. Davis' instructions to the jury followed.

In the beginning Darrow set up the contention that the defendants had become involved in a network of circumstances with which they had little or nothing to do in making.

"I want to call your attention," he said, "to whether there was a reason over which they had no control—Massie's mind. I listened to Dr. Catton spinning his story in his own mind like a spider, for what he could get out of it."

Darrow reviewed the testimony covering the night of last September 12, when Mrs. Massie was attacked, seeking to bolster the defense contention that Massie was insane at the time of the killing.

"We contend that for months Massie's mind was affected," he said, "by all that was borne upon him—grief, sorrow, trouble, day after day, week after week and month after month. What do you think would have happened to any one of you under the circumstances? We judge other people by ourselves."

Referring to the beating and assaulting of Mrs. Massie Darrow said:

"She didn't have anything to do with it. But you can't find a more cruel experience in all literature."

Tears Come to Eyes.

Mrs. Massie sat with her head inclined toward her husband as Darrow described the testimony of the attack. Her eyes glistened with tears as Darrow pictured her cut and bruised body and told how she had undergone an operation to avoid motherhood.

Darrow reiterated Massie had not been mentally responsible, asserting that in the midst of his trouble he had spent his days on duty and his nights nursing Mrs. Massie. Then Darrow made a verbal lunge at Dr. Catton.

"He said Massie was not insane," Darrow barked, "but in another case he testified a man was insane who killed his wife when caught committing adultery. That time the other man got there first to hire him. He is like a spider waiting for a fly—absolutely impartial and ready to take the first one that comes along."

Darrow told how the rumors about Mrs. Massie's character had spread after the jury disagreement in the case of Kahahawai and four other men accused of the attack, and of the rumor it was Massie and not Kahahawai who had broken her jaw.

Many Women in Tears.

"I wonder what fate has against this family, anyway," he said.

Darrow brought tears to the eyes of Mrs. Fortescue and many women in the audience when he referred to her with:

"Here she is, waiting to go to the penitentiary. If she goes, with this husband and these faithful boys, it won't be the first time a prison has been sanctified by its inmates.

"And when people come to your beautiful isle the first place they shall want to see will be the penitentiary. And men will marvel and wonder at the cruelty of man and at the injustice that has been done. If these defendants are sent to prison it will place a blot on these fair islands that not all the waters of the Pacific can wash away."

Defends Massie's Story.

The old lawyer asserted the prosecution thus was trying to "encompass the destruction" of the defendants. Then he defended Massie's story on the witness stand.

He contended that the fatal shot "only happened" and that it was not a reasonable consequence.

"It's one thing," he said, "to write law books about what a man should do and quite another to say what you would do when faced with such a picture as Massie saw," when he allegedly heard Kahahawai confess attacking Mrs. Massie.

"I ask you," said Darrow, "to put yourselves in his place. And man can judge in no other way."

At that point Darrow stopped and court recessed.

Held Back by Police.

The curious scrambled to get into the courtroom as the afternoon session started and police held them back. Under Judge Davis' orders the number of spectators was reduced.

In order to prevent any possible demonstration the judge instructed the police to clear the courtroom of all but those having passes when the case goes to the jury.

Darrow took up his argument again by referring to the factual testimony of the manner of Kahahawai and what it indicated.

OBSTACLES CLEARED, NORFOLKERS ASSERT

ing the early morning hours. On one of these flights Dean Dobson-Peacock was a passenger. The clergyman, however, refused to say he had seen Mr. Curtis.

Lieut. George L. Richard, pilot for the intermediaries on their various flights, returned to the Naval Air Station today, but he refused to give any information concerning his absence. He was reported to have been a passenger aboard the Marcon when that boat sailed Sunday night.

Mr. Curtis said there "was nothing" to the report that Col. Lindbergh had been in Virginia last week to make a contact with kidnapers, or that the famous flier had planned to meet with him on a boat off the Virginia coast in an effort to complete the negotiations.

There was no indication when Mr. Curtis planned to make another trip.

"Your guess is as good as mine," he replied when asked regarding this.

Activities of the negotiators have increased greatly during the last ten days. Only a few hours after his return from a five-day trip last week, accompanied by Dean Dobson-Peacock, Mr. Curtis slipped away on another secret mission Friday night. He returned aboard the Marcon Sunday afternoon only to depart again that night.

Mr. Curtis admitted that during his last trip he had run into rough weather. Although he declined to say whether he returned on the Marcon, it was evident the boat had returned to port since her skipper, Capt. F. H. Lackmann, was again in the city.

It was indicated Mr. Curtis was expecting an important call by telephone. He asked newspaper men to leave his office upon one occasion that he might talk over the telephone, but afterward said that if he had known from whom the call was he would not have requested the reporters to leave.

Cohen Takes Oath; George Will Run

Georgian Denies Reports He Will Not Seek Re-election in Fall.

(Associated Press.)

John S. Cohen was sworn in yesterday as the new Democratic senator from Georgia. A few minutes later Senator George announced he would be a candidate for reelection and denied reports he planned to retire from public life.

"I will be a candidate for reelection," George said. "I am wholly at a loss to understand the basis for the reports.

"I expect to be a candidate to succeed myself in the September primary."

SENATE COMMITTEE FAVORS INCREASE IN INCOME TAXES

than 1,000,000 persons gathered into the Federal income tax net next year who have not been levied on this or past years.

The rate schedule was approved by a vote of 16 to 1, Senator Couzens voting against it.

It was an income taxing session. Although House leaders were worrying about their possible inability to prevent passage of the cash soldier bonus bill, the committee voted to tax the compensation received by veterans from the Government.

Would Tax President.

The demagogic panic which has characterized Congress in dealing with such questions as reduction in Federal expenditures and the salaries of Government employes found an echo in a committee gesture to make the salaries of the President and Federal judges subject to the income tax.

The net result of the committee's decisions, however, was a loss in the estimated revenue the bill would produce. The committee estimated that the increases in individual income tax rates would increase by $33,000,000 the $122,000,000 the House rates have been estimated to produce.

But the committee yielded to the excoriation voiced by Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills against the House premium on consolidated tax returns and the House provision subjecting income received from corporation dividends to the normal income tax rates. The latter provision, it was estimated, would net the Government something like $89,000,000. It increased the corporation tax rate from 13½ per cent provided in the House bill to 14 per cent. The present rate is 12 per cent.

Urged as Chain Remedy.

The premium on consolidated returns had been urged by the little business man as an aid in his losing fight against the gigantic chain systems which have spread over the country. The independents complained that the chain system organization, through the consolidated return, evade taxes by balancing the losses of one subsidiary against the gains of another, thereby getting from the Government the sinews of war for cut-throat competition to force the independent out of business.

At the end of the day it was estimated the net loss in estimated revenue was in the neighborhood of $20,000,000.

The committee approved higher surtax rates, running from 1 per cent on $6,000 to 45 per cent on incomes of $1,000,000 and more. This was a compromise. Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, wanted the maximum at 50 per cent on incomes of $2,000,000 and more, and Senator Couzens wanted the war-time rates, the maximum of which was 65 per cent.

Inheritance Rates Approved.

House inheritance tax rates were approved. Allowing an exemption of $50,000 these range from 1 per cent on the second $50,000 to 45 per cent on $10,000,000 and more. The House gift taxes also were approved. Secretary Mills and others had vigorously opposed these rates as striking at the foundations of the capitalistic system and proposing to redistribute the wealth of the country through taxation. The maximum gift tax in the House bill is 33½ per cent in excess of $10,000,000.

A 2-cent tax on bank checks in excess of $5 was voted. Secretary Mills urged a 2-cent tax on all bank checks. The House tax on lubricating oil was reduced from 4 to 2 cents. Taxes on domestic life insurance companies was increased from 13½ per cent to 14 per cent, but reserve deductions were fixed, under a Connally amendment, at 3, 3½, and 4 per cent, depending on the base of reserve accruals employed by companies. Senator Connally estimated his amendment would add $16,000,000.

Committee action yesterday indicated that the bill would be completed and presented to the committee before the end of the week.

Wealthy Philadelphian Dies in State Hospital

Los Angeles, April 27 (A.P.).—The death of Benjamin B. Foster, wealthy Philadelphia cereal man, in the Norwalk State Hospital was reported today by county authorities.

Physicians said death was caused by a heart attack Saturday night. Foster had been committed to the hospital by a court order. Foster was at first believed an amnesia victim. He was found in a hotel lobby where he had remained all day motionless and disregarding questioners. Police identified him through several thousand dollars worth of sugar stocks found in his pockets.

RAILWAY WORKERS FIGHT MERGER PLAN

Attorney Tells I. C. C. That 4-System Project Would Increase Jobless.

(Associated Press.)

Railway workers, through their attorney, J. A. Farquharson, yesterday asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to turn down the plan for a four-system consolidation of Eastern railroads.

Farquharson, arguing before the entire commission against the proposal of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Baltimore & Ohio, the New York Central and the Pennsylvania Railroads, asserted railroad consolidation at this time would only add to unemployment.

He said the railway brotherhood has a normal membership of between 180,000 and 195,000, and that it had at one time reached 200,000 members. Today the membership has dropped to 155,000, he said, of which 40,000 are either idle or working only five days a month.

Western Maryland Plan.

Inquiry among executives of the trunk line applicants, he said, had disclosed a potential reduction of 3,000 in the number of workmen to be employed.

R. C. Rose, representing business interests in Baltimore and along the Western Maryland Railroad, contended that if the Baltimore & Ohio System gets the Western Maryland, it will favor a shorter route by way of the Reading and Central of New Jersey roads from the Great Lakes to New York, instead of the present route to tidewater at Baltimore.

G. Coe Farrier, representing Philadelphia interests, argued that the Reading Railroad should be maintained as an independent line, and W. N. McGehee, counsel for the Southern Railway and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, told the commission his clients were unalterably opposed to the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville being allocated to the Baltimore & Ohio.

Rose's Arguments Supported.

John Philip Hill, of Baltimore, speaking on behalf of Baltimore business and commercial interests, supported the arguments of Rose against the Baltimore & Ohio getting the Western Maryland.

Rose asked the commission to permit the Wabash-Seaboard system contemplated by the commission in its 1929 plan to stand, asserting that while this system would be somewhat weak the plan for four systems would allow three weak ones due to the domination of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Hill argued that to permit the Baltimore & Ohio to take over the Western Maryland would "put a premium on violations of the Clayton act and every other law of the country." The Baltimore & Ohio owns 42 per cent of the stock of the Western Maryland and has been ordered by the commission to sell it.

trial, he said, "but I did object to the evidence introduced. That evidence about the insurance and Crowder's statement (which admits the plot against Mrs. Wimbley's life) shouldn't have been allowed to go to the jury."

"The statement isn't true," said Crowder, "it was beat out of me when they got it."

Attorney Cedric Johnson, who defended Wimbley, said, "I still believe these men are innocent."

"You think so," amended Crowder, "and we know it."

"I am very happy it was not a first-degree verdict," declared Louis L. Whitestone, 26-year-old attorney for Wimbley. "We are, however, considering the question of an appeal. I will interview Wimbley in the next few days to determine whether we shall take an appeal."

In his office, Assistant District Attorney Collins expressed himself as "perfectly satisfied with the verdict."

Neither Wimbley's father, who lives in Wewoka, Okla., nor Crowder's mother, who lives at St. George Island, Md., are aware that their sons have been tried for murder. The news of their trial has been kept from them by relatives.

None of the relatives of the accused were in court when the verdict was announced, nor were there present any of the relatives of Mrs. Wimbley.

Both Wimbley and Crowder were somewhat agitated when the verdict was announced, in decided contrast to Crowder's apathy and Wimbley's optimism during the seven days of the trial.

Mrs. Wimbley and her daughter, Wilma Traylor, were drowned in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal near Chain Bridge on September 17, when they were on a birthday party in celebration of Mrs. Wimbley's twenty-sixth birthday.

Wimbley insisted the drownings were accidental. However, Crowder signed a statement a few days later saying that Wimbley had plotted to sandbag Mrs. Wimbley and her parents and brothers and sisters in their home in Dendron, Va., and then to burn their bodies. The purpose, he said, was to obtain $10,000 insurance on his wife.

When Crowder refused to go through with the plot Wimbley then decided, Crowder's statement said, to drown Mrs. Wimbley in the canal.

The case went to the jury at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday, and the verdict was returned at 3:05 yesterday afternoon.

Retired Naval Officer Killed in Auto Crash

Baltimore, April 27 (A.P.).—Lieut. Comdr. Garnet Hulings, U. S. N. (retired), was fatally injured in an automobile accident here today. His car and a truck collided this morning in Pikesville, a suburb, near where he lived, and he died four hours later of a fractured skull.

Commander Hulings was born at Oil City in 1890 and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, with the class of 1912, and served for sixteen years before being retired.

POLITICAL ACTIVITY BY CHURCH URGED

Means of Aiding Recovery, Episcopal Congress Told by Two Speakers.

Hartford, Conn., April 27 (A.P.).—The church was advised to take the lead in economic reconstruction, even at the necessity of entering politics, by two speakers at the national Episcopal congress today.

"Unless the church is prepared to claim the whole world—economics, politics and industry—it will decline much more rapidly that it has," warned Stephen Miller, jr., industrial relations consultant for the denomination's national council.

The Rev. J. Howard Melish, of Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn, maintained that the church has the right to ask the state to use its power for "just laws, honorable officials, efficient and honest service of God and man."

"Whether the church should electioneer for favorably inclined legislators," he said, "or lobby for the passage of just laws, is not to be settled by any theoretical consideration of the relations between church and state. It is to be determined by the issue.

Praises Russian Planning.

"Infinitely it is better for the church to follow both those methods than to go to the powers that be by the back stairs and the political boss."

Separation of church and state, Dr. Melish said, has not been working satisfactorily as far as the church is concerned.

"We need a new plan," he asserted. "Whatever one thinks of Russia, it at least has a plan. In contrast, here in America there is no planning for industry as a whole."

Miller advocated a back-to-the-soil movement and a four-hour day as methods of stabilizing economic conditions.

"We must recognize," he said, "that some unemployment will be permanent in the United States. It is up to the church to lead the way in directing the proper use of leisure time and in keeping up the morale of the jobless worker.

Reconstruction Urged.

"The church must keep ahead of public opinion. It must prepare people for industrial changes, and set at end the divorcement between economics and morals. There is no sound economic proposal that is not also sound morally.

"To talk about recovery of the old days is rainbow chasing. Instead we must reconstruct for the new era ahead."

Dr. Melish and Miller led an open forum discussion on the church's relation to economic conditions. In accordance with the congress' procedure, no conclusions were reached nor resolutions adopted.

The Rev. C. L. Willard, of Elmhurst, N. Y., asserting that the Socialist party is the only one challenging "national selfishness," asked churchmen to get behind Norman Thomas and other Socialist leaders.

Dr. D. A. McGregor, of Western Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill., took an opposing view.

"Some of us have lost faith in politics and the political system," he said.

JAPAN OPENS MAJOR DRIVE UPON REBELS

the south, Maj. Gen. Nakamura's brigade, already on the way down the Sungari from Harbin, will attack the rebels from the west.

The Nakamura column left Harbin in 22 river boats which had been converted into ironclads. Two field guns were mounted on each of them, and a convoy of four gunboats, taken over from the naval forces of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, served as protectors.

The strange armada proceeded cautiously along the Sungari, as the rebels were reported to have planted mines between Fangcheng and Shansin, where the turbulent river is filled with ice loosened by the spring thaw.

Minor Japanese offensives were being carried on today in an attempt to crush rebel detachments in the Hunghua district, 125 miles east of Mukden (not the Tunghua in Kirin), and in the Tungliao region northwest of Mukden, on the borders of Mongolia.

Geneva, April 27 (U.P.).—Japan today informed the League of Nations secretariat that it accepted the proposed compromise on plans for a truce agreement in the Shanghai warfare.

The compromise was reached yesterday at Shanghai, where it was agreed that all hostilities would cease, Japanese troops would withdraw to the International Settlement and Chinese would not advance from their present positions outside the city.

The League of Nations committee of nineteen will further consider the Shanghai situation in an effort to achieve a final agreement on the truce scheme.

Harbin, Manchuria, April 27 (U.P.).—The Manchukuo police issued a formal statement today charging the Soviet government with fomenting their recent terrorist plots against Japanese and Manchurian government interests in northern Manchuria.

The police alleged that the railroad dynamite plots and other outrages had been fomented by the Soviets through Soviet employes on the Chinese Eastern Railroad.

A certain group of these employes was selected to cooperate with Chinese Communists against the Manchukuo government, it was alleged.

Rising Mercury Expected To End Cold Snap Today

Relief from the cold snap that Washington has been suffering in the last few days was promised by the Weather Bureau last night in its prediction for fair and warmer temperature today.

There was a steady drop in temperature in the last 24 hours due to chilly winds blowing in from the mountains around Cumberland, where heavy snowfall has been reported. No colder April 27 has been recorded at the Weather Bureau for the last twenty years, although the low temperature of 39 degrees has been reported three times in that period.

A slight frost was expected in the outlying sections of the city, with the minimum temperature about 34 degrees.

Cumberland, Md., suffered a drop of 36 degrees yesterday, with snow flurries, but it is thought that no material damage was done to fruit trees and crops. At Bucktown, Pa., 100 miles from the District, 1 inch of snow was reported on the airway landing field, with the temperature down to 24 degrees.

In Denver, Colo., an Associated Press dispatch told of 29 motorists snowbound, who had to be rescued by officers of Laramer County, Colo. Pittsburgh, Pa., and Keyser, W. Va., also reported snow flurries.

Women Writers Are Told They Must Glorify Men

Because most magazine editors are men, women writers "should never hold the Lord of Creation up to ridicule unless they want to be sure of a rejection slip," Mrs. Blanche Smith Ferguson, of Baltimore, Md., told the National League of American Pen Women at the Willard yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Ferguson, who sold her first four short stories and received a rejection slip on her fifth "because she made the fatal mistake of ridiculing a male character" claimed that while you may paint women characters as black as you please, "handle the males with kid gloves." The only editor who had the reputation of treating his own sex with impartiality, she averred, was the late John Sidell, of the American Magazine.

League Nominates Officers in Biennial Convention; Noted Writers Speak.

Delegates to the sixth biennial convention of the National League of American Pen Women, at the Willard Hotel, divided their attention yesterday between nominating and casting ballots for new officers and listening to advice on how to sell short stories and how to market them.

Mrs. Phyllis Fergus Hoyt, of Chicago, the first composer ever nominated by the league, and Mrs. Clara Keck Heflebower, of Cincinnati, a writer, were nominated for president, to succeed Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton. Vice presidential nominees are Mme. Emanuel Dimitriu, of Washington; second, Mrs. E. Richard Gasch, also of Washington; third, Mrs. Antoinette C. Wood, of Boston; fourth, Mrs. Gene Ziegfield, of Baltimore; fifth; two candidates, Mrs. Kate Speake Penney, of Birmingham, and Mrs. James T. Watson, of Washington.

For recording secretary, two candidates, Mrs. Daniel C. Chace and Miss Myrta Cawood, both of the District branch, were nominated for corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry B. Hunt and Dr. Mary Meek Atkeson Moore, the former of Chevy Chase, Md., and the latter of this city, both of the District branch; for treasurer, Evelyn Sherrill, of the District branch; for registrar, Harriet Chambers, of the District branch, and Myrtle Helfrich, of Baltimore; for auditor, Mrs. Frances White Diehl, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. James Irvin Steel, of the District; for librarian, Nancy F. Munce, of Richmond; for historian, Helena Redewill, of California, and Victoria Faber Stevenson, of the District branch. Among the nominations for State vice president was that of Mrs. Estelle Moses, past president of the District branch of the league.

Results of the election will not be announced until today.

Prize Juvenile Book.

Snares lying in wait of the writer ignorant of legal phases of publishing were revealed by Dr. Moore. Mrs. Blanche Smith Ferguson, of Baltimore, described the writing of a short story. Mrs. Inglis Fletcher told of how she gathered the material in Central Africa for her prize-winning juvenile book, "The White Leopard." Alida Sims Malkus, author of "The Dark Star of Itza," spoke on writing for juveniles.

A high spot was a talk by Flora Dingle Jesseph, formerly of Washington, now president of the Chicago branch of the league, fifth national vice president, and head of the manuscript service bureau.

Prize-winning stories were announced, and read at yesterday afternoon's session. From 87 stories judged, Mrs. Eugene Collister, of Washington, whose pen name is Elizabeth Burgess Hughes, was given first prize for a full-length story entitled "Mill Brat." Carmen L. Kesting was given honorable mention. A short-length story by Stella C. Shetter, entitled "Baptism," and read by Hester Walker Beall, was selected as the best in this field.

Judge of Manuscripts.

Mrs. Helen Torrance, who was on the staff of the late Smart Set Magazine, told the delegates "how she judges manuscripts."

The delegates were treated to a program of music at the Mount Vernon M. E. Church last night. It was featured by the presentation of The Canticle of the Sun, by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach. Those taking part in the canticle, words of which were taken from St. Francis of Assisi, were the choir, Miss Ruth Shaffner, soprano; John L. Mitchell, tenor; Arthur M. Tabbutt. Mrs. Beach was at the piano and Miss Edith Gottwals at the organ. R. Deane Shure directed the choir. Marshall Bidwell was heard at the organ in other numbers.

The convention will close today with installation of new officers, a visit to the bicentennial exhibit at Corcoran Art Gallery and a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon where wreaths and flowers will be laid on the tomb of George Washington.

BRITAIN MAY INVOKE 'ESCALATOR CLAUSE'

Franco-Italian Deadlock Removes Naval Limitations, Authority Says.

Geneva, April 27 (U.P.).—Great Britain is considering the necessity of invoking the "escalator clause" of the London Naval Treaty, permitting her to build beyond the treaty limits, because of the failure of France and Italy to reach an accord on naval limitations.

This was disclosed today by a high British authority, who also declared a definite end should be put to the reparations problem at the Lausanne conference in June.

The statements regarding the naval treaty, which Britain, the United States and Japan signed in 1930, were prompted by the Franco-Italian deadlock.

If France and Italy fail to become signatories of the limitations clauses of the London treaty, it may become impossible for Britain to keep within the limits of the pact because of building by other nations, it was said.

Under such circumstances, this authority pointed out, Britain would be forced to inform the United States and Japan that she was invoking the escalator clause.

The only alternative would be some agreement at the disarmament conference which would mean security through equilibrium of armaments.

Meanwhile, the conference's task of deciding which are the "offensive weapons" to be abolished or turned over to an international "peace army" passed from the realm of suave diplomacy into the hands of blunt technical experts, who disagreed even more vigorously than had the statesmen who discussed such problems at sessions of the general commission.

ARMS PARLY FAILS AS BIG FIVE DISBAND

of European leaders and their problems.

The cancellation of the Friday meeting caused a shock of surprise, despite the fact that few informed persons had expected anything remarkable to result from it.

It was recognized M. Tardieu was helpless, on the very eve of the French Chamber of Deputy elections next Sunday, to make any new engagements abroad. Moreover, there was a disposition here to question the authority of Chancellor Bruening in view of the success of Adolf Hitler's opposition National Socialists in the German Diet elections last Sunday, from which they emerged the most powerful single party in the Reich, although they failed to achieve a majority in the Prussian Legislature.

With the "Big Five" meeting definitely eradicated, Geneva turned its eyes toward France to watch Sunday's voting for possible effects on the progress of disarmament.

Col. Stimson will leave Europe without again conferring with Premier Tardieu. It was the Secretary of State who took the lead in arranging the Friday conference, participants in which were to have been himself, M. Tardieu, Mr. MacDonald, Dr. Bruening and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, of Italy.

The fate of this meeting paralleled the fate of the get-together Col. Stimson tried to arrange at his villa yesterday between the French Premier and the German chancellor. M. Tardieu, whom he had expected from Paris, failed to appear, although the British Prime Minister, Mr. Stimson and Dr. Bruening were awaiting him.

MacDonald Greatly Disappointed.

Mr. MacDonald, it was learned tonight, was greatly disappointed over developments in the disarmament conference and over the failure of efforts to induce France and Italy to accept the London Naval Treaty of 1930.

It was understood Great Britain has become apprehensive that it may become necessary to evoke the "escalator" clause in that treaty. This clause was designed to protect the United States, Great Britain and Japan against possible competitive naval building by nations that did not sign the tripartite agreement. Under the clause, a signatory power may, if its building program is threatened by nonsignatory powers, build to a higher level than the pact provides. At the same time the levels of the other two signatories would rise.

On high authority it was learned that Britain will continue to advocate security by disarmament. This means a continuation of British opposition to the French thesis, which centers about arming the League of Nations with an international police force.

Tardieu Ill at Paris.

Paris, April 27 (A.P.).—Premier Andre Tardieu's strenuous election campaign has resulted in an attack of laryngitis, and he will be unable to participate in the five-power parley in Geneva Friday, it was announced today.

The premier's final campaign speech, scheduled for Belfort tomorrow, will be read by a member of his cabinet.

"When I learned yesterday the desire of my colleagues to see me at Geneva," M. Tardieu said, "I replied yes, in spite of the fact that I was ill. But the laryngitis has progressed, and the doctor has forbidden two nights of travel. I am sorry, but I can not get away."

A message from Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, expressing sympathy at M. Tardieu's indisposition and regret that Mr. Stimson would not be able to see him again to continue their conversations, was delivered to the premier tonight by American Ambassador Walter E. Edge.

Mr. Stimson said his own health made it necessary for him to leave Geneva as soon as possible and return to the United States by way of the Mediterranean. He assured the French premier that the American delegation would do everything possible to continue the work of the disarmament conference at Geneva in the same cordial spirit as in the past.

Premier Tardieu had a slight fever, was very hoarse and was resting tonight, as his doctors prescribed.

Edouard Herriot, principal opponent of Premier Tardieu in the campaign for the election of deputies to the French Parliament next Sunday, was quoted in the newspaper Le Journal today as saying that if he were asked to form as premier a radical government with Socialist support, as he did in 1924, he would not accept.

Haitian Flier Ends Long Trip.

Port au Prince, Haiti, April 27 (A.P.).—Leon D. Paris, said to be the only native Haitian airplane pilot, arrived today at the end of a flight from the United States which began at New York on April 6.

Bank Robber Halts Job to Lecture Aid

Chicago, April 27 (A.P.).—Irritated by his youthful accomplice's clumsiness, a pedagogic bank robber today interrupted work of looting the Oak Glen Savings Bank of suburban Lansing long enough to lecture the hapless one on matters of technique.

The more experienced robber flourishing a machine gun, witnesses related to police, lined the patrons and attaches along the wall, then ordered the youth to empty the cash box.

As the accomplice fiddled nervously about, they said, the older man yelled:

"The cash drawer, you lug, is below the receiving teller's window."

The young man then vaulted over the counter and in doing so stumbled and fell. This, the witnesses related, so exasperated the gunner that he went behind the counter himself and impatiently swept the money, about $5,000, into a bag, meantime ordering his nervous companion to "see if you can get into that vault without falling on your face and get those money bags!"

Then came the crowning blow. As the novice stepped toward the vault he accidentally discharged his pistol.

The alarmed gunner, mouthing epithets, hustled his companion out of the bank and into their automobile.

FRANCO-AMERICAN TAX TREATY SIGNED

Double Levy on U. S. Firms in European Nation to Be Eliminated.

Paris, April 27 (A.P.).—An agreement by which American corporations doing business in France will save millions of dollars in taxation was signed today by United States Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Premier Andre Tardieu.

The agreement eradicates the double taxation burden which has been carried by American houses with branches in France since 1926. Under this tax regulation, all foreign corporations doing business in this country have been assessed from 16 to 18 per cent on that part of their dividends ascribed to French operations.

Numerous American organizations will be affected, among the outstanding being the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., General Motors, Ford Motors, the Guaranty Trust, the National City Bank, the Chase National Bank and the Boston Blacking Co.

Few Americans have paid the tax this year. Instead, they awaited the outcome of protests made by the United States Government. One United States business organization is said to have $50,000,000 involved, and another $30,000,000.

Mr. Edge paid tribute to the spirit of cooperation displayed by M. Tardieu.

DAUGHTERS OF 1812 ASSAIL COMMUNISM

Urge More Stringent Laws on Immigration at Closing Capital Session.

The Soviet and communism in general were the targets of scathing resolutions adopted at the closing session yesterday of the National Society, United States Daughters of 1812, at the Willard.

Approval was given the United States' refusal to recognize the Soviet, and opposing trade relations with the Communist dictatorship. Need for stringent immigration laws to prevent the admission of Communists to this country was stressed.

All officers were reelected except the third vice president. They are: Mrs. Roderick J. Cant, of Buffalo, N. Y., first vice president; Mrs. Lisle Terwilliger, of Ohio, third vice president; Mrs. Maurice J. Blake, New Jersey, recording secretary; Miss Hazel Graham Gleasner, of Pennsylvania, treasurer, and Mrs. John Weinmann, historian.

Commander Louis J. Gulliver, commanding the frigate Constitution, now at the Washington Navy Yard, addressed the Daughters at the afternoon session.

After the closing session the Daughters held a reception at their headquarters on Rhode Island avenue in honor of the real daughters.

HOOVER ECONOMY

President Hoover carried his economy message yesterday to the conference of governors at Richmond. His urgent appeal for reduced expenditures is no less convincing when applied to State and local budgets than to Federal extravagance. If there is to be actual economy in these times of distress and shrunken revenue, the States and local units of government must do their part.

The menace of increasing taxation has seldom been more cogently expressed than in the President's address. Before the war Federal, State and local governments took 8 per cent of the national income. The war increased the cost of government only 3 per cent, yet taxes mounted to 15 per cent of the national income during the boom period. President Hoover estimates that 20 per cent of the national income is required to meet the costs of government under present conditions. Every man works 61 days out of the year to support the various forms of government.

"Continued progress in this direction," says the President, "is the way to national impoverishment. * * * We can not restore economic stability in the Nation by continuing to siphon so large a part of private effort into the coffers of the Government; its abstraction from the people stifles the productivity, the consumption and the recovery of employment."

In recent years the Federal Government has held its expenditures in check much more effectively than have the States. From 1924 to 1930 State expenses jumped nearly 65 per cent, and local budgets were expanded by about 30 per cent. Unless this tendency is halted all benefits accruing from Federal economy will be swallowed up by higher State and municipal taxes.

President Hoover pointed out the special need at this time of coordinating the programs of the various agencies that collect and spend public money. Drastic new taxes are being drafted by Congress to save the credit of the Government. Some of the States are also finding it necessary to increase their revenue. Care must be exercised so as avoid a piling up of taxes on industries and individuals unable to pay them.

President Hoover offered the governors no sensational advice. He had no panacea for the depression. Stability and retrenchment are his watchwords. These stand out in sharp contrast to the fanciful schemes for mortgaging the country's future, which are frequently heard where politicians gather. Every citizen knows that Mr. Hoover's advice is sound. Fortunately, legislators in Washington as well as in the State capitals are coming to realize that this type of common sense is the best contribution that governments can make to economic recovery.

GASOLINE TAX-EVASION.

Taxes received from gasoline sales have become such an important factor in the revenue of all States that officials and representatives of the oil industry are making concerted efforts to eliminate losses in collection. Evasions have become so flagrant in many districts that the American Petroleum Institute and the North American Gas Tax Conference will cooperate in the formulation of measures to mitigate this growing loss.

The volume of gasoline that is distributed by bootleg tax-evaders has become so great that the campaign against them has been carried into virtually every State. A wide divergence in the laws covering this offense has been found a handicap to applying remedies and the Petroleum Institute has instructed a special committee to formulate for submission to the various States a uniform gas statute.

At a meeting recently held in Washington, it was developed that States in this region are working together to suppress inter-State bootlegging of gasoline on which taxes have not been paid. Virginia's gasoline tax law has been strengthened to provide for licencing all gasoline dealers, restricting transportation of untaxed supplies and authorizing special measures for the detection of tax-evasions. The campaign in Maryland is said to be handicapped by provisions of the law prohibiting inspection of tax- and sales-records, which hinders cooperation with other States in the exchange of information for cross-checking.

In the District of Columbia officials have prosecuted successfully the first class of tax-evasion, collecting from a dealer all taxes due, plus a penalty of 50 per cent additional. The 2-cent gas tax in the District is a valuable item, yielding an annual income of about $1,750,000. The tax-evasion situation here has been improved by the regulation barring tank wagon peddlers from selling gasoline at retail in the streets of Washington.

WILL ONE-THIRD RULE?

Tuesday's primaries made sudden and radical changes in the outlook for the Democratic presidential nomination. Al Smith steps definitely into the convention picture with an assurance of strong delegate support. His clean sweep in Massachusetts, his substantial share of Pennsylvania's delegates, and his certain victory in Connecticut place Gov. Smith in a formidable position.

The former governor's succinct comment upon the effect his gains will have upon the effort to stop Roosevelt sums up the situation: "Well," he said, "it ought to put a chock under the band wagon and stop people from jumping on it on the theory that there is nowhere else to go." Neither Gov. Smith nor his most enthusiastic admirers can cherish well-founded hope that he can secure the nomination for himself, but the chance that he will have power to determine the selection to be made at Chicago can not be denied.

Without any delegates, or without being a candidate, Smith's following and influence in any Democratic gathering would be important. With the definite backing of delegates who are increasing in number his strength will be augmented. While Roosevelt is not yet within gunshot of enough delegates to insure nomination, Smith is as nearly within stones-throw of the one-third necessary to prevent a selection.

The 118 delegates chosen in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania have apparently been divided, 66 for Roosevelt and 55 for Smith. With a start as important as this the Happy Warrior may be expected to fight with new gusto, and his followers, somewhat bewildered by his lack of a convention following so far, will take heart as they see the possibility that Smith forces may become sufficiently strong by June to repeat the historic scenes of the Baltimore and New York conventions. A militant one-third and one more delegate in a convention bound by the two-thirds rule forms a positive factor for negative results, and with such a leader as Al Smith will go far toward dictating the choice of the convention. One day's primary balloting has done much to place Gov. Roosevelt at the tender mercy of Gov. Smith and John J. Raskob.

TWIN BRAIN CHILDREN.

While the country stands aghast at the deadly shock and collision of its two great Democratic leaders, former Gov. Al Smith and Gov. Roosevelt of New York, the New York Evening Post proves conclusively that these seeming antagonists really think alike, talk alike, and are alike as two peas in a pod, or twin birdies in the selfsame nest—with this consideration, however, to be borne in mind: that while twin birdies agree upon general principles, they are keen rivals for the early worm, in this instance represented by the Democratic Presidential nomination. The Evening Post prints in parallel columns one extract from the speech by former Gov. Smith at the Jefferson Day dinner on April 13, and the other from the speech of Gov. Roosevelt at St. Paul on April 18, as follows:

| The consequences of the Hawley-Smoot bill have been tremendous, both directly and indirectly. Directly—American foreign trade has been steadily dwindling. * * * Indirectly—the high schedules of the Hawley-Smoot bill caused European nations to raise their own tariff walls not only against us but against each other. | The consequences of the Hawley-Smoot bill have been tremendous, both directly and indirectly. Directly, American foreign trade has been steadily dwindling. Indirectly, the high schedules of the Hawley-Smoot bill caused European nations to raise their own tariff walls, and these walls were raised not only against us but against each other. |

Inquisitive newspaper men questioned both Gov. Smith and Gov. Roosevelt as to the identity of language in their speeches. Gov. Smith said: "I don't know where Roosevelt got it. This is mine. Yes, I wrote this." Gov. Roosevelt replied that the extract was merely a "development" of an address delivered by him before the New York State Grange on Feb. 2.

Naturally, the happy concord of great minds arouses intense interest, not to say speculation concerning "ghost writers," telepathy, surreptitious purloinings, &c. As usual, Gov. Smith trumps by his direct statement, "Yes, I wrote this," supported as he is by the fact that he uttered the immortal language first.

Rumors are now circulating in New York to the effect that this identic masterpiece was written, not by Gov. Smith, but by two professors of Columbia University who should know better. This cock-and-bull story, obviously invented by Wall Street bears, is that one of the professors wrote Al Smith's speech and lent the notes to another professor, who wrote Frank Roosevelt's speech, not knowing that Al Smith had made his speech.

There is plausibility in the suggestion that two legendary college professors wrote this brilliant piece of tariff inaccuracy, but the public will not be fooled. When Al Smith asserts that he wrote his speech the public believes him. True, he may mean by "writing it" that he adopted the language provided for him by a ghost writer and made it his own. If it was the brainchild of a ghost, everybody knows that the ghost must have been the ingenious Charlie Michelson, author of all the masterpieces put forth by Democratic statesmen under the auspices of the Democratic national committee. No college professor is needed by Al Smith so long as Charlie Michelson is available in the flesh to act as ghost. The New York rumor is evidently circulated for the purpose of extricating Frank Roosevelt from the heinous charge of plagiarism.

But after all, what does it matter? The two leaders of Democracy who are now sharing the harvest of delegates are in perfect harmony in agreeing that each is author of the extract quoted. This is not the first time that great minds have run in the same channel.

NO HALT BY SCIENCE.

At the dedication of the new United States Patent Office several of the speakers seized the opportunity to brand as "abhorrent" the defeatist notion of an arbitrary "holiday" for scientific research. Dr. Frank B. Jewett, vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and president of the Bell Telephone Research Laboratories, speaking at a dinner of the American Patent Law Association, held in connection with the dedication, said that, far from suspending research in time of depression, he would advocate stimulation and increase of activity.

The aim of organized science is to give new values to human life. Dr. Jewett declared, "To me the great problems ahead are the problems of so distributing the benefits of our ingenuity and of so educating our people in the profitable use of these benefits, and of the time salvaged from the mere daily operation of securing food, shelter and raiment, that the sum total of our effort would be a happier world for our descendants than the one we now know." Stop because the need is great? Dr. Jewett answered, "Never!"

Science, as Thomas Henry Huxley defined it, is "organized common sense." To solve the problems of the present and of the immediate future, more, rather than less, scientific thinking is needed. Any move to declare a moratorium on science would be suicidal. Professional scientists should rather be encouraged to persevere, to speed up their endeavors. The lay public should emulate their example. Every man should be a scientist in the conduct of his own affairs. Every man should practice "organized common sense." To banish the depression and correct the conditions which brought it about a realistic technique of effort is imperative. Professional science shows the way.

FORD'S FARM FACTORIES.

Henry Ford has a brilliant new plan to cure the ills of the industrial system. Agriculture and industry, he says, are too far apart. They should be brought together, so that industrial workers could dabble in farming, while farmers could piece out their living by working in neighboring factories.

City workers, says Mr. Ford, could save as much as $500 per year, if they had plots of ground outside of metropolitan limits on which they could make their homes and raise their own foodstuffs. This spurt of wisdom apparently springs from his experiments in farm work near Dearborn. But the problem is not quite so simple as Mr. Ford intimates. He is looking at agriculture from the automobile manufacturer's point of view, which leaves much to be considered.

Does Mr. Ford wish to put the farmer out of business? Foodstuffs are already produced in overabundance. If all factory workers were to begin cultivating gardens of their own, the purchasing power of farmers would dry up and they would be unable to buy the products of industry.

The idea of industrial workers living in the country and producing their own food is entirely Utopian. Factories must be located where they can obtain power, raw materials, labor and shipping facilities. Such locations are seldom found in areas suitable for agriculture. If Mr. Ford really visualizes flourishing industrial plants in the midst of the agricultural prairies, he is more of a dreamer than the public has supposed.

It is highly questionable, too, whether the idea of using leisure time for the cultivation of agricultural plots would appeal to the average workingman. Few industrial employes have the energy to become expert in both factory and farm work. In trying to make gardeners of his workmen, Mr. Ford is reversing the rule of division of labor which has made his own automobile factories so successful.

About the only argument in favor of Mr. Ford's scheme is that it would require every workman to have an automobile to transport himself from his half acre in the country to the factory where he worked. Maybe that is sufficient justification from the automobile magnate's point of view.

THE WORD "SINO."

Sino-Japanese is an easier designation for the controversy between China and Japan than Chinese-Japanese, says the Chicago Daily News, and is likely to become the popular way of referring to the Oriental quarrel, even though many persons may wonder why the appellation Sin, with its connective "o," is used to indicate China.

The syllable Tsin is found in many Chinese place names. The powerful Tsin dynasty came into control of China 250 years before the Christian era. It gave its name to the country. Ptolemy, who lived in the second century A. D., used the word Sinai when writing of the Chinese. In the Old Testament prophecy of Isaiah there is reference to the land of Sinim, by which, some scholars have supposed, the prophet meant China. Others equally qualified to speak have questioned that interpretation.

But Ptolemy, who it may be supposed, adapted his Sinai from the Chinese Tsin, probably set the fashion. The Latins seem to have followed it. Today Sinology is an accepted term for the knowledge of things Chinese, and the erudite in this field are called Sinologists.

You Can't Judge the Badness of Men Without a Standard of Right.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

VERY few people are mentally normal.

Imagine a little company watching the sun rise. Through the blue-gray mist of a dismal morning the sun appears as an orange-yellow disc. "It looks like an orange," says one of the company. "But it seems no larger than a $10 gold piece," says another. "Nonsense," says a third; "It looks as big as a wagon wheel."

The difference is in the eye of the beholder, you say. But there is another factor, also. Each man's mind interprets in a different way the impression brought by his sense of vision.

Which is right? There is no way to tell. Nobody knows how large the sun should seem. There is no accepted standard.

What is a normal and perfect mind? Nobody knows.

There must be a standard of perfection by which to measure minds, but scientists do not know what it is. They make standards of their own and thus demonstrate that one mind is better than another, but they have no way of knowing what a mind should be.

This much they do know—that mind and body are one—that the mind is physical as the body is.

If a man's finger is sick, the whole man is sick. The pain and the infection may be localized, but the whole body is affected in some degree.

So an unhealthy body means an unhealthy brain—a mind that, however keen it may seem and though it function more ably than many another, still is below its normal degree of efficiency.

And since no two bodies have precisely the same degree of health or the same natural equipment of strength and proficiency, it follows that no two brains have precisely the same degree of efficiency.

Do men disagree? How could they do otherwise? Children in school make different grades because their minds are different. Men have different opinions because they don't see the same things. Their different minds interpret in different ways the facts reported by their senses.

You don't hate your neighbor because his body is unlike yours. Then how strange to hate him because his mind, being unlike yours, rejects the ideas that to you seem good.

His mind may be nearer perfection than yours. And though each of you thinks himself sane, neither is perfect in mind for neither is perfect in body.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Psychology Hint.
Detroit News.

Dwight F. Davis, former Governor-General of the Philippines, just back from a European trip, says people across the Atlantic talk less than Americans about their economic troubles. The contrast is worth considering. If the people in this country who really have not suffered much from the depression would stop depression talk their restraint would do a good deal to improve the general frame of mind.

As a matter of fact, there are millions of Americans who are not in any specially hard luck. There are millions working, drawing about their usual pay, enjoying about their usual incomes, getting the benefit of lower expenses and having pretty substantial prospects of as good or better times ahead. They would make a tremendous contribution just by curtailing their hard-luck talk to consistency with their real good fortune.

Not True Economy.

While economy is the order of the day, all down the line, while every nonessential activity of the Government must be curtailed, any reduction of the national defense below the safety line might easily prove to be anything but economical in the end. The public acknowledgment of that truism by so influential an organization as the Daughters of the American Revolution ought to carry weight with the citizenry generally.

Paradoxical as it may seem, there is danger that the movement for governmental economy at Washington may be defeated or at least seriously hampered by the excessive zeal of some of its congressional supporters. In addition, there looms the menace of a repetition of the performance that took place in the House over the tax bill, when party discipline utterly broke down and organized minorities were able to dictate the terms of that measure.

The high cost of public living is due in chief measure to the high standard set for it. If it is to be kept within bounds the result must be accomplished by increased efficiency rather than by a lowering of standards. It is a time to awaken a tax-burdened people to the savings that may be effected by better methods of administration. It is time wasted to urge them to abandon standards they are determined to maintain.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Applebaum Objects to Advertising the Phrase, "Lord, What Fools These Mortals Be!"

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The newly erected Folger Memorial to Shakespeare is undoubtedly the most beautiful structure in our Capital City, but its beauty is inadvertently marred by the inscription, which is a brazen defamation of the entire human race. For over the foundation in front of the main portals to this awe-inspiring edifice is inscribed this contemptuous indictment of the human mind: "Lord, what fools these mortals be!"

Now, why flaunt the cynical outburst of a mythical character in a minor play, as the quintessence, the fountain of Shakespearean wisdom? Why mar a beautiful poem in marble with an ugly aspersion against a race capable of erecting such a magnificent tribute to one of its members?

ELI APPELBAUM.

"Subscriber" Says Federal Departments Are Already Understaffed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It seems that Congress is on a wild rampage, and in their earnest desire to balance the budget they seem to have lost every atom of sense.

As a matter of fact, the various departments have been steadily contracting their personnel for the past twelve years, until at the present time the work of the Government is actually handicapped by a shortage of people in most bureaus.

Only in rare instances have there been any new appointments, only a typist and an occasional stenographer. The Government already has contributed a great deal to unemployment.

Vacancies occurring through resignations, deaths, transfers, &c, have been unfilled, and those left had to carry on their already overburdened shoulders the tasks of others.

While these already overburdened employes have not complained, and have felt that they were helping their Government by cheerfully shouldering extra work, some congressmen have been yelping like a pack of hungry wolves for their scalps.

Why should the burden of balancing the budget fall on the Federal employe? If the congressmen can not live on their salaries, which are in some instances lots more than they could earn in private industry, how do they think a man can raise a family, pay the mortgage and eat from the small remuneration the majority now receive?

The budget can be balanced in other ways than by scalping the experienced, conscientious and efficient Federal employe.

The vast majority of employes live from pay day to pay day, and if their salaries are trimmed houses will be thrown back on the market, mortgages, already overdue, will not be paid, real estate taxes will be passed up, insurance lapse, the standard of living lowered, and untold misery and hardship result. I have never received one cent or dollar from the U. S. A., either as charity, or for a position, but some of the D. A. R. can afford to be very patriotic because it is, or has been, profitable for them to be so.

THE VANDERBILT CLUB BID.

When playing at bridge with a party of dubs
Beware of the Vanderbilt bid of two clubs,
Unless you are sure beyond shadow of doubt
Your partner is wise and will carry you out.
For that Vanderbilt bid, as the sharks understand,
Is usually made with no clubs in your hand.

The game has grown subtle and cunning and deep.
Nice people consider such trickery cheap;
But the bid of two clubs shows some aces and kings
And is made for the sake of the answer it brings.
But the partner who fancies that clubs is the suit
Is the sort of a person that bridge players shoot.

The Vanderbilt bid of two clubs merely means
You respond with two diamonds without jacks and queens.
With a trick and a half, then a jump shift is made,
And your partner must know that you haven't a spade.
When with that sort of bidding the rivalry starts,
It's perfectly clear you can go game in hearts.

Well, as for myself, I'm not one who enjoys
The psychic demands of the Vanderbilt boys.
I've found I can't guess 'em. When helpless I am
The psychic decides that he'll go for a slam.
When his bid I support in a sorrowful way,
"I couldn't see game in the hand," he will say.

CHAMBER APPROVES ARGENTINA'S LOAN

Finance Minister Asserts Nation Has No Idea of Defaulting on Debts.

Buenos Aires, April 27 (U.P.).—The Chamber of Deputies tonight definitely approved the Government's proposed 500,000,000-peso patriotic loan, making only a few minor modifications.

Argentina has no intention of defaulting on her foreign loans, Finance Minister Alberto Hueyo said in addressing Congress before debate on the loan began.

"Foreign loans," he asserted, "carry the signature of the nation, which it can not fail to honor without affecting its credit."

Referring to low quotations on bonds of other countries in the foreign markets as a result of defaulting, Minister Hueyot declared that the fact that Argentine bonds also are depressed "is indicative of a doubt by foreigners as to whether Argentine is able to honor its signature. Therefore it is most necessary to broadcast to the world that Argentina will not suspend service payments; that the new budget provides funds necessary for prompt payment."

U. S. Copper Duty Move Stirs Criticism in Peru

MART UNIT PROBING SHORT SALES SCOPE

market followers are said to have turned to the short side in times of declining values with much the same facility as they followed rising prices in a bull market.

The accuracy of this viewpoint, it was held, would be tested in the forthcoming stock exchange report.

So far as could be learned here, the Senate investigating committee has not asked for such information, even informally.

A new group of Senate banking committee leaders wrested control of the stock market investigation from administration hands yesterday and formulated secret plans for running down the many leads already developed.

A steering committee of five members, only one of whom—Townsend of Delaware—could be classed as an administration senator, took charge of the inquiry which has developed from a "bear hunt" into a broad investigation of stock market operations.

Secret Work on Program.

"We are just getting started in this investigation," gruff, outspoken Norbeck, the committee chairman, announced after an hour's executive session of the steering group.

"We are working in secret on a program that will best develop the abuses of the system that all know to exist, but are hard to prove," he said.

Norbeck's statement gave little light on the committee's action, but it was believed the group considered the selection of agents to examine stock exchange and brokerage records in New York.

The committee chairman announced another meeting will be held today, which William A. Gray, committee counsel, will attend. Gray has been out of town for several days.

Membership of the steering committee was completed just before the meeting yesterday when Norbeck announced Townsend's appointment.

Other members, in addition to the chairman, are Senators Couzens (Republican), Michigan; Glass (Democrat), Virginia, and Fletcher (Democrat), Florida.

In selecting Townsend, Norbeck left off the committee Senator Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, President Hoover's close friend who had played a prominent part in the conduct of the inquiry heretofore.

Walcott was influential in starting the committee on its investigation of administration charges that bear raiding had depressed the market, but has taken little part in the actual questioning of witnesses.

Norbeck said no date had been fixed for resuming the open investigation, but added one would be held as soon as a program could be worked out and proper preparation made.

Views on Whitney Testimony.

He said President Whitney, of the exchange, probably would be called back to the stand. Asked for his impression of Whitney's testimony, in view of later developments, Norbeck said:

"The first witness we called, Matthew Brush, ruined Mr. Whitney in five minutes. We are just getting started. Those fellows said Wall street was a second heaven and as near perfect as it could be made.

"While we had to listen to all that, we know better. The worst things suspected are gradually developing."

Norbeck characterized as "important" the testimony Tuesday by Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, that $286,000 had been paid to some New York financial writers to "ballyhoo" stocks in which brokers were "rigging the market" through pools. The money was alleged to have been paid by A. Newton Plummer, New York publicity agent.

"I believe Plummer is a piker compared with what will be shown later," Norbeck said.

Any legislation threatening Government employes' salaries, rights or privileges was opposed in a resolution adopted last night at the meeting of Bunker Hill Post of the American Legion in the Social Oyster Clubhouse, at Rhode Island avenue and Twelfth street northeast.

The group also expressed itself against the proposed erection of a gas storage tank in the Northeast section of the city.

U. S. PAY SLASH EXEMPTION PUT AT $2,500 BY HOUSE

assault. They subsided quickly when Representative Lindsay C. Warren (Democrat), North Carolina, in the Speaker's chair, threatened to clear the galleries.

Members of the economy committee opened attack at once on the O'Connor and Britten plans. Economy Chairman John McDuffie pleaded with members not to be "stampeded by what you read in the papers." He said the Britten plan would yield only $12,000,000. As for reducing the pay of workers, he admonished employes in the galleries "to think of the millions walking the streets."

Misunderstood by House.

Representative Lewis W. Douglas (Democrat), Arizona, another member of the economy committee, joined him in defense of the economy bill. He said the committee is "misunderstood" by the House. Federal workers drawing more than $1,800, he said, are better paid than those in outside fields.

Representative O'Connor replied that the total savings proposed by the economy committee was not a drop in the bucket to the Government's expense.

"If this is all you can do, it's so infinitesimal that it doesn't matter at all," he shouted. "Your policy was wrong in the first place. You aimed at saving $67,000,000 from Government's wages, when you should have economized elsewhere."

Representative Britten said he was influenced in placing the exemption limit at $2,500 by Mr. Douglas' statement that 70 per cent of all Federal workers were drawing $2,400 or less. He, too, accused the economy committee of "taking the bull by the wrong end."

More Convincing Margin.

The Britten amendment to the O'Connor substitute was adopted, 173 to 148. This vote was confirmed later by a teller count on the perfected O'Connor amendment. It carried by a more convincing margin, 185 to 97.

Following the vote, Representative Byrns heaped coals upon the heads of House members. He declared he "had too much confidence in Government employes to believe that they were not willing to make the sacrifice at a time of great national need. He told the House that at one fell swoop it had all but destroyed the economy program.

But there was gloating from the side of the opposition, led by Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York.

He directed his remarks at Chairman McDuffie's statement that the Government had a "billion-dollar payroll" to meet. Of this amount, $570,000,000 goes for salaries in the Postoffice, which takes in $800,000,000 in revenue, he said.

Nearly $259,000,000 more goes for Army and Navy compensation, leaving only $500,000,000 paid out to the Government's civil workers, he told the economy chairman.

New Amendments Today.

A host of new amendments, intended to aid Government workers, will be offered today. Representative William I. Sirovich (Democrat), New York, intends to propose optional retirement for Government workers after 30 years of service.

Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, will propose a "five and one-half day week" for Government employes, with extra pay for the added half day.

Following a speech on the floor in which he championed the cause of the Federal worker, Representative John J. Boylan (Democrat), New York, was taken ill and removed to Garfield Hospital. He was reported resting easily last night.

Proposal that provisions for eliminating Saturday half holidays be stricken from the bill was made by Representative John W. McCormack (Democrat), Massachusetts. Representative McDuffie and Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, spoke in opposition to his amendment.

Speeches By Several.

Leading up to the vote on the Britten $2,500 exemption plan, antipay cut speeches were made by Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas; Representative John C. Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin; Representative Melvin J. Maas (Republican), Minnesota, and Representative Martin L. Sweeney (Democrat), Ohio.

Before taking up the sweeping omnibus program, members rejected a proposal to cut their own salaries offered as an amendment to the legislative bill from $10,000 to $9,000 a year. A rising vote showed 134 opposed to the cut and 73 for it. A teller count was demanded. The cut was defeated 158 to 150.

No significance was attached to this in light of the omnibus bill to follow, proposing reductions for all Federal employes. Congress members included. Should members have voted for both, they would have dealt themselves a "double cut."

Among those voting against the $1,000 slash, proposed by Representative Guy U. Hardy (Republican), Colorado, were Speaker Garner, Economy Chairman McDuffie, and Representative Douglas, a member of the economy committee. Representative C. William Ramseyer (Republican), Iowa, who is expected to sponsor the President's furlough plan, voted for it. Other members of the committee did not vote.

For the "rider" rule, with gag features eliminated were 100 Republicans and 119 Democrats, while 75 Republicans, 88 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite opposed it.

Following approval of the rule, Economy Chairman McDuffie led off two hours' general debate with a plea for adoption of the economy program, wage cuts included. Should the House fail to reduce salaries now, the next Congress will have to cut far deeper, he told members.

"The people have become used to the beneficence of Uncle Sam, whose expenditures have mounted $1,000,000,000 in the last ten years," said the economy chairman. "The country is demanding economy and we must effect it."

Opposition speeches followed in rapid succession, after Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, dissenting member of the economy committee, called on members to vote down Federal personnel provisions of the omnibus bill.

Would Increase Idle.

The committee plan, he declared, would add 150,000 to 200,000 to the unemployed. Overtime pay, one result of labor's 50-year struggle with industry, would be thrown overboard, he said. Abolition of Saturday half holidays would force Federal employes to work 3,000,000 more hours a week, he declared.

Speeches that followed were of similar tenor.

Representative Hamilton Fish, jr. (Republican), New York, said the bill was filled with "hysteria, hypocrisy, and hokum."

Representative LaGuardia charged it was "cruel and wrong," proposed "by a lot of men who have never had to work for a living and have no understanding of money value."

Representative Black said it constituted "plain everyday embezzlement from weak people who can not protect themselves."

Deeper in the Mire.

Representative Robert Crosser (Democrat), Ohio, said the bill, "representing the height of idocy," would retard business revival.

Representative James M. Mead (Democrat), New York, asserted passage "can only sink America deeper in the mire," that pay cuts in industry furnish dire examples of what will follow general application of the principle.

The so-called "gag" rule originally offered to the House provided for four amendments for each of the ten titles to the bill, and no more. Under this arrangement only four alternative pay-cut plans could have been offered in lieu of the committee's proposal. Acting for the rules committee, Representative William B. Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, offered to amend the rule to provide that all economy committee amendments to the omnibus bill be over and above the four specified.

His amendment was accepted and the House voted to proceed to consideration of the rule. Here Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, former parliamentarian of the House, made his unique proposal to take out the "gag," removing restrictions on the number of amendments, by considering two sections of the rule separately.

Vigorously Fought.

His plan was vigorously fought by Representative Bankhead, Representative Ramseyer and Representative John Q. Tilson, former Republican floor leader. Mr. Bankhead raised a point of order. Representative Cannon cited precedents. Speaker Garner overruled the point of order and the vote was taken on the "gag."

Thus the way was paved for extensive revision of the omnibus bill, a severe reversal for Democratic House leaders, who had hoped to get approval of their measure in something like the form it left the economy committee.

Interested spectators packed the galleries during most of the afternoon, but they were orderly spectators, who refrained from applauding the antipay-cut speeches except when members below set them an example.

The "opposition" mapped its campaign in the morning, when representatives of the Federation of Federal Employes and the American Federation of Labor sat with Representative Cochran, Representative Mead and Chairman William P. Connery, jr., of the House labor committee, in Mr. Cochran's offices.

Chile Studies Gasoline Imports.

Santiago, Chile, April 27 (U.P.).—Placing the government in the business of importing gasoline is to be considered by a commission being organized by the minister of public works, it was learned today. The move would be to avoid a shortage of the fuel and a rise in price. The Shell Mexican and the West India companies have a monopoly on gasoline importation at present.

BAR GROUP RENEWS SAVING BILL ATTACK

Council Declares Sections of Omnibus Measure Destroy Legal Rights.

Describing portions of the omnibus bill as being destructive of the legal rights of American citizens to contest personal infringements in court, the executive council of the Federal Bar Association, at a meeting yesterday, reaffirmed its stand against enactment of the bill.

The council attacked the section of the economy measure which limited the jurisdiction of the courts to take action on matters contained in the bill unless they involve a constitutional question. This they considered as an abolishment of rights.

In a discussion of the measure, which in one section authorized the President to terminate salary cut provisions upon finding that prices had resumed the level of 1926, the opinion of the meeting was that prices in Washington were at that level at present. As an example of the price level now existing, the cost of housing was used as an illustration of the comparative scale of 1926 and the present scale.

The president of the association, William R. Vallance, who presided at the meeting, was authorized to consult with the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor to ascertain the price of commodities in the District in comparison with other cities.

A question was raised at the meeting on whether the bill included commissioned officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps in the general language terming employes of the Government who will be cut in salary under its provisions. The wording of the bill, they asserted, did not specifically include the uniformed group.

Letters from a number of United States attorneys were read at the meeting expressing opposition to the measure. The attorneys in the Government service, they maintained, received from $2,000 to $9,000 per year to protect the interests of the Government, as against the high fees received by attorneys serving private interests. Men capable of defending the interests of the Government would desert the service if threatened with a reduction of pay, it was stated.

Fifteen new members were elected to the association by the council. Plans for the annual meeting of the organization on May 9 were discussed.

Board of Visitors Ends Work at Naval Academy

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 27.—Although their stay originally was planned to cover four full days, members of the board of visitors who have been engaged since Monday in making the annual inspections of the Naval Academy virtually completed their work tonight and will return to Washington early tomorrow morning. Pressure of business, particularly as regards the senators and representatives, five of the former and six of the latter, who are members of the naval affairs committees, brought about curtailment of the program.

Instead of preparing its report here before departing tomorrow, it will be drafted in Washington at an early date and copies will be submitted to Secretary of the Navy Adams and the presiding officers of the Senate and House. No hint was given as to what recommendations the report of the board will embrace.

Mrs. Willebrandt Silent On Agency's Wet Stand

San Francisco, April 27 (A.P.).—Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant United States Attorney General in charge of prohibition enforcement, declined today to discuss the antiprohibition resolution of the California Vineyardists Association.

Mrs. Willebrandt is now chief counsel for Fruit Industries, Ltd., a marketing organization of grape growers. "But my silence," she said, "is not to be interpreted either as affirming or opposing the campaign for prohibition modification."

Press Moves to End Use Of Its Features by Radio

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—American newspaper publishers moved against use of newspaper features in radio advertising today, and unanimously passed a resolution condemning recent court action in the Aberdeen, S. Dak., American-News case as "an encroachment upon freedom of the press."

After a general discussion of "appearances before the microphone" of creators of comic strips and other features whose popularity has been built up by newspapers, the American Newspaper Publishers Association passed unanimously a motion urging members to stipulate when buying features that they be not used "in any advertising matter."

Alfonso's Cousin Works In Paris Ford Factory

Paris, April 27 (A.P.).—A new hand reported for work at 8 o'clock this morning in the Ford plant outside Paris and punched the clock as Mr. Orleans. In better days his chief claim to distinction was that King Alfonso of Spain was his first cousin and that Isabella II of Spain was his grandmother; that was when he was Alfonso d'Orleans.

He wrote Henry Ford some time ago asking for a job at Detroit and Mr. Ford offered him a place in the French assembling plant. He accepted, hoping that he will be transferred to the home factory later. He is a clerk now, but will have a working permit in two weeks, and will move to a job in the plant.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

FOODS FOR BABIES.

BOTH growing children and their mothers can get along satisfactorily on a near vegetarian diet containing a minimum amount of meat and milk products, in the opinion of Dr. Dorothy E. Lane, of San Francisco. She bases her opinion upon her experience. Her observations were carefully and scientifically checked.

In dieting pregnant women, in order to promote their own welfare and to protect their prospective offspring, she followed this plan:

After the fifth and until the beginning of the ninth month the woman was given one-tenth more food than she had had previously. In the last month of pregnancy she lived on a somewhat reduced diet. During the last half of the term a small square of butter daily, occasionally a little cream, and an egg or a small serving of meat once a week constituted the only foods of animal origin.

Other than this the diet consisted of peas, lentils, peanuts, whole wheat flour, and foods made with it, bran, shorts, almonds, figs, oranges, bananas, tomatoes, green lettuce, raw green cabbage, raw celery, raw carrots, cauliflower, sweet and white potatoes. No prunes, plums, cranberries, spinach, nor manufactured cane sugar were used, and all pastries were avoided. Oils and dressing were used on salads. A teaspoonful of cod liver oil was given daily. One woman on this diet gained twenty pounds.

Newly born babies are breast fed by mothers eating this diet. If it was necessary to give a baby an artificial food a modified lactic acid milk was used. In a short while, whether the baby was getting mother's milk or lactic acid cow's milk, some vegetable milk was added to the diet. At five months of age the babies had been shifted from animal vegetable milk. All babies old enough to have it were given fruit juice and then, a little later, cod liver oil was added.

A typical diet for a child 18 months of age and some months older was:

Breakfast—11 ounces vegetable milk; 1 medium sized banana; 5 ounces cooked cracked wheat; 2¼ ounces orange juice.

10 a. m.—4½ ounces orange juice.

Luncheon—11 ounces vegetable milk; 3 ounces potato; 3 ounces vegetable puree; 1½ ounces fruit in season; 3 dried dates.

4 p. m.—4½ ounces orange juice.

Evening meal—11 ounces vegetable milk; 2½ ounces of a cooked legume; 3 ounces of a pureed vegetable; 2 ounces apricots, and 3 dried dates.

In order to balance these diets she gave rather large portions of cod liver oil and orange juice. A child three months of age got 1 teaspoonful of cod liver oil and 1 tablespoonful of orange juice at each of five feedings. At 2 years of age, 11 ounces of orange juice daily and 3 dessertspoons of cod liver oil three times a day. At 8 months of age children were getting some vegetable in addition to the vegetable milk.

TEETH AND THYROID GLANDS.

Mrs. E. A. C. writes:

1. Is it necessary for the thyroid gland to be active to cause teeth to develop?

2. Is there any way to cause the dormant thyroid gland to become active?

3. Does the thyroid gland disappear in the adult?

REPLY.

1. There may be some connection between the development of the teeth and the thyroid gland, but it is not of major importance. Some physicians give a very small dose of thyroid to babies that are far behind the teething schedule.

2. Yes. In proper cases a moderate and regulated dose of some thyroid extract is given for that purpose.

3. No. You probably have the thymus in mind in this question.

CHROMIUM POISONING.

E. G. G. writes: I have worked in a chromium plating shop for three years, and the fumes have eaten away part of the septum and all of the mucous membrane in my nose. The scabs in my nose interfere with my breathing. I think my sinuses are infected. What disorders are caused by chromium poisoning?

REPLY.

Ulcers of the skin are quite as common as those in the nose. The peculiarity of chromic ulcers is that they have a tendency to penetrate. While they are almost painless they have no tendency to granulate or heal. Some claim that chromium poisoning causes bladder ulcers, nephritis and digestive troubles, but others do not sustain these claims.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Evening Gowns and Bathing Suits Reveal Arm Beauty.

BEAUTIFUL arms are the order of the day, and strangely enough, it is taken for granted that they should be beautiful. It is only when evening gowns and bathing suits reveal blemished arms or contours that are not gracefully lovely, that attention is called to arms; unfavorable attention, of course.

Elsie Pierce.

From now to the beginning of the summer, make it a point to devote an hour or two once a week to your arms. Keep the circulation stimulated so that your arms will be a pinkish-white instead of red, and the skin will be smooth instead of rough.

Under the Skin Eruptions.

Little rough spots under the skin, often called goose-pimples, are quite common. And nothing is more unfeminine than a rough arm. Everyone loves to touch a uniformly smooth arm, but touching a rough one causes a far from pleasurable sensation.

Friction, plenty of scrubbing with a bath brush and a good soap, here tincture of green soap is very helpful, and rubbing with the turkish towel will help to overcome the roughness. At first, after the scrubbing the skin may feel sensitive, but this will pass away after a few days. Sponging with boric acid solution will allay any sensitiveness. After the bath and rub-down, massage with warm olive oil will help. Wear the sleeves of an old flannel nightgown, if you have one, to avoid staining the bed linens. Or bandage the arms loosely in flannel strips. In the morning take a shower as cold as you can stand it and after the shower rub briskly with the turkish towel again. Once a week a salt rub should be taken.

As a softening and whitening lotion, equal parts of glycerine and lemon juice may be used and a few drops of household ammonia may be added to this solution. This may be patted and massaged over the arms at night before retiring in place of the warm oil.

Exercises.

Arm exercise will not only help to mold beautiful contours but will also stimulate the circulation, thus keeping the skin lovely, too. If your arms are too stout or too thin, write me and I shall be happy to send you my set of exercises.

Freckles.

If your arms are freckled or discolored, my bulletin "Freckles—How to Deal With and Dim Them," will interest you. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

(Tomorrow we concentrate on our elbows.)

Elsie Pierce

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

These Doctors!

MY Dear Frances McDonald: Will you please help me with your advice and sympathetic understanding? I am miserable trying to forget a married man, since I am also married to the dearest man on this earth. My husband, whom I have confided in, says it is merely infatuation, but as I have always loved to be loved and fussed over, my husband has neglected this, but is wonderful otherwise. Now here is my story: Over a year ago a doctor called at my home, and during this consultation it seemed that every time he looked at me he seemed to attract me and I him. Do you think that a man can attract a woman with his eyes? Later I became run down and something seemed to urge me to go to this doctor, which I did. He seemed to realize I loved him. This was my first visit to any doctor.

Well, he still glanced into my eyes, and was nice, and told me to call again, which I did. Then he rudely told me I was disgusted, discontented and unhappy and that I came to a doctor to fix it up. Well, I was amazed. He asked me why I didn't go out every night with my husband, to which I replied, I did. Then I became ashamed of myself. But I returned to him thinking in time he might know I loved him, but not to wreck his home. I have succeeded partly, but please how can I forget and show him he was mistaken? I can not be happy, only when I see him, whether it be ten or sixteen weeks. It is my only thought. Then he tells me my nerves would be better if I was contented. What does he mean? The last visit, he was smoking in his office and when the nurse brought my card to him I noticed she shut the door and I could swear I heard her laugh. Do you think he has talked about me? He was always anxious to learn how my husband and I got along and I always tried to tell him I was happy and contented, but he always says "no." I will anxiously await reply.

AGNES.

Well, something ought to be done about the enterprising quacks who drum up trade with their eyes. But there seems to be nothing to prevent the pretty racket and so women with gelatin spines will continue to fill the outer offices of this gentry, while husbands pay the fees!

As a first step, dear lady, we will assure you that you were correct in your belief that you heard the nurse laugh. The marvel is that these attendants do not laugh themselves to death. Now, need we say anything further? Can you go back, face that woman and that man who are being so entertained by your activities? Surely you must have some ordinary everyday pride, self-respect and common sense. Women like you actually make one wonder whether wife-beating should really ever have "gone out?" Had your nice, complacent, civilized husband listened to your tale, and then used a fairly competent whip with healthy vigor, you would today be perfectly content, "sure that he loved you," and even the doctor's black eye would not bother you. Women like you are throw-backs to the days when men had to keep other men off their preserves by main strength. They accomplished their objective by punishing the woman as well as the man. When enterprising strangers came prowling around the case, husbands were something more definite than understanding. The stranger was heaved over the nearest cliff and the wife was taught the gentle art of having nothing to do with prowlers.

Your problem is distinctly up to you. You can continue to keep the doctor's nurse amused, and swell the doctor's income at your husband's expense, or you can be a self-respecting human being and make something of your life. And some day the medical profession will deal with these quacks, as the bar association deals with legal charlatans. Men who live by holding hands with neurotic wives should display shingles more accurately describing their profession. They are a disgrace to the medical profession and a menace to the communities they contaminate.

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF APRIL 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:45 a. m. to 8 a. m., from noon to 2 p. m., and from 5:30 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5:10 p. m.

Multiplicity of events on April 28 will make it difficult to focus much time or attention on any one line of endeavor. Unforeseen difficulties will present themselves between you and the fulfillment of your dreams. Resist the influences of others, and listen to the dictates of your own heart!

Children born on this April 28 will have courageous spirits, both mental and physical, and the will power to stick to one thing. They will have constant and faithful natures, will always "play the game," and will be able to make friends very easily.

You present, if born on April 28, to the world a slightly aggressive nature and an assertive manner. Inside, however, you are a most sensitive being, and your brusqueness is only an acquired and affected trait to cover up your real inferiority complex. You are too conscientious and too timid to ever bluff your way through the world; you are always ready to deliver "the real goods." Work of a public capacity would not appeal to you; you are far happier working behind the scenes. You are good at figures, do not slight details, and are a methodical thinker.

There is a strain of solitariness in your nature, and people must come to you; you do not go to them. Although not a solicitor of companionship, when your own is sought no one can be more ready or approachable. Circumstances permitting, you quickly bury yourself in books, and are dead to the world about you. You do not judge people by the standard of perfection, and you see your fellow beings through tolerant eyes.

Temperate in all things, you do not squander your reserve forces, and you usually feel fit and have an even temperament. You are wise enough to differentiate between things worth your worry and things which are not. You are capable of enjoying life, but you seldom display much enthusiasm about anything. Harmony within the home is shown in your horoscope—good relations between both parents and children.

Successful people born April 28.

2—Lewis E. Parsons, lawyer and governor.

3—Silas S. Packard, educator.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Two shades of green make a chic afternoon suit in light weight woolen. (Courtesy of Dupouy Magnin, Paris).

NEW YORK, April 27.—How I love to see the return of handwork to favor! There just is something so entirely feminine, so truly elegant, in this style of decorating. Incrustations, fancy gathers and shirs and pleats, all hav. their art, and their elegance. But for intricate elegance, give me embroidery, or lace, or anything else that speaks of long hours with "fluttering fingers like little white china birds" fashioning it. And a lovely face bending over it with dream-filled eyes that but half see the work beneath their gaze!

A new firm of couturiers who has recently opened in Paris is a firm believer in handwork. Even in woolen models, patches and sections of drawnwork with lovely overembroidery in contrasting colored silks, are shown. This firm is famous for their handwork on all their models, lingerie and negligees being their especial forte, and a negligee of theirs often has on it a king's ransom in embroidery.

Poiret often introduces this little elegance, this season as before. In evening dresses, supposedly for Hollywood, embroidered organdy combined with mousseline in the fullest of skirts that sweep the floor, are one of the outstanding successes of this house.

Another house makes some lovely organdies and marquisettees in pink and white, calling this also for Hollywood. Must we believe that Paris is at last getting Hollywood minded instead of Palm Beach-ed? This house, by the way, carefully makes embroideries that are easily copied, saying that it wants its American buyers to have no trouble in getting the models copied, adding that this might serve to give employment to hundreds of people—the embroidery alone on miladi's spring and summer frocks!

* * * *

You can reembroider your house things if you wish, but we don't—only initials. Want to make over your home, whether it is a one-room apartment or a ten-room house? Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for Dah-ray's ideas on the subject. Original ideas, things that any one can do, we promise you, and for very, very little expenditure. Curtains that are truly unusual and tasteful. Candlesticks, wall hangings—just better see the leaflet for yourself and see whether you aren't delighted with the ideas and the ease with which you could make them in your spare time.

* * * *

A brand-new sports glove in very hard leather, treated to only one row of stitching down its back, is the newest idea, and very chic, we must admit.

* * * *

Two shades of green—when I saw that on the rough sketch Mamzelle sent me from Paris to sketch for you today I laughed, because I just knew without being told that it was a Dupouy Magnin model. M. Magnin, who designs the glorious "conconctions" you see in this collom from that firm, has a penchant for green. The tailleur I sketched today is a dressy one, an afternoon tailleur, really, in lightweight woollen. And very lovely, I think.

* * * *

'Twas a Paris model, in soft satin and lace—but the lace put on with those rows and rows of over-and-over thread until one just has finger aches looking at it. A breakfast jacket in pale blue, with ecru lace—and I just had to sketch it for you.

Au Revoir.

STEWED CARP IN TOMATO SAUCE.

WE'VE rather a new one in the fish line for you today—stewed carp in tomato sauce, carp being a fish less familiar to us than, perhaps, are cod, halibut, trout and salmon.

It happens that carp is one of the dry fish, which means that the boiling and steaming processes are advocated for its use rather than the more drying baking process, and carp is rather interesting from the point of view of having arrived in our midst along about 1872, and since its fairly recent arrival, spread out over practically all the fresh waters of our country, from which they are now procurable. However, this bit of information in no way aids us in tackling the matter of cooking the carp, so let's give a recipe for it.

FRIDAY'S DINNER.

Stewed Carp in Tomato Sauce with Rice Timbales.
Spinach Croquettes
Whole-wheat Bread
Carrot Salad
Fruit Gelatin
Tea or Coffee.

Stewed Carp in Tomato Sauce With Rice Timbales.

1½ pounds carp
2 cupfuls boiled rice
1 tablespoonful butter
4 tablespoonfuls oil
2 tablespoonfuls flour
2 teaspoonfuls parsley, minced
2 small onions, sliced
1 green pepper, minced
1 clove of garlic, thinly sliced
1 cupful strained tomato
Salt, pepper and sugar to taste.

Skin and cut carp into two-inch pieces. Pack rice into small molds or timbale cups and stand in hot water on stove. Heat the strained tomato; adding one-half cupful of boiling water to it. Season with salt, pepper and sugar to taste. Heat the oil, put in garlic and fry fish lightly on each side, remove and place in the hot tomato. Put the onions and pepper in the oil and fry until nearly cooked. Add these to the tomato, cover closely and allow to simmer for 30 minutes. Melt the butter and add the flour, cooking together. Add to the stew. Unmold the rice onto hot platter and place the carp in the center, sprinkling with minced parsley and paprika.

Spinach Croquettes.

2 cupfuls cooked chopped spinach
1 cupful milk or milk and cream, mixed
2 tablespoonfuls flour
1 tablespoonful butter.
2 egg yolks
¾ teaspoonful salt
Dash of paprika and white pepper
Cracker crumbs and egg

Season spinach. One hard-cooked chopped egg may be added, if desired. Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the flour, heat together thoroughly, then continue beating while adding the milk. Season with paprika, white pepper and salt and add the beaten yolks of the eggs. Cook for two minutes, until well thickened. Add spinach. Turn out on a platter and cool. When thoroughly chilled form into croquettes. Dip in beaten egg and cracker crumbs and fry in deep hot fat. Cool the croquettes after shaping, as this makes them easier to fry and creamier inside when cooked.

Carrot Salad.

To one cupful raw carrots finely ground add one cupful celery and one small green pepper, finely chopped. Mix well, tossing together with a fork. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and top with mayonnaise. A French dressing may be sprinkled over these materials before the mayonnaise is added.

A PRETTY TRIPLE SQUEEZE.

"SQUEEZE plays," as Mr. W. Abbott Gorham observed in a recent letter, "are very common, but a triple squeeze, in which both opponents are trapped, is a rare delight."

Mr. Gorham then goes on to recount the story of the following deal, in which he sat South. He tells the story so well that I give it in his own words:

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

"Six clubs" was undoubtedly an overbid, with so many diamond losers in my hand, but the making of five clubs seemed a certainty, and with my honors to offset any loss, I decided to attempt the Slam.

"A spade led by West would have defeated the contract, but appeared undesirable, so he chose the Ace of diamonds. When he followed with the Ten, I paused (as I have learned to do from your teachings and from bitter experience) to study the hands and decide what plan, if any, would be likely to garner the remaining tricks. Eleven tricks were sure, and three lines of play at first suggested themselves to me as a means of capturing the twelfth:

1—The diamond finesse;

2—Establishing a diamond in the Dummy by discarding and ruffing in the closed hand;

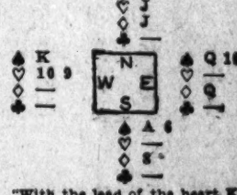
3—The squeeze.

"The first plan seemed foredoomed to failure; the second would leave me without an entry in the Dummy with which to cash the diamond, and the length of the trump suit seemed to point to the squeeze play as the logical plan of attack; so I decided to adopt that method.

"By this time West and East were 'howling for blood,' so I took the second trick in the Dummy with the diamond King and immediately led clubs. On the first five leads I discarded a diamond and three spades from the Dummy. West discarded two spades and East two hearts. I now led my last trump, knowing that if the adverse hearts had been equally divided and West's other two cards were a spade honor and one other in that suit, he would now be squeezed. I hoped he would discard a heart, which would make things easy for me. But that wily player, noting my discard of spades in the Dummy, seemed to sense the situation and made what I consider the best play of the hand in throwing the nine of spades, baring his King. He evidently hoped his partner held a guarded high spade or that I would attempt a spade finesse. I was forced to discard a small heart in the Dummy, and, of course, East did likewise.

"I now led the King of hearts and overtook it with the Ace in the Dummy, following with the Queen. At Trick 11, the following situation resulted:



"With the lead of the heart Knave, it became East's turn to be squeezed. His discard of a spade enabled me to cash both cards of that suit in my hand on the last 2 tricks.

"An interesting feature of the hand is that, had West elected to protect his spade King by discarding hearts, East might have daringly discarded his three spades and held hearts, but this would have been nullified by the lead of the Ace of spades from the closed hand, following the exhaustion of trumps, which would have squeezed the necessary trick from East."

TODAY'S POINTER.

The making of the plan of play must not be deferred until late in the hand. An essential part of accurate play is an accurate plan made immediately after the Opening lead and the exposure of the Dummy on the table.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

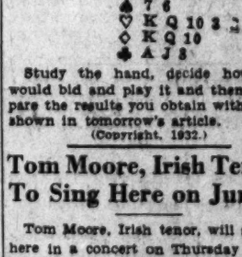
The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IN an address before the Army War College, "The Preservation of American Identity in the World War," Gen. J. G. Harbord, chairman of the Radio Corporation of America, paid a great tribute to Gen. Pershing.

"Let us hope that other generations will have a Pershing to lead their armies," Gen. Harbord said in conclusion. "The verdict of history can not be hurried in its award of place. No man writing of his contemporaries can divest himself of sentiment. Prophecy like almost everything else is quoted at low values in these modern days. Yet, I doubt if any one writing now of the six greatest military figures of our first 150 years of national life would deny that Gen. Pershing easily belongs in a select group with Sherman, Jackson, Grant, Lee and Washington. If such a group be narowed to three, your present speaker can conceive of no such combination that would omit the name of John J. Pershing."

Senator Tydings, of Maryland, had Gen. Harbord's address, consisting upward of 10,000 words, reprinted in the Congressional Record. It should prove a fitting addition to the general's book, "Leaves From a War Diary."

THE "Street Singer" (Arthur Tracy) gave his final Washington broadcast last night and concludes his engagement at the Palace Theater tonight.

The "Street Singer" has more than made good with his visible audience and now having met President Hoover 'n' everything goes his way rejoicing.

The popular idea of street singing is dimes and quarters (maybe) but this Street Singer is reported to be earning $3,000 each week.

Speaking of the Palace, we read in Mr. Bell's column that Carter Barron, its manager, hails from Atlanta, and is a friend of the new senator from Georgia. Maybe Mr. Barron is a good one to ask what has become of the great Southern announcer, Lambdin Kay?

COMPLIMENTS have been received by Capt. William J. Stannard for the tie-in made by the Army Band in its radio broadcast, with the dedication of the Folger Shakespeare Library and the Shakespeare anniversary. Listeners were told that there is now in Washington one of the greatest Shakespearean libraries in the world. In honor of this the Army Band opened its program with the march, "Cathedral of Learning," by Rocereto. Following the march a portion of the Shakespeare editorial from The Washington Post was read.

Finally, in honor of the dedication of the new Shakespearean theater at Stratford-on-Avon, the Army Band played 'Hands Across the Sea," by John Philip Sousa.

Ed Wynn made a fine start with his new program Tuesday night. He was about as funny as he is on the stage and no doubt will be even better after a few more microphone appearances. He received tip-top support from Graham McNamee, Don Voorhee's Orchestra and the singers.

About every so often rumors filter through that McNamee is about "through," but there wasn't any evidence of it in his performance with Ed Wynn Tuesday night and, as will the comedian, Mac will get better in the part as time goes on.

One of the funniest things Wynn said was in describing a certain boy. "He was the kind of a boy," Wynn explained, "you would use for a blueprint if you were building an idiot."

A special program from the Leviathan, when in midocean, almost 1,600 miles from New York, will be heard over WRC tomorrow night. The broadcast will originate in the Club Leviathan, beginning at 9:30 p. m. Harry Acton, New York ship news reporter, will act as master of ceremonies. The Harry Reser Orchestra will furnish the music.

Walter Damrosch will say adieu for the summer to his Nation-wide Music Appreciation audience at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The program will consist of adaptations for high-school choruses of the themes of seventeen celebrated instrumental compositions.

The fifth N. B. C. music appreciation season will begin on Friday, October 14, 1932.

"Love Songs and Waltzes" is the title of the new biweekly series starring Frank Munn, tenor, accompanied by a string orchestra under the direction of Daniel Lieberfeld (WJZ, 9:30 p. m., Fridays and Mondays).

SWEDEN'S outstanding man of affairs, Sigfrid Edstrom, will be the first Scandinavian speaker heard here under the auspices of the International Radio Forum (WEAF, but not WRC, 6 o'clock tomorrow night * * * A radio adaptation of "The Beggar on Horseback" will be presented during the Radio Guild matinee tomorrow (WRC, 9:15 p. m.) * * * "Indians All," a dramatic story dealing with the Battle of Chateau Thierry, will be presented over WJZ at 5:05 o'clock this afternoon * * * "The Incarnation of Krishna Mulvaney," the last of the Rudyard Kipling stories to be related by Mr. Beetle, will be heard over WRC at 8:30 o'clock tonight * * * Secretary Wilbur will be the speaker on the American Child Health Association broadcast tomorrow (WMAL, 2:15 p. m.) * * * "Contrast," with a male cast, is the offering of the Northern Dramatic Company tonight (WOL, 7:30 o'clock).

DE VALERA UNBOWED BY REVERSE IN DAIL

Cries of "Resign" Greet Him as He Begins Debate on Abolishing Oath.

Dublin, April 27 (A.P.).—The long-promised fight over President Eamon De Valera's attempt to wipe away the oath of allegiance to the British crown reached its climax today in an exciting session of the Dail Eireann.

As a prelude to the battle the government was unexpectedly defeated by a vote of 76 to 66 on a side issue connected with the problem of unemployment, but the determined De Valera took that setback in his stride.

In the face of opposition cries of "Resign! Resign!" he moved on to the debate on the oath—a debate he raised to new heights by declaring "the moment the people are ready to stand for an independent republic we will be quite ready to lead them."

A round of applause from his adherents greeted that statement.

The President made it clear, however, it was his purpose to abolish the oath—now required of all public servants in Ireland—without withdrawing the Free State from the commonwealth of British nations. He urged that the Free State government had a perfect right to eliminate the oath without reference to Great Britain.

In moving second reading on the bill which would do away with the gesture of allegiance toward the crown, Mr. De Valera, speaking in quiet, unimpassioned tones, made this assertion:

"We propose to honor scrupulously the pledge we gave the electors. We hold there is no obligation on us to consult the British government with respect to the action we are taking. Deletion of the oath is quite consistent with the position of the Free State as one of the coequal partners in the British commonwealth."

Turning to the proposal to delete the section of the constitution which makes that constitution subject to the Anglo-Irish treaty, and which the bill also seeks to remove, the president said his purpose was to put the treaty in the same position as other countries put their treaties.

Cosgrave Leads Attack.

It should not be possible, he argued, for the courts to say that the municipal law was subject to the terms of the treaty.

Rising for the opposition, former President William T. Cosgrave attacked the bill as "the greatest piece of political chicanery in history." Its very simplicity, he said, was its own condemnation.

"One clause of the treaty is as binding as any other," Mr. Cosgrave declared. "Destroy one and you destroy all."

The oath bill, he contended, was a breach of the treaty, and the only way to alter that document was by mutual agreement in London between the Free State and Britain.

The predebate defeat for the government was on an administration motion to devote all today's parliamentary time to the oath issue. The Labor members, who hold the balance of power, demanded that the unemployment question have preference, and they turned against their government allies in the subsequent vote.

Mr. De Valera took the defeat as a minor matter. When the opposition cried "Resign!" he smilingly remarked that the oath debate would be interrupted to allow discussion of unemployment.

Leesburg Inn Fire Damage Is $20,000

Efforts of Fighters Avert Destruction and Spread to Other Buildings.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., April 27.—Fire starting from a defective flue and spreading rapidly through the upper story caused $20,000 damage today to the Leesburg Inn, large frame and brick structure situated in the heart of the business section.

The quick response and the strenuous efforts of firefighters from Leesburg, Purcellville, Herndon, McLean, Vienna, Falls Church, Alexandria, and Warrenton saved the building from total destruction and protected the courthouse and clerk's office, housing valuable county records, which are near the inn. The building, valued at $40,000, was erected 50 years ago and is now owned and managed by F. D. Cunningham.

The fire, starting at 8 a. m., drew a crowd from all sections, and hundreds of people lined the streets and filled the courthouse yard adjacent. The courthouse yard was also filled with furniture and clothing taken from guests' rooms of the hotel.

Clara Bow to Return In "Call Her Savage"

Hollywood, Calif., April 27 (A.P.).—Clara Bow signed up with Fox Studios today to go back into the movies.

She will go to work soon in a picture to be called "Call Her Savage," by Tiffany Thayer. No leading man or director has been chosen yet.

The red-haired actress has been in retirement since she left the screen about six months ago after a breakdown, which followed a host of troubles. The Fox contract is understood to be for six months with a renewal option for a long term contract. No figure was announced.

Man Takes Sleeping Dose; Only Walking Saves Life

Doctors Say Slumber Would Be Fatal Before Potion Effects Wear Off; Constant Tramp in Hospital Interspersed With Few Pinches.

Newark, N. J., April 27 (A.P.).—Through the corridors of City Hospital Howard Edwards walked endlessly today. He strolled toward nowhere in particular, but with the knowledge that a halt in his steps might cost him his life.

For, physicians say, if he goes to sleep he will die from the effects of a sleep-inducing potion he took last night.

"Make him walk to keep him awake" were their orders, and Edwards, 30 years old, was walked all during the night, all day, and was still being walked this evening. Orderlies, walking in relays of an hour or two each, guided his steps up and down and around the labyrinth of corridors, occasionally pinching him when his eyelids drooped too much.

Physicians said they could not say how long it would take for the effects of the sleeping potion to pass away. He was taken to the hospital after his mother reported he was acting strangely.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ALTHOUGH no definite announcement has been made, there is a reasonably authenticated rumor floating about, as rumors will, that failing the presentation of the stage version of Vicki Baum's "Grand Hotel," the "road show" presentation of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's fabulous picturization of that fascinating story would be offered as a special attraction in the Belasco Theater here during the early part of May.

This is the widely heralded production in which practically the entire roster of stars on the M-G-M lot are importantly cast—Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Joan Crawford, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis S. Stone, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Tully Marshall and all the rest.

The logic of the situation seems to be all against the rumor.

"Road showing" the filmed "Grand Hotel" into cities of vast population, like New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and a few others, where M-G-M product may not normally have adequate outlet, is a perfectly feasible business proposition. Conditions being what they are in Washington, however, it would be, in the humble and unimportant opinion of this column, little less than suicidal for Loews, Inc., releasing the M-G-M features through both the Palace and Columbia theaters in this city, to set up "road show" opposition to itself here.

It is farthest removed from my desire or my purpose to derogate in any degree either the Belasco or any other so-called legitimate theater, or its management, in this territory, but being personally acquainted with a majority of the Loew and M-G-M executives and cognizant of the keen sense of showmanship that each possesses, I can not harmonize increasing their own opposition, in the manner rumored, with their habitual theatrical astuteness.

Again, while no official financial statement has been furnished this department by the parties at interest, my view is strengthened by the personal conviction that the Loew-M-G-M adventure in bucking itself by "road showing" that jungle epic, "Trader Horn" into the National did not record itself in the companies' ledgers as a financial coup of major proportions.

Therefore, I emphatically discount any report that "Grand Hotel" is to be brought to Washington as an augmentation of box-office attractions competitive with the Palace and Columbia, and hereby go on record with the prophecy that when, and if, "Grand Hotel" is shown in the Capital it will be in one of the regularly established Loew houses—probably the Columbia, since a booking at the Palace by reason of the stage show policy—although its capacity is an argument in its favor—would effectually block the possibility of a protracted run, to which, from all report, "Grand Hotel," whether "road showed" or otherwise, is decidedly entitled. My guess would be about May 13 or 20.

After all, what have I got to lose?

Speaking of picturized plays, there is a sharp difference of opinion among experienced theatermen as to whether the presentation of the screen adaptation prior to the original stage version in any given community injures or stimulates business when the latter comes along.

Stephen E. Cochran, impresario of the National Theater Players, is of the belief that a good play poorly filmed suffers as a result of the inferior camera treatment when it happens along later on the boards. On the other hand, it is his opinion that an A-1, tiptop picture, adapted from a play, is a superlative form of publicization for the play itself when it has not been previously seen. Instead of having their interest dulled, the customers find their eagerness whetted to see for themselves just how much better—or worse—the original may be.

In support of this theory, he has committed himself to this column to a complete willingness to present "Grand Hotel" with his National Theater Players as soon after the run of the picture in Washington as possible—if possible at all. He thinks he would pack 'em in.

I am inclined to think he is right.

It should be made clear that only one presentation of "The Doomed Battalion" will be offered when that successor to "All Quiet on the Western Front" is accorded its world premiere, with Hollywood embellishments, at the Rialto Theater tomorrow night at 8:30.

It might also be well to emphasize that when the regular run of the picture begins Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock, the price scale will revert from the $1 to $3 of the gala opening to the Rialto's customary admissions of 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Friday night's distinguished audience will be welcomed by Victor McLaglen, star of the current stage program, on behalf of Carl Laemmle, the venerable head of Universal Pictures Corporation.

In her review of the current bill at the Palace, appearing in last Saturday's issue of The Post, Miss Dorothea Lewis expressed some curiosity as to what a radio "crooner" might be like on the stage without his microphone.

To satisfy that curiosity, Arthur Tracy, "The Street Singer," at the final performance last night presented his entire program without aid of microphone or other benefit of broadcasting studio and scored his greatest ovation of the week. In addition to his usual repertoire of songs he sang the difficult "Eli Eli" and then put it flatly up to the audience whether he was a crooner or a singer. The verdict was overwhelmingly that he is a singer. And is he not!

Following the Palace performance he dedicated an additional brief program to the President of the United States over station WMAL.

To fill in his spare time during the day, I understand Mr. Tracy sang a few songs!

And that reminds me.

Official opening of the second annual music week festival at the Fox Theater tomorrow will witness the presentation of three local organizations from the stage of the theater. The Elliott Junior High School Boys' Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Hannah Bonnell, will appear at 12:39. The Washington High School Brigade Band makes its appearance at 6:20 p. m., and the Interhigh School Orchestra at 9:06 p. m. Both of these organizations will be under the direction of Ludwig Manoly.

The schedule for Saturday is as follows: Fox Theater Military Band at 12:39; T. N. T. Glee Club, of Central High School, at 3:35 p. m.; Lyric Club of 35 girls from Central High School at 6:20 p. m., and the Central Songsters, of 55 mixed voices, at 9:06 p. m. With the exception of the military band these clubs are under the direction of Mrs. Janet Torbert.

Entries for ensuing days will be announced here in due course.

Noel Coward's "Hay Fever," described as a feverishly funny comedy of a group of egocentrics gathered under a single roof under most peculiar auspices, will be next week's attraction at the Belasco, with Constance Collier in the stellar role. The supporting cast is one worthy of note, and, altogether, a promising diversion is in prospect.

The National Theater Players, for the third week of their season, on Monday night will present Barry Connor's "The Unexpected Husband," the first dyed-in-the-wool laughmaker they have essayed this season. The piece affords sterling roles for practically every member of the company and should prove one of their most memorable undertakings.

Hinda Wausau, that glamorous blonde of burlesque, will make her final appearance at the Gayety, beginning with the usual Sunday matinee. Nuff sed.

The temptations offered by the titillating tintypes for the ensuing week are: Rialto, "The Doomed Battalion;" Fox, Joan Bennett in "The Trial of Vivienne Ware" and Fanchon & Marco's "La Plaza" idea; Earle, Chester Morris and Sylvia Sidney in "The Miracle Man," and Jay Flippen headlining the vaudeville; Palace, Jackie Cooper and Chic Sale in "When a Feller Needs a Friend," and George Gershwin's "Girl Crazy;" Metropolitan, Marian Marsh in "Beauty and the Boss;" Columbia, Walter Huston and Phillips Holmes in "Night Court;" RKO-Keith's, Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne in "The Symphony of Six Million," second week.

So we ordered eight more tons of coal!

Mrs. Horgan Heads Kentucky Society

Reelected as President of State Group; Other Officers Chosen.

Mrs. Joseph Horgan was reelected president of the Kentucky State Society last night at a meeting in the main ballroom of Willard Hotel.

Other officers elected were Senator Alben W. Barkley, Maj. Gen. Guy B. Chipman and Mrs. Stanley F. Reed, vice presidents; Mrs. Albert J. Kreemer, secretary; G. B. # PARAMOUNT TO SUE INSURGENT DIRECTOR

Reported Planning to Seek $100,000 Damages From Von Sternberg.

Hollywood, April 27 (A.P.).—From an authoritative source a statement came today that Paramount Studios has started preparation of a suit for $100,000 damages against Josef von Sternberg, insurgent film director.

Earlier in the day an announcement was made that the studio would sue Von Sternberg for losses incurred when the director walked out during the preparation of a picture for Marlene Dietrich, German star.

Coincident with the disclosure that the legal action would seek to recover damages of $100,000, the statement was made that the sum represented the value placed by the studio on preliminary work done in the last five weeks on the picture, "Blonde Venus."

Must Begin Work Anew.

Explaining the position of the studio, an official whose name could not be disclosed said Paramount viewed the director's act as one which would cause the studio to junk the preliminary work and begin anew.

Enlarging upon the statement Monday of B. P. Schulberg, managing director, that the studio intended to find out whether persons under contract were "employes" or "can do as they please," Paramount announced that it expected to file the papers for the suit within a few days.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Marlene Dietrich "certainly is not going to be ordered about like a soldier in the army," Josef von Sternberg declared this afternoon.

Neither is Mr. Von Sternberg, he implied.

Explains Cause of Row.

As for what happened in Hollywood to cause the rebellion and so result in Sternberg and Miss Dietrich being temporarily among the unemployed he explained succinctly:

"The story (of 'Blonde Venus,' the Dietrich film he was directing) was my own. The treatment was mine, too. They didn't like the treatment and made another. I didn't like that. Then they ordered me to direct a treatment I didn't like, and I wouldn't. Simple, isn't it?"

A reference to damage suits brought last year by Von Sternberg's divorced wife, Mrs. Ziga von Sternberg, naming Miss Dietrich defendant and charging libel and alienation of affections, he waved aside.

"Domestic difficulties? I haven't any," he said. "I was just a passive party to all that, you know."

Barthelmess Takes Cut, But Will Earn as Much

Hollywood, Calif., April 27 (A.P.).—Warner Brothers-First National Studios announced today Richard Barthelmess has signed a new two-year contract calling for a 33 1-3 per cent cut in salary, although his actual earning power will not be decreased.

Barthelmess, a star nearly as long as any celebrity in Hollywood, formerly made two pictures a year, receiving $150,000 for each production. In the future he will be paid $100,000 a picture, but will make three pictures annually.

Contract for $238,259 Hospital Units Awarded

U. S.-CANADA LAUNCH DAVIS CUP PLAY HERE TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THERE is flourishing on the outer fringe of Washington's sporting fraternity a pugilistic partnership born of a half-baked idea that Warren Van Sciver could fight, and it is taking root as a profitable venture for the parties of both the first and second parts.

Three months ago, Van Sciver was, and still is, an apprentice lad among the weighty stereotype implements in the basement of The Post Building, with the smell of hot lead fresh in his nostrils daily. But his 165-pound Apollo-like physique thrived in this environment.

The easy manner in which Van Sciver wrestled the heavy leaden plates about the press room and the stereotype department caught the appraising eye of W. D. Haight, of The Post's sports staff, and forthwith the cranium of Mr. Haight was illuminated by an idea—the idea that young Mr. Van Sciver was wasting his talents on these inanimate forms.

Last Tuesday night, at Portner's Arena, Alexandria, Warren Van Sciver compiled his sixth straight knock-out victory in the professional prize ring. His record knows not the taint of defeat. No opponent has lasted two full rounds, and his first fight ended after only two minutes of battling. He's Washington's prize pugilistic prospect and Manager Haight faces a handsome return on his investment.

Manager Haight, be it known, has an investment in the young 17-year-old stereotyper totaling $16. Manager Haight went down in his jeans at the inception of the partnership for the sixteen simoleons that were required to outfit his fighter with the conventional shoes, togs and cup protector, so his investment is legitimate enough.

Manager Haight's first move was to remodel Warren Van Sciver's name. The handle might do for one of Father Knickerbocker's ultra-exclusive drawing rooms, but it was a misnomer for the prize ring. Mr. Haight, having had experience with the demands of one-column headlines, deduced that there would be considerable difficulty with such a name as Warren Van Sciver if there came a time when the fellow rated the headlines.

So Warrren Van Sciver became the Young Van of the prize ring.

Manager Haight had learned that Van Sciver had a brief fling as an amateur and had hung up his gloves after two futile fights two years ago. But he was still in training for a plunge into professional ranks, when Mr. Haight consented to take over his pugilistic destinies.

Van Sciver, it seems, was an admirer of Marty Gallagher, then the pride of Foggy Bottom. Upon learning this, Manager Haight threw three conniptions and came down flat-footed with the pronouncement that Marty Gallagher was no fighter to pattern after. He was too slow and otherwise deficient. There would be no Marty Gallagher stuff for Young Van.

It was decreed by Mr Haight that Jack Dempsey, none other, must be Young Van's ideal. Young Van must study Dempsey. He must rip and tear and maul like Dempsey. So Young Van studied Dempsey, and he ripped and tore and mauled, not just like Dempsey, perhaps, but a fair take-off, and none of his six opponents have been able to stand up under his assaults.

Mr. Haight is now refusing all offers for Young Van to fight in better spots on the program. There is much for Young Van to learn and four-round bouts are the limit prescribed by his mentor. He could double his purses by permitting his fighter to take semifinal matches, but first and second preliminaries will be the extent of his fighting this summer.

If Young Van had to choose between managers, W. D. Haight and Jack Kearns, who has managed six world champions, he would choose Haight. He fights not for Young Van, but for Haight, although hate has marked only one of his bouts.

It was in his second match. Young Van looked across the ring at his adversary in the opposite corner.

"Do you think you can take him?" Haight asked.

"Take him?" Sure I will," Young Van spat out. "He looks just like a kid I never liked when I was a kid."

Cubs Go Into Lead By Beating Pirates

Malone Hurls Shutout Ball After Bucs Score Four in First Inning.

Chicago, April 27 (A.P.).—After giving up a home run, triple, double and single in the first inning today, Pat Malone held Pittsburgh to one hit thereafter, and the Cubs won the final game of the series, 8 to 4, to go into first place in the National League.

Gus Suhr got the Pirate homer in the first, but Malone and Lance Richbourg each came up with four-baggers to help the Cubs to victory.

Carl Fischer To Face A's Today

Cold Prevents Nats' Final Contest of New York Series.

Walberg Due to Hurl in First of Three Games Here.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

AFTER calling off Monday's game early in the morning with the sun shining brightly, the Yankee management turned an about-face and tried to play yesterday afternoon's listed engagement in New York, despite the fact that the wind was cold and whistling at about a 30-mile-an-hour speed. Snow started falling as the Washington athletes started for the stadium, however, and they found that hostilities had been declared off upon their arrival at the ball yard.

Lloyd Brown, who was scheduled to have made his 1932 starting debut, reported that he had contracted a bad cold and so will not draw the assignment against the Mackmen today as the Nationals oppose them in the first of a three-game series in Griffith Stadium. Another young southpaw, Carl Fischer, will draw the assignment, with George Walberg likely to oppose him. Fischer holds one victory over the Mackmen to his credit, while Walberg was given a hard pummeling the last time he essayed to stop the Washington batters.

New York Scribes See A's Out of Picture.

New York scribes already have "wished" the Athletics out of the pennant picture and are picking Manager Walter Johnson's charges as the outfit they will have to beat out for the gonfalon. Three theories have been advanced as to the predicted failure of the Athletics to show the class they have displayed in former years.

The first is based on the law of averages—that Pitchers Lefty Bob Grove, Walberg and George Earnshaw can not all three have the exceptional seasons that they enjoyed while the Macks were winning the pennants for the past few years. The Yankees, themselves, pounded all three in a recent series; the Nationals have mistreated Earnshaw and Walberg, while the Red Sox knocked the great Grove off the peak Tuesday, thus indicating that the old law of averages is working to a certain extent, at least.

The other two theories advanced by the New York scriveners have to do with a pair of complexes with other teams in the league had when facing the Mackmen. The first was that other teams entered the field half-beaten against the A's in general and doubly so when any of the big three pitchers drew the assignment.

Cardinals Removed Winning Complex.

These complexes, they contend, were removed by the St. Louis Cardinals in the last world series while, they add, the fact that New York, Washington and Boston have made merry at the expense of the Mackmen's three ace hurlers also will give other teams in the league more confidence when they face them in the future.

Claims that there is dissention among the Athletics have not been proven, but if the Athletics are not getting along like the happy family they once were, this should add to their troubles in their attempt to set a major league record by copping four flags in a row.

As to the Nationals, they have not yet shown their true ability; that is, Manager Johnson says they haven't. The Washington pitchers have performed even better than the advance dope indicated they would and the fielding has stood up, but, except in three games against the Mackmen, the punch has been much weaker than was expected. It is now up to the Nats to prove that they have it.

Yanks Have Averaged 11.2 Hits Per Game.

Punch is one thing which the Yankees have. In ten games, they have poled out the staggering total of 21 home runs, they have averaged 11.2 hits per game, and only Horace Lisenbee, of the Red Sox, has gone the route while opposing them. Unlike the Nats, their pitching staff has not yet proven itself but, with the team hitting as it has, it has not needed particularly brilliant hurling so far.

A dozen games or so do not make a season, and the writer, for one, is not yet prepared to concede that the A's are through. They play at Washington today, Friday and Saturday, and it might be well for fans to see how they fare in these games before forming an opinion.

This trio of contests, by the way, and the three that follow—Sunday, Monday and Tuesday against the Yankees in Griffith Stadium—will be real tests for the Nationals, and a better line on the three generally conceded contenders may be gained from these series.

Fans who believe that ball players can not hurry except in a game, judging from the snail-like manner in which pitchers go from the bench to the bull-pen and from the bull-pen to the mound if called upon, should have seen Johnson's charges hustling to make an early train out of New York today. They had exactly one hour to go from Yankee Stadium—out at 163d street—to their hotel to get their luggage and then to the station. All made it, but by a hair-line decision.

CHISOX DROP DETROIT TO 2D PLACE

Hadley Saves Jones by Fanning 2 in 9th With 2 on Base.

DETROIT, April 27 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox perpetrated six errors today but in spite of them defeated the Tigers 4 to 3, dropping Detroit to second place in the American League standings. The New York Yankees, idle because of weather, now have an eight-point margin for first place.

Three of Chicago's errors figured in the Tiger scoring, but some good pitching by Sam Jones stilled the Detroit heavy artillery when hits meant needed runs.

Hodapp, late of Cleveland, playing his first game in a White Sox uniform, committed three bobbles. A high wind caused most of the errors.

Jones wavered in the ninth and Bump Hadley, former Washington Senator, replaced him with two men on base and one out. He passed one man, then struck out the next two.

Talk With Judge Costs Street $5

Cards' Manager Victim of New Rule Forbidding Words With Fans.

Cincinnati, April 27 (A.P.).—Manager Gabby Street of the St. Louis Cardinals learned today he has been fined $5 for talking to a judge.

The judge was Street's friend but when Gabby, in uniform at Sunday's game with the Reds, went up and spoke to him he violated a new rule drawn up by officials of the National League. The rule forbids players in uniform to talk to spectators.

Umpire "Beans" Reardon, who reported the violation to President John Heydler of the National League, expressed his regrets. However, he, like the other umpires, is required to spend the hour before the game in the stands, looking for violators.

The Sioux A. C. goes to Richmond Sunday to play the undefeated Richmond Tigers. Players are to meet at Manager Hasley's home at 7:30 a. m. Sunday.

Chisox Trade Hadley for Kress

Campbell, Outfielder, Also Goes to Browns in Player Deal.

Chicago Gains Third Baseman Who Hit .311 Last Year.

ST. LOUIS, April 27 (A.P.).—Ralph "Red" Kress, regular third baseman for the St. Louis Browns, was traded to the Chicago White Sox today for Irving, "Bumps" Hadley, a pitcher, and Bruce Campbell, a young outfielder.

Kress left tonight to join the White Sox in Cleveland. Hadley and Campbell will join the Browns here tomorrow.

With a batting average of .311, Kress ranked third among the Browns' leading hitters last season.

Campbell went to the Sox from Little Rock, where he hit .383 in 79 games last year.

Hadley was with the Washington Club last year.

Third Big Deal By White Sox.

The deal marked the third big player trade by the White Sox in the last few months. Only last Sunday the Chisox traded Shortstop Bill Cissell, purchased at a price of $123,000 five years ago, to the Cleveland Indians in exchange for Second Baseman Johnny Hodapp and Outfielder Seeds.

One of Manager Fonseca's first moves last fall after being appointed manager of the Chicago Club was to send Outfielder Carl Reynolds and Infielder Johnny Kerr to the Washington Club in exchange for Pitchers Hadley and Sam Jones and Infielder Jackie Hayes.

Hadley, in his brief stay with the White Sox, was off to an impressive start, although winnnig only one game and losing one. Today he saved the game for Chicago against Detroit, relieving Sam Jones in the ninth with two on base and fanning the last two batters to end the game.

Orwell, U. S.-Owned, Wins 2,000 Guineas

Newmarket, England, April 27 (A.P.).—Orwell, champion 2-year-old of the English turf last year, sped on his way to the 3-year-old title today, winning the 2,000 guineas for Washington M. G. Singer, retired New York business man.

Already the favorite to win the English Derby, June 1, Orwell increased his popularity by trouncing ten of the country's best 3-year-olds in the classic mile race, first run in 1809. The only outstanding 3-year-old missing was the unbeaten Cockpen, which was scratched a few hours before post time because he was running a temperature.

Two Columbia Crews Held Under Quarantine

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Forty-five Columbia University oarsmen, comprising the Lion varsity and freshman crews, today were confined to Baker Field under strict quarantine for scarlet fever, which developed today in Hugh Glendon, coach of the lightweight crews.

Glendon was taken to a hospital and the crew members called from their classes.

Dr. Edward F. Elliott, athletic director and a physician, said the chances were "10,000 to 1" that any one else would be taken down with the disease. Unless some new case develops before Friday the quarantine will be lifted and the crews sent to Annapolis to row Navy Saturday. Dr. Elliott said the naval authorities had agreed, leaving the decision to Columbia medical authorities.

UTERITZ RESIGNS POST.

TOP FLIGHT'S DERBY ODDS LOWERED

Reduced to 3-1 After Tick On's Defeat at Graw.

By THOMAS H. NOONE

NEW YORK, April 27 (U.P.).—Informed that the Loma Stable's Tick On had been beaten by S. W. Labrot's Springsteel at Havre de Grace today, Thomas J. Shaw, nationally known turf commissioner, immediately revised his future book prices on the Kentucky Derby, making C. V. Whitney's unbeaten filly, Top Flight, a 3 to 1 favorite.

"Make Tick On equal second choice with Burning Blaze now at 6 to 1," said Shaw after learning the details of the defeat of the colt that had heretofore ruled equal choice with the Whitney miss at odds of 5 to 1. "Cut the prices of the other leading candidates, also."

Top Flight worked a mile at Jamaica today in 1:40 1-5, which impressed Shaw as favorably as much as any of the patrons who saw her trial. Asked what he thought of Top Flight's run, the genial commissioner laconically remarked, "3 to 1 is a bargain on her."

Top Flight's Race Saturday Awaited.

Top Flight is scheduled to start in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica on Saturday, and her performance in that stake will naturally affect her quotation in the Derby which will be run the following week-end.

Tick On ran a creditable race today, overcoming interference and finishing gamely, but the fact that he was beaten can not be overlooked. The fact that Springsteel remains a 100-to-1 chance after his triumph over the son of On Watch—Sox casts a further shadow over his prospects for the prized Blue Grass classic.

Fourth place on the revised lists of odds is shared by Liberty Limited, Gallant Sir, Burgoo King and Stepenfetchit, all of which are quoted at 15 to 1. Faireno, Lucky Tom, Curacao and sweeping Light come next, all being held at 25 to 1.

A quotation of 30 to 1 now rules against Economic, Barcelona Pete and Universe, while Mad Frump, which finished third behind Springsteel and Tick On today is 40 to 1 along with Mad Frump, Cathop, War Plane and Larranags.

50-1 Offered on Cold Check.

Cold Check and Indian Runner are considered likely starters, and although their chances of victory are not considered bright by the clubhouse veteran, he says 50 to 1 is today's price. Delivered, which is reported recovered from an injured heel, is another probable starter at odds of 60 to 1.

After that figure the remainder of the 115 3-year-olds nominated in February are quoted at fancy odds since they are not considered worthy to start in first class company such as the unconquered daughter of Dis Done—Fiyatit, Tick On and Burning Blaze, to say nothing of the others that have shown much promise in racing or training trials this year.

Burning Blaze, Cathop In Fast Derby Workouts

Louisville, Ky., April 27 (A.P.).—Shandon Farm's Burning Blaze gave the standout performance among derby candidates training here today when he went a mile in 1:43. His workout was impressive because the track was estimated 3 seconds slow

Wes Ferrell Scores Fourth Win in Row

Holds Browns to Five Hits as Indians Pound Out 7-to-1 Victory.

St. Louis, April 27 (A.P.).—Wes Ferrell, Cleveland ace hurler, limited the St. Louis Browns to five hits today and enabled the Indians to win a 7-to-1 victory that gave them a clean sweep of the three-game series here.

The victory gave Ferrell has fourth game of the season, with no defeats charged against him.

Averill's home run in the eighth scored Porter ahead of him.

Stolen Bases Aid Reds To Whip Cards, 6-4

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 27 (A.P.).—The cellar step tussle of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds developed into a hitting and base stealing contest today with the Reds winning 6 to 4. Young Jimmy Shevlin got his first start of the season, playing for Hellmann at first. He stole two bases, one in a double steal in the seventh, in which Babe Herman scored.

Collins was the Cardinals' big gun. His home run with Bottomley's single brought the Cards two runs in the seventh. His triple with Frisch ahead of him added a run to a last-minute St. Louis rally.

SAVING LEGS, RUTH GIVES UP GOLF

Aging Limbs in Need of Rest on Off Days, Says Babe.

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, April 27 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth has given up his alternate love—golf—in order to concentrate on and conserve his energies for the business of helping to wallop the New York Yankees to the top of the American League.

"I found out last year I couldn't combine the two games and be at my best," he said today.

"Maybe I'm getting a little old—but these ball games are tough enough on the legs.

"I need the rest I can get on these off-days, especially since I have a little touch of water on the knee now and have to take care of that."

Babe Not Alarmed By Injury.

This sounded a bit alarming, but the Babe added:

"No, it doesn't amount to much. I've had it before."

The great man, meanwhile, sees no reason for changing his prediction on the order of the American League finish—New York, Washington, Philadelphia.

"I'm not so surprised to see the Athletics slipping," he said. "I expected them to. Washington will be our toughest opposition, but the Yankees should win in a walk."

Was he still experimenting with his own batting stance?

"No, I've gone back to my old way of standing at the plate. I've been hitting pretty well, anyway, and I feel more comfortable with the left foot well back. It may sound funny, but I'm still trying to learn how it's done, after nineteen years."

Bambino Away To Fast Start.

Hitting .394 for the first two weeks of the season, with five home runs already to his credit, Ruth is away to one of his best starts, despite a slight touch of "flu."

The year he set his major league record of 60 home runs, in 1927, he did not collect the fifth until May 1. In fact, he has never before had more than four homers to show for his April efforts.

Mrs. Hoover To Witness Singles

Vines Meets Wright, Allison Encounters Rainville.

American Team Held Most Potent Since Days of Tilden.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE huge silver trophy which a young man named Dwight Davis almost indifferently placed in competition 32 years ago, and which came to be the greatest prize ever offered in international sport, will be contested for today in vicarious manner when the United States and Canada open hostilities at the Chevy Chase Club in the first round of the American Zone.

With Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Canadian Minister Hume Wrong and a distinguished diplomatic and social sector making up a portion of the gallery, today's will be the opening shot of Davis Cup tennis throughout the world, but before a fortnight has passed more than 25 nations will swing in line, with a fair goal the long-deferred wresting of the famous trophy from the hands of France's immortal tennising musketeers.

Most Powerful American Team Since Tilden.

The most potent American team since the salad days of Big Bill Tilden and Billy Johnston has been coraled for today's match with Canada. At the head of the American forces rides the slim young demon of a national champion, Ellsworth Vines, 20-year-old Californian, whose name became a household word over night and whose method of hitting an inoffensive tennis ball the marvel of even his rivals.

Vines today will meet Dr. Jack Wright, holder of the Canadian national singles title, and in whose dark head and brawny arm is concealed twice the amount of experience that is owned and operated by Vines. Dr. Wright has been Canada's leading player since he reached legalized manhood, ten years ago. He strokes the ball more classically than any of the Americans, but it does not seem possible that he can withstand the riddling fire which only Vines can dispense.

Allison Meets Rainville.

Preceding this battle of champions will be another singles encounter, between Wilmer Allison, who holds two victories over our national champion this year, and Marcel Rainville, diminutive Canadian net sensation, who is justly regarded as the future "greatest player" of his country.

Against Allison, Rainville will pit some of the steadiest tennis now being dispensed. The lithe Northerner can run interminably, and keep the ball in play even longer than that, but today he faces a man who at his peak seems able to beat anybody. Even Henri Cochet has fallen before Allison's inspired play, and if the mood strikes him today he may give an exhibition which will pale the subsequent matches.

Play to Start at 2 o'Clock.

Play starts a trifle after 2 o'clock. Allison and Rainville will appear at 2 o'clock, but will not commence firing until news photographers have used up all their plates taking pictures of follow throughs.

The announcement that general admission may be obtained for $1 plus the arousing presence of the dour, superbly stroking national champion, has resulted in a gratifying rush for tickets. The weather man, at an early hour last night, promised that today's matches would be blessed with sunshine and warmth.

TICK ON BEATEN BY SPRINGSTEEL IN 3-YEAR-OLD DEBUT

Derby Choice Runs Second By Length

Has Rough Voyage in Race; Mad Frump Takes Third.

Cattail Wins $10,000 Aberdeen Sprint for Juveniles.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, April 27.—Tick On was beaten today. Yes, Tick On, backed into cofavoritism for the Kentucky Derby, was forced to follow Springsteel, a not highly regarded Sir Greysteel colt, to the wire. But Tick On was not disgraced. If any one or anything was to blame for the surprise defeat, horsemen who watched the race with eager eyes point to Pete Walls. Admittedly one of the best riders in the game, Walls rode a clumsy, stupid race, from all appearances.

As a result of the defeat, no matter the conditions, Tick On has lost caste with many backers, and Top Flight now stands the favorite in the early books, with the Derby a little more than a week away.

To many who saw the race only one thing was proved by the mile and 70 yards test. Tick On must have room to make each of his four hoofs touch the track or he can't run a lick. The Loma Stable's hope was not adept at pushing horses apart with his nose or climbing over animals, two of the tasks that Walls seemed to ask of the On Watch colt.

Makes Game Finish After Rough Trip.

Tick On, however, was good enough to stay on his feet after a rough trip around most of the course and make a game finish to beat out several rivals which had nothing to do but run. On the contrary, Sprinsteel, a Derby candidate which has been quoted at 100 to 1 and higher, was expertly handled by Leishman.

Tick On went to the post a 1-to-2 choice. The colt broke far back in the field along with Springsteel. Portam went to the front to lead half way down the back stretch, while Walls, on Tick On, after being cut off at the clubhouse turn, was fighting to run. Tick On made repeated efforts to get to the leaders, but each promising opening failed. Leishman, who also had been blocked with Springsteel, wisely took his charge to the outside.

At the far turn, Portam had quit. Semaphore had taken up the front running only to drop behind Mad Frump. Springsteel was eating up ground. Walls still persisted in hanging to the inside of the track, and when he moved his mount up Tick On bumped Mad Frump. Walls was forced to pull up and lose some five lengths. Then he thought of the outside. Once in the clear, Tick On ran truly, picking up Semaphore and Mad Frump, and few doubt but what the colt would have caught Springsteel had the race been another sixteenth longer.

Cattail, a little brown colt shipped to the races this spring from the Ziegler Farm, near Middleburg, Va., showed his plates to the best 2-year-olds in this section to win the Aberdeen Stakes and bring $13,300 to William Ziegler, jr.

The colt, trained by Clyde Phillips and ridden by Eddie Watters, had a length margin over Paint Box, of the Labrot entry, which in turn defeated Cruising, a field representative, by a nose.

The best program of the spring in Maryland brought out a crowd around the 10,000 mark despite the cold wind that made overcoats trump topcoats. The track was fairly fast, but the strong wind slowed the horses on the back stretch and resulted in mediocre time for most of the races.

Jam Follows Break.

Due to the bulky field of seventeen that faced the barrier, the stall gates were not used. The juveniles fussed around at the 4½-furlong mark and when Starter Milton pressed the button the field appeared to be a wild sea of colors. Cattail escaped the pile-up that caught Daisy Cutter, Three Daggers, Okapi, Three Bee and some others and Watters brought the colt in toward the rail with Cruising, Cantoria and Paint Box close up. It was evident a sixteenth away from the barrier that those in the second group would have little chance.

Cruising moved up on Cattail entering the stretch and the pair ran head and head for a sixteenth until Paint Box moved ahead of Cantoria and went on, under McAuliffe's brilliant riding, to battle it out with Cattail. Cruising stuck to his guns, however, and was a nose behind Paint Box at the finish.

Argosie kept up the parade of Man o'War horses that have been scoring in maiden races by galloping home ahead of Meeting Place to win the opening race.

Gay Party, game little son of Bright Knight, came from way back to take the second race, with Mexico second and Playdale third. Buddy Ensor came back to Maryland after a decade and had his first mount in this race. Mexico was much the best of the others under his handling.

Con Amore, popular Maryland mare, failed to triumph in her first test of the season, bowing to the speed of Canron. W. W. Vaughan's good filly. Marlene took the third money from Happen.

Repentance, odds-on favorite, won the sixth race with Royal Ruffian second and Frumper third. Repentance followed the pace set by Mynheer and went to the front leaving the back stretch. Royal Ruffian could not get to the winner.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ARGOSIE, $5.70, $4.40, $3.20; MEETING PLACE, $7.90, $5.50; BERET, $4.30.

ARGOSIE, reserved off the early pace, gained stoutly when put to a drive, wore the pacemaker down when entering the home stretch and had something in reserve at the end. MEETING PLACE, rated under slight restraint in the early racing, was unable to keep pace with the winner for the final drive. BERET, slow to get going, circled her field and closed with good courage. BURNSIDE, steadied in front, weakened when challenged. REHOBOTH raced evenly. LOUIS MERRYMAN saved ground but could not menace the leaders.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds, colts and geldings. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:01. Off at 3:02. Winner, C. T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GAY PARTY, $3.30, $2.70, $2.40; MEXICO, $4.30, $3.50; PLAYDALE, $4.30.

GAY PARTY broke fast, but lacked early speed and was outrun for the first half mile, went up on the outside when moving into contention and, wearing the leaders down, was going away at the finish. MEXICO, kept under light urging in the early stages, responded well when put to a drive and held on well. PLAYDALE finished with good courage after being outrun for the first half mile. PANCHO LOPEZ and ROYAL PAST were used up setting the pace. PREDICT raced evenly. SHIVA was never a troublesome factor. BLACK BOARD stopped badly after five furlongs. TRAFFIC JUDGE was not persevered with when beaten.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CANRON, $6.90, $2.80, $2.30; CON AMORE, $2.70, $2.20; MARLENE, $2.40.

CANRON, quickest to get going and displaying excellent speed, raced under mild pressure early, saved ground and continued stoutly when challenged during the stretch run. CON AMORE, fractious at the barrier, was sent into the thick of contention, made a stout effort when placed to punishment nearing the final furlong pole, but hung thereafter. MARLENE, outpaced for the first five furlongs, finished with good courage. MODERN QUEEN was unable to keep pace with the pacemaker. HAPPEN was outrun.

†S. W. Labrot and S. W. Labrot, jr. entry. ‡C. V. Whitney entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CATTAIL, $19.40, $8.30, $6.50; PAINT BOX (Labrot entry), $18.80, $14.80; CRUISING (field), $4.60.

CATTAIL, away in the first flight and displaying good speed, raced under stout urging to shake off CRUISING and, continuing gamely in the final furlong, had enough left to withstand PAINT BOX. Latter, a keen factor from the start, swung to the outside when entering the home stretch and was racing the strongest at the end. CRUISING, vigorously ridden from the break, forced a good early pace and held on stoutly in the closing drive. CANTORIA showed a good test for the entire trip. ACAUTAW was pinched back going to the turn, recovered gamely and closed with a rush. DAISY CUTTER, in the first flight throughout, was gaining steadily nearing the finish. THREE DAGGERS overcame early interference and closed stoutly. STAR FAIRY was in much trouble. OKAPI, THREE BEES and WARY suffered much interference.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Shenandoah. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:49½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SPRINGSTEEL, $10.20, $3.10, $2.30; TICK ON, $2.50, $2.20; MAD FRUMP, $2.50.

SPRINGSTEEL, outrun for the first half mile, was kept on the outside when moving to the leaders, disposed of the early leaders when straightened into the home stretch and, continuing under pressure approaching the finish, outstayed TICK ON. Latter, shuffled back going to the first turn, was in repeated trouble on the back stretch, went to the outside for the final drive and closed courageously. MAD FRUMP, rated close up, displaced SEMAPHORE when ready, but faltered rapidly in the closing furlong. SEMAPHORE showed good speed for seven furlongs and quit thereafter. LATE DATE was never a factor. PROTEUS weakened early. PORTAM had no mishaps.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,400; allowances. The Glen Oaks. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start poor from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 5:20. Off at 5:21½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—REPENTANCE, $3.50, $2.80, $2.20; ROYAL RUFFIN, $3.50, $2.50; FRUMPER, $3.20.

REPENTANCE, following in close pursuit of MYNHEER, went into the lead when leaving the back stretch and, steadied along through the final furlong, held ROYAL RUFFIN safe. Latter, kept close up and racing on the outside, closed willingly when placed to punishment. FRUMPER, away poorly, was allowed to reach his best stride and showed a splendid effort. SISTER ZOE raced close up for six furlongs and weakened. MYNHEER beat the barrier's rise and raced well for six furlongs before tiring.

LILLYBET outran her field to the first turn, was rated along in front while saving ground, responded to punishment when challenged in the stretch run and just lasted to stall off SAND BELL. Latter, well up from the start, closed in determined fashion when straightened into the home stretch and was wearing the winner down gradually. FAIR AVIS showed a good effort and held on well to withstand GAYOLA. Latter, a trailer for six furlongs, closed strong while taking a wide course in the late stages. SKIDMORE was unable to menace the leaders. BOKIE B. was unprepared for the break, reached a forward position, but was not good enough.

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK.

Gone Away, good enough to split Whichone and Boojum as a 2-year-old and run fourth in the 1930 Derby, was sold to the only bidder here for $50. Buddy Ensor returned to Maryland on his thirty-second birthday. J. E. Smallman has regained his Deedle, which has won two races since he lost the plater in the claiming box. Despite defeat, horsemen liked the way Tick On ran. Chief news.

Con Amore and Tick On burnt up a lot of the big dough yesterday, which was continually backing down favorites.

I believe these selections are worth bets. BILL.

FIRST RACE—PEEVED takes off nine pounds today after running evenly in his only two races. Hanford probably will get the mount and the son of The Turk should take a purse. STROLL

EASTERN'S CRUCIAL TEST NEAR

Central May Stop Long Streak

Lanahan, De Bettencourt Are Likely Mound Foes.

Game Tomorrow to Hold Key to 1932 Championship.

THE seemingly impenetrable fortress Eastern High's baseball team has erected over a four-year domination of high school series competition will be severely assaulted tomorrow afternoon in the feature scholastic game of the year when Central High is engaged at 3:30 o'clock at Eastern Field.

Central, with victories scored over Business and Western, stands out on top of the schoolboy league, with Eastern just behind with one victory and no defeats.

Central's Team Outstanding.

Eastern has gone into its fifth straight year of undefeated series baseball. It has not lost a series game since midway in the 1927 season, one of the greatest records ever established in local athletics. Central has no such record, but has an outstandingly good club this year—one which must be rated equal with the defending champions. Breaks should decide the game.

Dick Lanahan, the Eastern pitcher whose single-handed work in the box has done much to preserve Eastern's streak during the last four years, will get the slab assignment tomorrow. Probably he will face Emmett Buscher, most brilliant of the Central pitchers. Central also has an ace up its sleeve in Jack de Bettencourt, who is steadier but lacks the pressure which Buscher can apply.

Two Teams Appear Evenly Matched.

In all it looks like the most interesting high school game in half a decade. The clubs are well fortified afield, bat about on even terms and seem to have a monopoly on the coaching and native talent assets of the league.

Today is somewhat slow in scholastic ranks. Western plays Hyattsville at Hyattsville, and Georgetown Prep's tennis team meets Friends at Garret Park.

G. U. Golfers to Play Penn Here Saturday

Washington's first Eastern Intercollegiate Golf Association match will be played Saturday morning at Columbia Country Club when Georgetown meets the University of Pennsylvania team at 8:30 o'clock. At noon Georgetown will play Princeton at Burning Tree.

The local team is made up of Louis Fisher, captain; John Slattery, Joseph de Stefano, Walter Tynan, Richard McPartlin and Vincent Wilker.

Local Marathon Group In Final Drill Sunday

Local and nearby marathon runners will hold their final practice before the District A. A. U. 15-mile open championship Sunday morning at 11 o'clock when they trek down the new Mount Vernon highway and byways for about 15 miles.

Entries for the A. A. U. event, which will be held May 8, have been coming in to the Knights of Columbus Hall, 918 Tenth street northwest. There will be no entrance fee, and nearly 40 runners have signed up to date. Noted out-of-town stars, mainly from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore are expected to compete, notably William Agee, who makes a habit of winning locally sponsored runs.

Lee-Jackson Winner; O'Malley Gives 1 Hit

Emmett O'Malley, of Lee-Jackson High, pitched a one-hit game yesterday and struck out seventeen batters to give his team its third Fairfax County series game by a 12-to-0 score over Falls Church. Newton collected the lone single. The winners bunted over six runs in the fourth inning. Lee-Jackson won the county title last year.

Vines, Fast and Powerful, Is Every Inch a Champion

THEY called him "E" and you'd be surprised how much he looks like a letter "L," for he is two inches longer than 72, several inches wide and carries around a pair of tennis shoes which fit his size elevens very nicely. To complete the picture, or the letter L, he wears a white cap with a peak when he plays.

And how he plays! The 21-year-old tennis champion of the United States, who stunned America last year by establishing a winning streak not approached since Tilden's halcyon days, is a true champion if ever there was one. He is tremendously fast on his feet, his strokes skim over the net with a smoothness that is incredible, confidence bubbles up in him, and in his arm he conceales a terrific steel spring which snaps a tennis ball with a speed before which all competition bowed last year and threatens to bow for some years to come.

Took Up Tennis At Age of 8.

Ellsworth Vines' papa (of the same name) got him interested in tennis when he was 8 years old. He never had an instructor until two years ago, when Mercer Beasley, the outstanding tennis coach in America, took an interest in him and invited him to pay attention.

For some years Vines chopped every ball, then he fell into the natural California game of excessive topspin. He does not know why he snapped out of it, but he did, and today his marvelous flat shots are the textbooks of every high school tennis player in the country. He stands rather far behind the line, takes an enormous backswing and hits bravely for the corners. There is no real difference in his forehand and backhand drives, and when he comes in behind a forcing ground shot he volleys from any position with a ruthlessness not seen since the latter stages of Vincent Richards' boy wonderism.

He quit school in midyear to make the Davis Cup team, and it occasioned editorial comment throughout the land. He's a sophomore at the University of Southern California. Another reason he quit was because he was offered a job—sure, some tennis players work.

Won First Tourney In 1927.

He won his first good tournament in 1927 when he beat Walter Martin (now with the Canadian Davis Cup Team at Chevy Chase) in the finals of the Canadian Pacific juniors. He started to get good in 1930, when he bumped off Frank Hunter two weeks in succession. Late in the year he had bad setbacks at the hands of Sidney Wood and G. Lyttleton Rogers, the Irish Pinetzki, but last year he won every major tournament in the United States.

He's going to Europe after the Australia matches the end of May, and he's rather tickled about it. He'll play doubles abroad with Helen Moody. He says the odd fact that he's the national champion struck him early this spring and loomed as a bad psychological anchor, but now he's subdued it.

Likes Washington, has his mother and fiance along with him, may turn pro some day, wears blue sox and gray suits, speaks with a pleasant twang, reads novels, has a peeling nose, a fine personality, is going to get married in October, and seems totally unaware of the fact that at this moment, perhaps, he is the greatest tennis player in the world.

DRIVE ON TO STOP STREET CONFUSION

Montgomery Citizens Vote for Commission to Correct Names and Numbers.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4206.

Formation of a commission to work out a plan for correcting the present great confusion in the suburban districts of Montgomery County resulting from duplication of street names and discrepancies in house numbering was decided upon last night at a meeting of representatives of the various organizations and towns affected, as well as officials from the county and from Washington. The meeting was held in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School.

Following considerable discussion and examination of the situation as presented on a large map prepared in detail by Serge K. Doubroff, of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the formation of a commission was approved by the delegates. The meeting was held under the auspices of the legislation and legal action committee of the Montgomery County Civic Federation. J. Bond Smith, chairman of the federation committee, presided.

The resolution stated that in view of the fact that such a condition exists and it is desirable to correct it as speedily as possible, "Now, therefore, be it resolved, that a committee be organized consisting of the Montgomery County Commissioners, the chairman of the legislation and legal action committee of the federation, the county engineer, a representative from the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and from each of the incorporated towns and such taxing areas in Montgomery County as may wish to be represented on the committee, said representatives to be duly appointed by their respective principals."

The resolution further provides that the commission shall be empowered to have the right to bind the principals upon any question involving the naming or renaming of a street or other thoroughfare or in renumbering houses and shall have the right to solicit and collect donations to carry on the work and shall have the power to adopt such rules and regulations for the conduct of its business as shall be necessary.

It was further resolved that a committee consisting of J. Bond Smith and Emory H. Bogley be constituted to draft the form for the election of the representatives and that the federation committee should have control of the situation until the commission functions.

Plans for the annual spring meeting of the chamber at which the Maryland delegation to Congress and county officials will be honor guests were discussed at a meeting of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce last night at the Kensington School. The meeting is to be held May 25 at the school and is in charge of the publicity and entertainment committee headed by H. G. McGinness. The chamber indorsed the annual drive for funds of the Social Service League which begins May 1 and were told of the purposes of the league and the distribution of the funds by W. I. Cleveland, president of the chamber, who also is Kensington chairman of the league drive.

Members of the chamber then were given a demonstration of television in which H. D. Appleby, vice president, spoke to the meeting by means of television from the Jenkins Laboratory at Wheaton. The picture of Mr. Appleby talking came clearly to the audience.

A resolution condemning alleged laxity in enforcing the laws regarding dogs running at large and objecting to the harboring of vicious and uncontrolled dogs, presented by J. E. Malcolm, of Capitol View was referred to committee for later action.

Mr. Malcolm said his 11-year-old son, James Malcolm, had been attacked in his own yard by a dog and severely injured and that he could get no cooperation from county authorities regarding the situation.

A jury in circuit court at Rockville was still considering evidence in the suit of William H. Fulks against his neighbor, Remus D. Riggs, of Laytonsville, Md., for damages of $6,000 at an early hour this morning. The case was given to the jury last evening. Hearing on the case started Monday morning.

Mr. Fulks alleges that his neighbor allowed a fire which he had set to burn over a patch of ground to spread to the Fulks property and burn down a barn and other equipment on September 2, 1930. A previous trial of the case was thrown out of court when it was alleged that members of the jury hearing it had discussed the case in public while it was in progress.

SUSPECT IN MURDER OF POLICEMAN HELD

Man Thought to Be Kid Lilly Arrested in Carolina for Alexandria.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

A Negro, believed to be "Kid" Lilly, wanted in Alexandria for the murder on June 20, 1929, of Police Sergt. Charles R. McClary, is being held by the authorities in Estill, S. C., according to a telegram received by the Alexandria police department. The telegram read: "Holding Kid Lilly for killing Sergt. McClary June 20, 1929. Have picture; gives name as Sam Singleton. Height 5 feet 8½ inches; weighs 180 pounds; age 39; complexion dark; medium build; small mustache; this part is exact description of photograph." The photograph referred to is one sent out to heads of all police departments by the Alexandria authorities.

In reply to a telegram asking for fingerprints of the suspect, Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims yesterday received a telegram reading: "Unprepared to take prints here. Am positive have right man. Send some one to identify him. Wire me when to expect them."

Sergt. McClary and Sergt. Sims, on the night of June 20, 1929, went to a house at 525 North Patrick street, where McClary was killed by a man he accosted near the house. The murderer, believed to have been Kid Lilly, escaped. He is also wanted in Wilson, N. C., where he is alleged to have shot and killed Policeman Jack Sykes.

The committee in charge of the dedication exercises for the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple, which will take place in Alexandria on May 12, has received acceptances of invitations from 27 senators and 153 representatives. The congressional party will come to the memorial in special buses, which will leave the Capitol at 12:15 o'clock. They will be escorted through the streets of Washington by motorcycle policemen, and at the west end of the new Memorial Bridge they will be met by a detail of Virginia State police, who will escort them to the memorial grounds.

The invitation extended to President Hoover was accepted several months ago. Among the members of the Cabinet who will attend are the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of Labor.

Invitations have also been accepted by the following members of the Diplomatic Corps: George Boncescu and Andrei Popovici, of the Roumanian Legation; Dr. Horacio F. Alfaro, Minister from Panama; Dr. Adrian Recinos, Minister from Guatemala; Ahmed Muhter Bey, Ambassador from Turkey; Dr. Perdinand Veverka, Minister from Czechoslovakia, and Anching Kung, of the Chinese Legation.

The members of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, appointed by Congress to have charge of all celebrations in the United States, will attend in a body. Members of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, who will be holding their annual meeting at Mount Vernon, of which they have charge, at the time of the dedicaion, also will attend.

Francis H. Pannon has been elected president of the Alexandria Rotary Club, with Alfred Thomson, vice president; Herbert Cross, secretary, and Everett Swan, treasurer. New directors are C. Raymond Hellmuth and Henry T. Moncure. The new officers will be installed in June by the district governor.

John Garland Pollard of Virginia, will be entertained at tea in Gadsby's Tavern, Alexandria, the home of Alexandria Post of the American Legion, this afternoon, when a short talk will be delivered by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. The governors will come to Alexandria after a visit to Mount Vernon, and are expected to arrive at 4 o'clock.

John Barton Phillips is chairman of the men's reception committee, with Mrs. Elliott P. Hoffman chairman of the women's committee.

Frank Payne, 47, and John Brown, 22, who say they are from Alabama, arraigned in the Alexandria police court yesterday on a charge of forgery, were held for the grand jury.

It is alleged the men gave bad checks to a gasoline station proprietor and a drug store employe, each for $21.60. They were arrested in Camden, S. C., by Capt. L. A. Thomas, of the Southern Railway police force.

William Brown, 21, of Buffalo, N. Y., suffered severe burns yesterday morning while sleeping beside a fire he had built in the open at the plant of the Fruit Growers Express in Alexandria. The rescue squad of the Alexandria fire department was summoned and, after rendering first aid, took Brown to the Alexandria Hospital.

Faulty Warrant Ends Liquor Case

Man Taken After Raid Is Freed; Capital Autoist Fined on Rum Count.

A faulty warrant yesterday caused dismissal of charges of possession of liquor against Christ Compagna, when he was arraigned in Hyattsville police Court. Compagna's home in Greater Capitol Heights was raided on March 12, but he escaped and was not captured until April 21.

The warrant for his arrest charged him with possession on April 21 of the liquor seized more than a month before, and the case was dismissed on this ground. Earlier Judge J. Chew Sheriff had refused a motion to quash the warrant unless the raiding officers produced the letter which complained of Compagna's establishment and caused the raid.

David Miller, of Washington, was fined $101 for driving while drunk and reckless driving, although he testified he had had only near-beer to drink. "They sell strong beer in Baltimore, do they not?" Judge Sheriff asked him during the course of the case. Miller was arrested on the Baltimore boulevard, near Ammendale.

Herndon Lodge Meets Tonight.

The members of the Herndon Council, No. 28, Order of Fraternal Americans, will meet this evening in Wilkins Hall on Main street, to form a degree team. The regular meeting of the council will be held next Wednesday night, at which time 25-year membership certificates will be presented to eight members of the local order.

EASTERN 3-2 VICTOR OVER G. U. PREP

Pusateri's Hit Wins; McNamara Gives Only 2 Hits.

JOE PUSATERI'S solidly met single broke up a good game of baseball yesterday and elevated Eastern High to a 3-2 decision over Georgetown Prep in a game played at Eastern.

The Garrett Parkers had thrown a scare into the scalps of the high school champions, holding a lead of 2-1 with the end of the game in sight. McNamara's fine hurling let Eastern down to two hits, but a slight wildness and an error filled the bags with two out in the sixth and Pusateri came through with his opportune connection.

Bernie Phillips was given credit for winning the game. The big Easterner relieved Hale, who was hit on the head by a batted ball in the fifth after relieving Cleary. McNamara was the hitting power of his club, getting two safeties in that many accredited times at the plate.

BARRON AND SLOAT AT PORTNER'S

Bout Is Semi-Windup to Godwin-Phelps Go Monday.

HARRY "BEEBE" BARRON, flashy New York lightweight, under the direction of Joe Woodman, will meet Clarence Sloat, Baltimore's slugging 135-pounder, in the eight-round semiwindup to the Bob Godwin-Cowboy Owen Phelps go Monday night at Portner's Arena.

Sloat, a one-punch artist and a frequent visitor to local fight clubs, avenged a victory Whitey Saylor scored over him recently at Baltimore when he knocked the tow-head dead in one heat. Barron has been boxing around New York clubs for two years and is reputed to be a good prospect.

Buck Taylor, rugged little Baltimore lightweight, and Billy Essinger, local boy, clash in the main preliminary over a four-round distance.

K. O. Burns, Baltimore middleweight and Jimmy Britt, fighting Philadelphia boy, are down for another four-rounder.

Two more four-rounders remain to be closed out. Matchmaker Frank Mann announced last night that the winner of the Burns-Britt bout would be pitted against Young Van, sensational local middleweight.

Both Phelps and Godwin are quartered here for training for their eight-round go, which finds Godwin staking his Southern light-heavyweight title. Phelps is training at Fort Myer and Godwin at Frank Mann's.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

I GET me up at 5 a. m.
And find that it is 6;
At 6 it's 7, thanks to all
Those Daylight Saving tricks.

I shave at my accustomed time,
But am an hour late;
I rush to catch the 7:05,
And catch it just at 8.

I'm in the office, so I think,
At 9 upon the dot,
But by the clocks I find that I
Most certainly am not.

When I go out to lunch at noon
I find that it is 1,
And when I finish after 2
I see the rising sun.

I quit the job at 5 or so
And quickly homeward tear,
To find that it is only 4
When I arrive out there.

It should be night, but I can see
It really is the day,
For on the streets there are no lights
And children are at play.

The lowing herd that used to quit
The pastures for the shed
Now ambles by, not knowing that
It's time cows were in bed.

The night clubs open when it's light,
Though it should be quite dark;
And neckers get a coat of tan
On night trips through the park.

At dinner I wear evening clothes,
But feel a silly jay,
For don't I know that 8 p. m.'s
The middle of the day?

Perchance I call a taxicab
And go to see a play;
It's still so light I think I'm at
A kiddies' matinee!

At last there comes a sunset red—
I know it's late all right;
And when it sinks I know that I've
Been sitting up all night!

Firemen's Volunteer Status Held Periled

The Hyattsville Fire Department will lose its volunteer standing and its participation in the $15,000 given by Prince Georges County to the Volunteer Firemen's Association of the county if the ordinance to provide for direct control of the department by the town council is passed by the council, in the opinion of the executive board of the county association.

Holding that the essence of a volunteer department is that its members must be elected by those already in the unit, the board pointed out that the proposed legislation provides for members to be selected by the town council. The interpretation of the executive board is not official until it has been ratified by the advisory board, which will meet on May 11.

Liquor Search in Auto Is Ruled Unwarranted

Holding that prohibition agents who stopped an automobile in Rock Creek Park to warn the driver that she had passed a stop sign had no probable cause to arrest the woman, Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart yesterday refused to issue papers in the arrest of Mrs. Helen Brown, 43 years old, and her daughter, Betty Brown, 19 years old both of Annapolis.

Police said they found twelve bottles of alleged beer in the woman's car. However, they failed to convince Mr. Hart that they had reasonable cause to stop the car and search it.

Globe & Rutgers Directors Find It Desirable to Conserve Cash.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—The Globe & Rutgers Fire Insurance Co. has omitted the quarterly dividend of $5 a share on its stock due at this time.

In announcing the omission today the company stated that directors believe they can best serve the interest of stockholders by conserving cash.

The company has a prominent place in the group of five insurance companies, its present corporate existence dating back to 1890. In the last 22 years the company has paid annual dividends ranging from 14 per cent to 74 per cent on its par $100 stock, and has, in addition, paid numerous stock dividends.

Studebaker Omits Dividend.

Directors of the Studebaker Co., at their meeting today decided to omit the quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the common stock due at this time. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock was ordered, payable June 1 to stock of record May 10.

Omission of the common payment was expected, being foreshadowed by the remarks of A. R. Erskine, president of the company, at the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday.

This is the first omission of a Studebaker common dividend since 1915.

Standard Brands.

Standard Brands, Inc., in its report for the quarter ended March 31 shows net income of $4,017,657, after expenses, minority interest and Federal taxes, but before profit and loss items, equivalent to 30 cents a share on the common stock. This compares with $4,054,586 or 30 cents a share in the first quarter of 1931.

Bankers Object to Six Sections of Glass Bill

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 27 (A.P.).—The Glass banking bill was approved as a whole today by the executive council of the American Bankers Association.

The council, however, in voting indorsement, said that, except for one feature, there is no present need for the legislation. Six specific objections were made.

The lone need, as the group sees it, is the Federal liquidation corporation for closed banks. The bankers agreed with Gov. Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board that the Treasury should furnish the capital for the corporation, and member banks should not be "further burdened" with subscriptions to it from capital funds.

The council recommended elimination of provisions prohibiting banks of the Federal Reserve System from underwriting or distributing investment securities and opposed separation of security affiliates from member banks.

A stand was taken against provisions which would deprive State member banks of "their full charter and statutory rights" and against establishment of State-wide branches by national banks.

GOVERNMENT BONDS GAIN FRACTIONALLY

Other Groups Generally Steady but Activity Remains Restricted.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

New York, April 27 (A.P.).—Outside of United States Government issues, which generally retained a fractional advance, the bond market was unable to make any headway today.

For the third consecutive session the average for 60 corporate securities closed unchanged at 67.5. The activity was somewhat above that of yesterday, sales totaling $9,622,000 par value.

There was apparently nothing in the news that tended to influence prices. Little attention was paid by the Federals or other listed loans to the announcement that the Treasury would buy tomorrow $250,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation 2½ per cent notes. This transaction was viewed as purely a paper one.

Industrials Up Slightly.

While the utilities held their ground, and the industrials even advanced slightly, the railroads, for the most part, remained in the unpopular cloumn.

Some liens of Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan, Kansas City Southern, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Texas & Pacific firmed moderately. Weakness, however, was shown by bonds of Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago Great Western, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, St. Louis Southwestern, Southern Pacific and others.

Substantial gains were recorded by American International 5½s, Chile Copper 5s, Cincinnati Gas 4s, Federal Light & Traction 6s, International Telephone, Kansas City Power & Light 4½s, National Stele 5s, Paramount-Famous-Lasky 6s and some of the oil group. Both Pure Oil 5½s were up from 3 to 4½ points.

Curb Undertone Firm.

For the third consecutive day, the New York curb market displayed a firm undertone with moderately increasing volume. Transactions involved 150,000 shares, against 100,000 yesterday and 90,000 the day before.

Electric Bond & Share common went to its best levels on the recovery this week, touching 15½ and closing at 14⅝ for a net gain of ¾ point. The 6 per cent preferred was up 1¼ points. American Gas & Electric sold at 27½, up nearly a point for the day and about 7 points from its recent low.

Reduction of the Deere & Co. preferred dividend to 10 cents from 35 cents was apparently discounted previously. The common stock advanced fractionally to 6⅞.

While trading in the oil shares was quiet, the price tone was firm. Gains in the Standard Oil group ranged from fractions to as much as 1¾ points, which was recorded by Standard of Kentucky, which sold at 24½.

Montreal Light moved up 2½ points to 26. This stock appeared on the tape this week for the first time since England's departure from the gold standard. Trading was then suspended at the request of Canadian authorities.

PENNSYLVANIA R. R. DIVIDEND DEFERRED

Paid 50 Cents Per Share of Common for Preceding Quarter.

Philadelphia, April 27 (A.P.).—The Pennsylvania Railroad today decided to defer consideration of a dividend at this time.

Three months ago the Pennsylvania reduced its quarterly dividend to 50 cents a share.

The action did not come as a surprise as a note of warning had been sounded by directors following the January meeting when they announced "that in view of continued unfavorable conditions of railroad earnings, it is evident that the payment of dividends can not continue unless there is a marked increase in the company's income."

Dividend payments on the stock have been gradually reduced since the June, 1931, meeting, at which time the quarterly rate was cut from $1 to 75 cents. Directors again cut the rate when they declared a payment of 50 cents a share.

During the year 1931 stockholders received quarterly dividends aggregating 6½ per cent, the greater part of which had to be charged against surplus as the net earnings for that year were only slightly in excess of 2 per cent.

Lehigh R. R. Permitted To Borrow $1,500,000

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday authorized the Lehigh Railroad Co. to borrow $1,500,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a period of 3 years.

The money is to be used to pay interest due May 1 on the railroad's general consolidated mortgage bonds.

The commission required that the company give as collateral not less than $5,000,000 of its general consolidated mortgage 5 per cent bonds due in 2003.

MORE TROOPS LEAVE COAL STRIKE SECTOR

4,000 Ohio Miners Meet as Operators Renew Stand of Keeping Works Closed.

Columbus, Ohio, April 27 (A.P.).—The coal strike situation in the eastern Ohio field today was marked by the withdrawal of additional National Guardsmen from the area, a reiteration by operators that they had no intention of reopening the mines and a mass meeting of some 4,000 strikers at Bellaire.

Rumors that operators would move in concert to reopen the mines were disposed of by R. L. Ireland, jr., president of the Hanna Coal Co. He said the mine owners have no intention of reopening the workings until sufficient miners are willing to return to work. He expressed the operators' attitude since the United Mine Workers issued the strike call April 1 as one of "complete indifference."

The Bellaire mass meeting, presided over by John Cinque, president of subdistrict 5 of the union, adopted resolutions addressed to Gov. George White, protesting his action in sending troops into the region and claiming that the National Guardsmen had "shot innocent men."

Cinque told his followers that there was no necessity for the troops and that the governor, by using the military forces of the State, was protecting the operators against the union. He charged the soldiers were shooting "law abiding citizens" and claimed that William Kimbell, a striker who was killed during a disorder at the Somers mine, was shot down by a National Guard officer in spite of the fact he was violating no law.

Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson ordered 175 officers and men to return to their home stations, leaving about 250 officers and men in the strike field.

Moncada Regrets Deaths of Marines

Legation Here Expresses Sorrow of Republic for Three Slain.

President Moncada of Nicaragua, cabled the Nicaraguan Legation here yesterday the formal expressions of his sorrow at the death of the three American marines, who were ambushed and killed by followers of Sandino recently.

Dr. Luis Manuel Debayle, charge d'affaires of the legation made public the president's message yesterday and said that the feelings of the President were felt by the entire Nicaraguan people.

At the same time Dr. Debayle denied the reports that had been current sporadically, that he was going to return to Nicaragua, recalled by the president. It became known here yesterday that President Moncada intends to maintain the legation as it is at present constituted, and that he has the most complete confidence in Dr. Debayle, who has handled the delicate situation created by the departure for Nicaragua of the former Minister, Dr. Sacasa.

ARCHITECTS DECIDE TO MAKE PROBE INTO HOUSING PROBLEMS

Convention Is Opened With Address by R. D. Kohn, Institute Head.

GOLD MEDAL AWARDED TO STOCKHOLM EXPERT

Action for Rehabilitation of "Slums" Is Urged at First Session.

Declaring that the competitive and inadequately controlled process of house building is wasteful and productive of harmful social and economic results to the community, the American Institute of Architects yesterday authorized a scientific inquiry into the Nation's housing problems.

Acting on the report of the committee on economics of site planning and housing, the institute, on the opening day of its sixty-fifth convention at the Mayflower hotel, voted first that the unsound causes of "slums" be discovered and, second, that the economic measures to rehabilitate them be found.

The architects, with ten other bodies of professional men interested in similar lines, will scrutinize present and future plans for the development of Washington at a conference which will be held in the Mayflower Hotel tomorrow morning with the cooperation of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

Kohn First Speaker.

The convention proper was opened yesterday morning with an address by Robert D. Kohn, of New York, president of the institute, who declared that "housing that meets the needs of the lower income groups of the population of this country for which no adequate provision has ever been made is the aim of studies now being conducted by architects.

The gold medal of the institute, the highest honor bestowed by the architectural profession of this country, was awarded to Ragnar Ostberg, of Stockholm, Sweden, for "distinguished service to architecture,' it was announced. The medal has only been given ten times in the last 25 years.

Three major points of agreement were reached by an executive committee which took up the problems which will be discussed at tomorrow's joint conference. Horace W. Peaslee, second vice president of the institute, was chairman of the committee.

Definite Legislation.

These points provide that the development of Washington in its general plan should be in the hands of the ablest professional men so that it may express the highest in ideals of American art; that the employment of such men should be made possible by definite legislation, and that the full influence of professional and civic groups should be directed toward the accomplishment of this program and toward the appropriation of sufficient funds to obtain the best men for the work.

Ernest J. Russell, of St. Louis, presided at a session last night on the "Practice of Architecture During a Depression." Speakers and their topics were Dwight James Baum, of New York, "Farm Buildings;" Arthur B. Holmes, of New Jersey, "Consultation Service;" Merritt Harrison, of Indianapolis, "Repairs, Alterations and Maintenance;" Allen H. Kimball, of Ames, Iowa, "Small Structures," and William S. Parker, of Boston, and Clarence Levi, of New York, "Relief Measures."

Laws for Consultation On Park Projects Urged

Legislation which will allow the Government to consult with competent professional authorities on problems of engineering architecture and landscape architecture in relation to building and park projects in Washington was advocated last night by Henry Hubbard, head of the school of city planning at Harvard University and chairman of the board of trustees of the American Society of Landscape Architects.

Mr. Hubbard and the board of trustees of the organization met last night at the Lee House. A two-day special meeting of the group will open this morning there.

"Vacant" House Yields Still; Youth Is Arrested

A supposedly vacant house at 217 R street northeast last night yielded a small still and 19 gallons of peach brandy to Capt. J. W. Pearson, Lieut. J. W. McCormick and Privates P. G. Warren and F. R. Bernard, of the Fifth Precinct. Private Bernard, who remained concealed in the house later, arrested Martin F. Whelan, 19, of 1826 Lincoln road northeast, on a charge of investigation, according to police.

The still was dismantled and taken to the police station. Bernard hid in a closet, police say, and about an hour later Whelan entered with a key and was placed under arrest.

They are Rubin Hughes and Charles Hughes. The third man has not been apprehended. Plowman was robbed of a small amount of money at the point of a pistol.

BEAUTIFYING DRIVE CHIEFS SEE PRIZES

Garden Contest Is Open to All in District and Nearby Communities.

A meeting of garden club presidents, Department of Agriculture officials and others interested in horticulture, was held yesterday in the office of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission with a view to beautifying residential yards and lawns.

Dr. George C. Havenner, executive vice president of the commission, presided. Plans were outlined by Dr. Havenner, Mrs. Lillian Wright Smith, director of the District Bicentennial Commission's bureau on yard beautification, and Mrs. James Carroll Frazer, of the United States Bicentennial garden committee.

Post Donates Trophy.

Trophies that will be awarded for the best gardens and yards were displayed at the meeting, of which nine were cups donated by The Washington Post, the Washington Herald, the Evening Star, Gude Brothers Co., A. Eberly's Sons, Inc., National Benefit Life Insurance Co. and the Try Me Taxicab Co. In addition to these prizes, 25 medals and cash prizes will be awarded.

The garden contest will be open to all communities in the District of Columbia and in the four communities of Montgomery and Prince Georges, Md., and Fairfax and Arlington, Va. In the District a community is deemed to include that area represented by a Citizens Association, and in the counties the term "community" will be defined by the garden contest judges in each respective county.

Judging in September.

The judging will be done during the first two weeks of next September. Front yards, side yards, back yards and parking in front of each property will be judged, but the size and value of the house will not be considered. Each street in a community will be considered a unit and the community will be judged as a whole after the streets are scored.

Among those who were present at yesterday's meeting and who participated in the discussions were: Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, chairman of the national Bicentennial garden committee; Mrs. James Carroll Frazer, of the same committee; Mrs. Daniel G. Davis, Chevy Chase, District of Columbia Garden Club; Mrs. J. Douglas Rollow, Wesley Heights Trowel Club; Mrs. Parker Dodge, of Chevy Chase, Md., Garden Club; Dr. W. R. Beattie, director of the horticultural division, Department of Agriculture; Mrs. P. C. Alexander, Bethesda Community Garden Club; Mrs. F. C. Haskell, representing the Woodridge Garden Club; Mrs. B. T. Elmore, president of the Rockville Garden Club; Mrs. Aubrey B. Carter, of the Chevy Chase Terrace Suburban Garden Club; Mrs. G. W. Moser, president of the Burleith Garden Club, and Miss Emma Perley Lincoln, publicity director of the United States Bicentennial Commission garden committee.

Fake Solicitors Seek Funds for Sanitarium

The District Commissioners yesterday issued a statement warning all Washingtonians from contributing money to help build the Children's Tuberculosis Sanitarium or a new tuberculosis hospital.

The statement explained that the Association forf the Prevention of Tuberculosis had received complaints from several citizens that men posing as solicitors for the hospitals had obtained cash donations. The Commissioners advised persons so solicited to call police and report the instance.

Holdup in Car Panhandler's Thanksgiving

An attempt to be a good Samaritan almost cost T. Worth Jamison, jr., Baltimore architect dearly, he told police last night. Mr. Jamison was in Washington for the meeting of the American Institute of Architects and was on his way back to Baltimore when a man he had befriended held him up in a taxicab and took his personal effects and $30 in cash.

The man was later captured by the taxicab driver and Mr. Jamison's property recovered, according to police.

Mr. Jamison had walked from the Mayflower Hotel to Fifteenth and F streets and was about to hail a cab to the Union Station for a return trip home when he was approached by a man. The fellow told him a hard luck story about attempting to return home to York, Pa., and Mr. Jamison gave him 25 cents, he said.

The architect said he then offered to give the man a lift as far as the station and he accepted. At North Capitol and A streets, he said, the man pulled a knife and told him to hand over his property. Jamison gave him his gold watch and chain, ring, gold cigar lighter, fountain pen and $30 in cash.

Then the man ordered the cab to stop and leaped out and ran. Joseph J. Smith, the taxi driver, started to move off, but Mr. Jamison stopped him and hurriedly explained the situation. They parked the cab and summoned Pvt. H. F. Elliott, on duty at North Capitol street and Massachusetts avenue.

A bystander told the trio the direction in which the man had disappeared. Smith is said to have sighted him hiding behind an automobile, and putting his hand in his coat pocket as if he had a pistol, ordered the man to come out.

The alleged holdup man surrendered to the taxicab driver meekly enough, and Pvt. Elliott, who had come up, placed him under arrest. Police said they recovered Mr. Jamison's property at the police station. The man under arrest gave his name as Patrick H. Newsome, 23 years old, of 944 New York avenue northwest.

HENRY QUIZ FINISHED BY CORONER'S JURY

Gambler Met Death "At Hand of Person Unknown," Is Verdict Returned.

While police vainly sought clews as to the identity of the slayer of Milton Henry, local gambler, a coroner's jury yesterday brought in a verdict in Henry's death as resulting "at the hand of a person unknown."

Detective Sergt. John Dalglish, of the headquarters homicide squad, said the investigation of police so far had been unsuccessful. With numberless theories, it was said, no direct line as to Henry's slayers had been discovered.

George Seitz, of 3508 Sixteenth street northwest, was one of the chief witnesses. He said the killer was "stout and very dark skinned."

Seitz said the murderer came around the corner of Meridian and Brown streets northwest with the gun on his shoulder. A car, Seitz said, was waiting at the nearby corner of Meridian street.

Seitz said he was unable to give the exact license number of the waiting car. He said they were New Jersey tags.

Carpenters Plan Scale-Cut Session

Meeting Is Set Tomorrow; Labor Official Raps Builders' Action.

Union carpenters, at a meeting of their district council tomorrow night, will decide what action they will take on the wage slash announced by the Master Builders Association.

A pay cut of $3 per day, announced Tuesday after a meeting of the building group, was said to be necessary effectively to carry on building operations in competition with out-of-town concerns. A tremendous decrease in construction work made imperative some form of financial relief, the builders asserted.

Among labor representatives the wage reduction was said to indicate a corresponding slash in pay in every branch of the construction industry. One labor official declared yesterday that "the employers are joining the ranks of the unemployed. Continuance of the present conditions in the building industry will mean that many of the smaller fellows in the subcontracting game will soon face bankruptcy." The sweeping reduction in salary he termed as ridiculous, because some of the carpenters affected have not had three days work in nine months.

Worry at Meal Time Held Big Detriment to Health

Dr. Carl A. Wilzbach, executive secretary of the Cincinnati Social Hygiene Society, yesterday told members of the Lions Club that worry is threatening to undermine the health of the American business man.

"Never sit down to a meal when you are worried," he said. "It is better to avoid the meal altogether than to eat a big dinner when you are depressed," he warned. He said that worry at meal times breeds indigestion, stomach ulcers and other disorders. More people are in hospitals with ailments caused by mental stress than any other, he pointed out.

Dr. Wilzbach talked to secretaries of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday morning and the Y. M. C. A. Business Men's Club last night. He will speak at Western High School this morning and a group of young men at the Central Y. M. C. A. at 8:30 o'clock tonight. "A Community Program for Social Hygiene" will be the subject of his talk at the Y. W. C. A. this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

NYE PLEDGES HELP FOR GEORGETOWN FIGHT FOR LIBRARY

Senator Urges Citizens to Attend Hearings on Plan by Subcommittee.

SAVINGS PLEAS BLAMED ON SELFISH INTERESTS

Dr. Bowerman Says 62 Per Cent of Residents Here Without Facilities.

"It will be a distinct pleasure for me to help you win your library," Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, a member of the Senate District appropriations subcommittee, told the Georgetown Library Association at a mass meeting last night in St. Johns Parish Hall.

The meeting marked the opening of a final fight by the association to have an item of $75,000 for building of the library eliminated by the House District committee, reinserted in the District budget when the bill comes before the Senate subcommittee in the near future. Senator Nye's pledge of 100 per cent cooperation was greeted as the brightest sign on the horizon.

He urged the citizens to come before the committee in full attendance "and demand your just rights." He declared that while there is room for economy the cultural and educational interests must be spared.

Selfish Interests Blamed.

Senator Nye attributed the demands for reduction in expenditures to "selfish interests, aided by the most vicious and cowardly kind of propaganda." A great many of the demands for slashing, he said, are coming from persons who do not even pay an income tax.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner, said that the Commissioners "are particularly interested" in making the Georgetown branch library a realization, pointing out that the Commissioners have demonstrated this by keeping the item in the District budget. He advised the citizens to watch the bill closely after the Senate subcommittee is through with it, if the item is reinserted.

Dr. George F. Bowerman, District librarian, revealed that 62 per cent of the population of Washington does not have branch library facilities. He asked the citizens to aid other communities in getting branch libraries after they have received theirs.

Library Plans Displayed.

Preliminary drawings of the library, to be built on a site already acquired at Wisconsin avenue and R street were shown. A letter was read from Dr. Abram Simon, president of the board of trustees of the District Public Library, in which he expressed deep interest in the project, and urged as many citizens as possible to attend the hearings. Frank P. Leetch, who was present, also urged 100 per cent attendance.

Dorsey W. Hyde, chairman of the library association, presided, and reviewed the efforts advanced thus far in interest of the library. Three trustees of the District Library were present, Mrs. C. B. Swormstedt, Mrs. Mary M. Gasch and Maurice Otterback. Selections were rendered by the Western High School stringed quartet, under the direction of Miss L. G. Lynch.

Committee Favors Seven District Bills

Reports on Plumbing and Game Measures Are Ordered.

Seven District bills were approved yesterday by Representative Mary T. Norton's House District committee, which ordered favorable reports on measures regulating plumbing operations in the District, and making a bird and game refuge of the upper Potomac.

Other bills reported would permit the Gulf Refining Co. to run petroleum pipe lines into its plant, exempt Sons of the Revolution property from taxation, and close upper Water street southwest, to permit erection of an American Pharmaceutical Association headquarters building.

ALL SITES FOR NEW GAS TANK OPPOSED AT P. U. C. HEARING

NEW HOLDER'S BARRING IS SEEN AS POSSIBILITY

Expanding of Southeast Plant Is Alternative Proposed by Patrick.

The Public Utilities Commission spent the entire day yesterday listening to objections to all sites proposed as the location for the gas holder which the Washington Gas Light Co. has asked permission to construct in the northeast area.

When the hearing was adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, the commission was no nearer a solution of the problem than when the first hearing was held two weeks ago.

The possibility that the gas company may be barred entirely from the northeast section temporarily loomed yesterday afternoon when Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, asked Walter M. Russell, chief engineer of the utility, whether the southeast plant might not be expanded sufficiently to care for the needs of the northeast for a few years. Mr. Russell admitted that such an alternative is possible, but contended that it would be impractical.

Objections Voiced.

After John Nolen, jr., city planner of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, had outlined six sites for the gas holder, which he had surveyed, representatives of more than a half dozen citizens associations and of the several Catholic institutions in the area involved occupied the remainder of the day voicing their objections to the proposed locations.

The sites as suggested by the planning body in the order of preference or as "least objectionable from the point of view of their surroundings" follow:

(1) Near the Baltimore & Ohio terminal yards and southeast of Brentwood road; (2) in the Y between the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railway tracks and Queens Chapel road; (3) between Mount Olivet Cemetery and West Virginia avenue; (4) Riggs road and the B. & O. tracks (specified in the application of the gas company and formerly approved by the planning commission); (5) the Terra Cotta section, east side of the railway tracks; (6) the west side of the railway tracks, Terra Cotta section.

Outright Barring Seen Aim.

While there was some difference of opinion among the protesting parties regarding the preferences of the sites suggested, there was a unanimous desire apparent that the gas holder be barred from the entire Northeast section.

Mr. Nolan explained that the park body believed the site at Brentwood road and the B. & O. roundhouse and near Twelfth street was most preferable, because it is entirely surrounded by industrial developments.

Among the citizens associations represented at the hearing were Chillum Heights, Brightwood, Takoma Park, Michigan Park, Manor Park, and Park View.

Opposition to the proposed northeast sites for gas holders was expressed last night by the Rhode Island Citizens Association at a meeting at the Sherwood Church.

Police in Rum Car Battle, Radio Summons Their Aid

The Police Department's radio apparatus worked with its usual efficiency Tuesday night, but it availed Policemen W. S. Smoot and H. G. Renner little.

The two stopped an auto at Georgia avenue and Taylor street northwest, and immediately were precipitated into a fight with two occupants of the car. While the battle was on some one telephoned headquarters, and the Tenth precinct radio car was ordered to the scene. But the Tenth Precinct radio car was on the scene—and busily engaged.

The two policemen arrested George W. Lattison and William Dailey. They were charged with possession of liquor. Yesterday in Police Court the pair demanded jury trials.

Man Held for Jury in Shooting.

William H. Norwood, 26 years old of Rockville, Md., yesterday was arraigned in Police Court on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon and was held for grand jury action under a $3,000 bond. He was accused of shooting his wife, Thompsie Norwood, in the leg.
